Hatch Bill Approved By House, 243 to 122

Measure Sent Back to Senate For Concurrence In Minor Changes

The House last night approved by a vote of 243 to 122 the new Hatch bill to limit campaign expenditures and contributions and bar from "pernicious" political activity State or local employes partly paid from Federal funds.

More than 2,000,000 State and local Government workers are affected by the bill, it is estimated. Included in this figure are 14,000 employes of the District of Columbia, who will be forbidden to take active part in State or national campaigns. The Commissioners and recorder of deeds are exempt.

Federal employes may be permitted by the Civil Service Commission, however, to take part in county and municipal activities in areas of Maryland and Virginia near the National Capital or in other sections of the country where they constitute a majority of the voting population.

Goes Back to Senate

The measure, which is a second installment of the Hatch "clean politics" bill of 1939, must now go back to the Senate for action on House amendments.

The House vote came after five hours of heated debate and rejection of ten amendments, several of them designed to cripple the bill.

Three amendments offered by Representative Dempsey (Democrat), of New Mexico, House sponsor of the measure, were approved. They would make the law effective as soon as the President signs it, instead of on October 1, 1940, the date originally proposed; eliminate jury trials for employes dismissed for political activity, but permit appeals from such dismissals to be carried to appellate courts, and modify the restrictions on paid political advertising.

Campaign Funds Limited

The bill limits individual political contributions to $5,000 and forbid any contribution from firms receiving payment from Federal contracts.

Political parties would not be permitted to receive in contributions or spend more than $3,000,000 a year.

The House turned down by a vote of 120 to 84 an amendment offered by Representative Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, which would have made unlawful any political activity or contribution by officers or employes of public utility companies.

Representative Hoffman (Republican), of Michigan, offered an amendment to apply the act's restrictions to labor unions and their officers. The negative vote was 86 to 50.

Denounced as "Sabotage"

A "test run" for the bill itself came when Representative Duncan (Democrat), of Missouri, proposed an amendment to make ineligible for a Federal appointment any person who had taken part in or contributed to a political campaign within the previous 18 months. It was voted down, 104 to 44.

Representative McCormack (Democrat), of Massachusetts, acting presiding officer, ruled that an amendment by Representative Geyer (Democrat), of California, to outlaw State poll taxes was "not germane."

General debate on the bill was concluded with an emotion-charged appeal from Representative Sumners (Democrat), of Texas, "not to send out to the world the judgment of this Congress that your States cannot be trusted to preserve the purity of their own elections."

Sumners is chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, which tabled the bill by a secret ballot May 1. In a second ballot May 29 the committee voted 16 to 7 to send the measure to the floor.

Senate Votes Authorization For World's Greatest Navy

President Pledges U. S. Won't Fight On European Soil

Responding quickly to a plea by President Roosevelt that "total defense" be provided for the United States, the Senate late yesterday voted for the greatest Navy in world history.

Without a dissenting vote and after only an hour's consideration, the chamber approved a $4,500,000,000 authorization measure which will give the Nation a "two-ocean" Navy by 1947.

Earlier in the day, the President asked the Congress to vote an additional $4,848,171,957 for defense, bringing the total to be set aside for the Army-Navy next year to approximately $10,000,000,000. In requesting this unprecedented total, Mr. Roosevelt pledged:

"We will not use our arms in a war of aggression; we will not send our men to take part in European wars."

Warning of "grave danger to democratic institutions" that is increasing from "week to week and almost from day to day," the President added:

"The principal lesson of the war up to the present time is that partial defense is inadequate defense. If the United States is to have any defense, it must have total defense.

"We cannot defend ourselves a little here and a little there. We must be able to defend ourselves wholly and at any time. Our plans for national security, therefore, should cover total defense. I be-

Roosevelt's Defense Moves

President Roosevelt yesterday drove forward in his programs for meeting international and domestic problems with these steps:

SENT a message to Congress for an additional $4,848,171,857 for defense, and declared "we will not send our men to take part in European wars."

INDORSED, in effect, a system of selective training that would place contemplated war material "in the hands of troops trained, seasoned and ready . . ."

WORKED OUT an agreement with Congressional and Treasury tax experts which, under the proposed excess profits tax, would encourage construction of emergency plants and replace present profit limitations on naval and aircraft construction.

WATCHED, in his office, the swearing in of Col. Henry L. Stimson, his Republican appointee to be Secretary of War.

FORCED A DELAY of at least 60 days in the calling of a strike of 30,000 Railway Express Agency employes.

Grand Jury Will Probe Sand Strike

Inquiry Asked To Cover 'Legality Of Monopoly' Controlled by Firm

A grand jury investigation of the "legality of the monopoly controlled by the Smoot Sand & Gravel Corporation" and of the strike of its 250 employes will be started "within the next few days," Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold declared last night.

The announcement from the Justice Department's antitrust division head came a short time after negotiators predicted settlement of the strike "sometime Thursday."

Arnold revealed the step to be taken in a reply to a letter from Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody asking for "an investigation of the sand and gravel situation in Washington which is resulting in a complete tie-up of Government construction." Arnold declared:

"The seriousness of the situation warrants immediate grand jury investigation. Two questions are presented. The first is the legality of the monopoly controlled by the Smoot Sand and Gravel Corporation.

"Dangerous Bottleneck"

"The monopoly position of the corporation is responsible for circumstances in which the Government now finds itself. It constitutes a dangerous bottleneck which at any time may stop the entire building program in the city. It is significant that this is not the first time that the supply of sand and gravel has been choked off from construction projects within this area."

The second phase of the investigation, Arnold said, will cover "reasons" for the strike.

"This is particularly necessary," he said, "in a situation which involves thousands of persons not party to the dispute and which also ties up essential Government work in an emergency."

A joint "showdown" meeting of all parties concerned in the strike is scheduled for 10 a. m. today after both employe and employer groups consider settlement terms suggested last night by Labor Department Conciliators John Conner and Howard T. Colvin.

Airing Trade Restrains

Arnold pointed out in a letter to Carmody that the Department of Justice has been investigating Washington building trade restraints for some time. He said he was "already familiar with the sand and gravel situation in this city," and added:

"The immediate crisis is precipitated by the strike . . . Because this company controls a practical monopoly of the sand and gravel

Senate Seats Knox by Vote Of 66 to 16

Taft and Vandenberg Approve Nomination; Stimson Takes Oath

Completing action on the President's two Republican Cabinet appointments, the Senate yesterday confirmed by a vote of 66 to 16 the nomination of Col. William Franklin Knox as Secretary of the Navy.

The majority for Col. Knox, 1936 Republican Vice Presidential candidate, was 22 votes greater than for Col. Henry L. Stimson, who on Tuesday was approved, 56 to 28, as Secretary of War. Col. Stimson took the oath of office shortly before the Knox vote.

Only five Republicans, one Progressive, one Farmer-Laborite and nine Democrats voted against Col. Knox, while 17 Republicans, an Independent, and 48 Democrats voted for him. The Republicans approving the appointment included the recent Presidential candidates Senators Taft, of Ohio, and Vandenberg, of Michigan, both of whom opposed the Stimson nomination.

As most of the Senators who had anything to say on the two appointments had exhausted their speech-making tendencies during the debate before the Stimson vote, only a few addresses on the selection of Col. Knox were delivered yesterday.

Senator Lucas, of Illinois, candidate for the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination, ardently defended the Chicago publisher, while Senator Holt, of West Virginia, lame-duck isolationist, attacked the appointment as "dangerous" to the Nation.

But as the vote was a foregone conclusion, few Senators were on the floor to listen to the arguments on the one hand that the selection of Col. Knox represented an effort to establish national unity in a time of emergency, and, on the other, that his views would lead the country into war.

The isolationists never seriously thought they could block either appointment—and in any case Col. Knox's testimony before the Naval Affairs Committee was generally considered far less "interventionist" than Col. Stimson's before the Committee on Military Affairs.

Col. Knox will be sworn in at the White House at 11 a. m. today, with Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter administering the oath. Col. Stimson was given the oath by

Mexican Labor Militia Masses; War Feared

Violence Expected To Flare Today In Tense Capital

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

Mexico City, July 10.—Mexico's labor dictator, Vicente Lombardo Toledano, seeking to halt the "demoralization" of workers resulting from a show of strength by conservative forces in Sunday's Presidential election, ordered mobilization today of 30,000 militia men of the Mexican Confederation of Labor, for a show of might in Mexico City tomorrow.

At the same time the Mexican Revolutionary Party, many of whose members also are armed, announced similar plans, and it was learned that since 8 o'clock this morning "liberal quantities of firearms for self-defense" were being distributed among followers of the opposition. American and foreign observers, none of whom are regarded as alarmists, speculated openly tonight on the possibility of a civil war.

It seemed hardly a coincidence that the two main units behind the administration-sponsored candidate, Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, should choose Thursday for a demonstra-

D. C. Boy Drowns On Church Picnic At Kenwood Beach

A 17-year-old Washington boy was drowned yesterday at Kenwood Beach, Md., while picnicking with members of the Eldebrooke Methodist Church.

The youth, Samuel P. Lyle, jr., of 4435 Davenport street northwest, drowned in 4 feet of water, picknickers said, in sight of his parents. The body was recovered in 15 minutes, and efforts to resuscitate the boy were continued for more than three hours.

Lyle, an active member of the Epworth League, together with 75 members of the church, had been attending the annual outing at the Chesapeake Bay summer home of the Rev. Walter M. Michael, pastor.

Million in Defense Funds to Be Spent In District Area

Construction totaling $1,000,000 is scheduled at nearby Army and Navy posts under additional projects of the defense program announced yesterday.

Acting Secretary of War Louis Johnson announced that a $100,000 photographic laboratory will be constructed at Bolling Field under the lump sum appropriations of $67,304,931 for Army public works voted by Congress.

At the same time, President Roosevelt asked Congress to provide $755,000 for expansion of the naval powder factory at Indianhead, Md., and $145,000 for enlargement of the naval torpedo plant at Alexandria, Va.

'A Beautiful Landing'

Rothschilds Arrive in Clipper With $1,000,000 in Jewels

New York, July 10.—Baron Edouard de Rothschild of Paris, member of the famous banking family, accompanied by Baroness Rothschild, who carried a bag of jewels valued at $1,000,000, and their daughter, Bethsabee Rothschild, arrived today on the Yankee Clipper from Lisbon.

The baron, a slight and tired looking man of 70 years, shied away from reporters and refused to discuss politics, finance, economics or any other subject, except when he finally gave in and said he was "pleased to be back on American soil."

As reporters surrounded him the Baron finally said:

"It has been a glorious journey and it was a beautiful landing. I am very pleased to be back on American soil. I came over first in 1890 when I was quite young and now I am an old man. I went to New Orleans, Mexico, California, hunting in the Rockies, and to Chicago and Newport."

A reporter begged the baron to answer "just one question on economics."

"I know nothing about that," he replied, as he hurried into the cab.

The baroness, before entering another cab, left questioners with the brief statement that "we are over here for a rest and we are just going to stay a few months."

The Rothschilds entered the country on visitors' visas.

'Preparedness' Extends to Police At White House

White House police came on duty yesterday wearing brand new holsters for their 38-caliber revolvers, "a sign of the times," as one officer expressed it.

The new holsters, which hang lower than the old ones, make it easier to reach the gun in a hurry. The new equipment is just one of several steps recently taken to augment the protection of the President and the White House.

Guards said that next fall they expect to be issued new uniforms with Sam Browne belts. The new blouses will be of a close-fitting cut, giving the White House police a military appearance.

Italy Admits Loss Of Two Vessels In Chase, Says Foe Lost Some, Too

By the Associated Press

London, July 10.—The British navy tonight recorded as a "disappointing" chase the first round of important Mediterranean Sea warfare with Italy, but announced one of His Majesty's submarines had sunk an Italian submarine with torpedoes in a separate surface action.

As for yesterday's main engagement with the Italian battle fleet, an admiralty communique declared the enemy force was pursued "until our fleet were in sight of land, but unfortunately (the enemy) could not be overtaken before they were able to reach the shelter of their shore defenses."

The admiralty thus summed up the British score: One Italian battleship dented by a 15-inch shell; one Italian cruiser hit by an aerial torpedo; no casualties of any kind among the British; an Italian submarine sunk in a separate action by a British submarine.

Rome Admits Losses

[The Italians acknowledged heavier losses to themselves than the British mentioned, in recapitulating the results of two days of running and intermittent engagements in the Mediterranean, and asserted they had turned the British back from a threatened attack on important Italian coast positions.

[It was officially acknowledged in Rome that before the British fleet "gave up its objective" under heavy fire, the Italians had suffered:

[Loss of the 1,073-ton destroyer Zeffiro.

[Loss of a submarine and four warplanes.

[Against this, Italy's high command asserted a British destroyer had been torpedoed and sunk; that "some" British vessels had been "seriously damaged, with fires visible aboard," by bombing; and that hits were believed to have sunk a warship—"probably a battleship."]

See Another 1914

In supplement to the admiralty's communique, British navy circles said informally that the Italians had their best and biggest warships in the action, while the British had a battle squadron of older and slow ships.

"Italy's best," they commented, "is no match for our second best."

"Either we'll come to grips with their fleet and blow it out of the war, or they'll do what the Germans did in 1914—run to shelter and venture out only when they think our attention is distracted."

These circles said the Italian squadron included Italy's two newest battleships, the Vittorio Veneto and the Littorio, both 35,000 tons and each mounting nine 15-inch guns, twelve 6-inch guns and anti-aircraft weapons.

Besides these and lighter craft there was a third battleship of the Cavour class, built before the World War but modernized in 1936. The Cavour battleships, each 23,662 tons, mount ten 12.6-inch guns.

Italian Account Differs

[Italian sources said the British force included three battleships of the Barham (31,000-ton) class, one aircraft carrier, several cruisers and numerous destroyers.

[Against this, the Italians said their force included the 23,000-ton battleships Giulio Cesare and Conte de Cavour (built in 1911 but ex-

2 Navy Fliers Lost At Sea on Patrol Of Neutrality Zone

Two Navy fliers, one a former Naval Academy football star, died "somewhere in the Atlantic" in a crash while on neutrality patrol with the aircraft carrier Wasp, it was announced yesterday by the Navy Department.

The dead aviators are Lieut. Joseph I. Evans, 28, of Shamokin, Pa., and Hugh Wesley Reeder, seaman second class, of Dothan, Ala. Their bodies were not recovered, the Navy Department said.

Lieut. Evans was a star back with the Naval Academy gridiron team from 1932 to 1934.

The War Today . . .

OFFICIAL WARNING TO BRITAIN that invasion may come any time gives added importance to a gigantic German aerial stab at the Dover Straits, while sowing of mines from the Orkneys to Greenland emphasized Britain's fear of a Nazi attack on Ireland, which is reported to have choked off British offers of defense. In the Dover air battle Britain claims 37 Nazi planes downed or damaged, Germany claims sinking of nine ships, damage to a dozen more.

ANGLO-ITALIAN NAVAL WAR in the Mediterranean "disappoints" Britons; both sides claim victory but Britain denies Italy's claims of damage to British vessels, while Italy admits greater losses than Britain claimed.

Axis Reported Putting Brake On Hungary

Her Leaders Told at Munich Not to Upset Balkan Status Now

By the Associated Press

Munich, July 10.—Adolf Hitler and the foreign ministers of the Rome-Berlin Axis were reported tonight to have checked Hungary's ambition for further dismemberment of Rumania.

Premier Count Teleky of Hungary and his foreign minister, Count Csaky, here to discuss the demand that Rumania restore at least part of Transylvania, were said by informed German sources to have been told flatly that Hungary must not now upset the uncertain Balkan equilibrium.

Germany and Italy want to integrate Balkan economic resources into the 'new order in Europe," and so, in the Axis view, revisionist claims must be postponed, especially if they carry the threat of violence.

Soviet Russia's dissent from the status quo, already put into effect by occupation of Bessarabia, apparently represents the limit of revision which Germany and Italy will countenance in the Balkans until peace and a new order settles on

Turkey Calls Parley, Waits Stalin Demand

Ultimatum May Ask Share in Control Of Dardanelles

By the Associated Press

Istanbul, July 10.—Military preparations were speeded in Turkey tonight following a call by the government for an emergency session of the National Assembly Friday to consider demands Russia is expected to make on Turkey.

Although officials denied receiving any ultimatum, all quarters believed a Soviet note would come within a few days, making known Josef Stalin's desires as regards Turkey—possibly asking a share in control of the strategic Dardanelles.

The Russian Ambassador to Turkey, who has gone home on a visit, is due to arrive at Moscow Thursday and it is thought likely that Stalin would make known his intentions shortly thereafter.

Reports Bulgaria might order general mobilization Thursday added to the tension. It was believed such a step would be followed immediately by military and civil mobilization in Turkey, which already has 800,000 men under arms, and vast concentrations on the Bulgarian bor-

Four Swedish Warships Finally Run War Gantlet

Stockholm, July 10 (AP).—Four Swedish destroyers, purchased from Italy, entered Swedish waters this morning after a strange three-month odyssey through war-roughened waters.

The destroyers were seized June 20 off the Faroe Islands by a "strong British naval detachment" and taken to a British port.

Their release was effected after a Swedish protest. Britain agreed to pay for damages.

On July 8, four bombs were dropped as the ships proceeded off the Norwegian coast, but no hits were made. The British government expressed regrets, saying the action was a mistake.

Canada Calls For Thousands Of New Recruits

Ottawa, July 10 (AP).—A call for "many thousands" of men for Canada's armed forces within the next three months was sounded tonight by Air Minister C. G. Power in a radio broadcast.

Defense Minister J. L. Ralston declared earlier that Canada needs 40,000 additional men for the Canadian Active Service Force to bring its strength at home and overseas up to 150,000 men.

The defense minister told Commons "a very large body (of troops) will be proceeding overseas very shortly," that there now is room for "nearly 40,000" more men and that "every soldier who can be sent will be sent."

Senator 'Very Glad'

Nye Exonerates 'Higher-Ups' Of Instigating FBI Inquiry

Senator Gerald P. Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, last night said he was "very glad" that the FBI had investigated his alleged "pro-Nazi connections."

"Otherwise, the situation might have proven very embarrassing to me," he declared.

The Senate isolationist leader exonerated "Administration higher-ups" of having instigated the investigation. Nye said that Justice Department agents found his name in a document uncovered in a Nazi activity inquiry, and that the investigation of him followed as a matter of routine.

The North Dakotan revealed Tuesday he had been informed of the probe by Director J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director and a close friend of the Senator.

The investigation has revealed, Nye said, that "unauthorized persons" had been making use of his name and excerpts from his speeches in "fifth column propaganda."

Although he expressed belief that the investigation did not "involve provocation by any department or agent of the Government," Senator Nye added:

"I know deep in their hearts many people high in the Administration would like to intimidate pacifists and other opponents of the President's foreign policy. My interest has been to protect from attack innocent persons who are less able to defend their rights than members of the United States Senate."

Commons Told Assault Is Likely Any Time; Troops Keep Night Vigil

By the Associated Press

London (Thursday), July 11, England, on guard and ready, watched through the dawn today without any indication along the coastal no-man's land of the Nazi invasion which Commons was warned last night might come at daybreak.

Britons speculated whether this warning, by Sir Edward Grigg, undersecretary of state for war, was the authorized first word that the zero hour is near.

Most members of Parliament, however, took the statement as only an indication that Britain is ready and the next German move is awaited.

Eire Parleys Fail

There remains, however, one serious weakness in Britain's defense. The government was reported to have abandoned hope that an agreement could be worked out between Eire and Northern Ireland for defense of the island, which might be a stepping stone for invasion of England from the west.

Britain was understood to have fallen back on a plan to have available heavy reinforcements for Eire's small army, ready to rush to the Emerald Isle should necessity arise.

At the same time, the admiralty announced that Britain's northern sea flank had been strengthened by the sowing of mines from the Orkney Islands to Iceland, and from Iceland to Greenland.

Sir Edward Grigg told the House of Commons:

"Tonight thousands of our soldiers will be on the alert, waiting for an attack which may come in several places at dawn."

Earlier Foreign Affairs Undersecretary R. A. Butler declared in a broadcast that "complications in the European scene may develop which will draw the attention of our enemy away from us."

He spoke while the thunder of bombs and the rattle of machine-gun fire still signaled the greatest air fight of the war over England—an attack which Sir Edward said might be only a prelude to the worst.

38 Raiders Disabled

British battle planes and coastal guns drove the Germans off late in the day after shooting down or disabling 37 raiders.

Acknowledging the loss of two British planes, the air ministry reported that in incessant dogfighting throughout the day 14 German bombers and their guardian fighter craft, sprung at England from close-range bases in France and the Low Countries, were shot out of the sky. Another 23 were reported "so severely damaged that they were unlikely to reach home."

[The British said nothing officially of damage to ships, but Germany reported sinking of a British cruiser, a patrol boat, and seven merchantmen, totaling 47,000 tons, and the damaging of another cruiser and 13 merchantmen.

Claims Conflict

[The Germans said ten British and four German planes were shot down in the Dover battle; raised their estimate of British bomber losses at Stavanger, Norway, from 12 to 28 (the British admitted losing seven); and said seven more British bombers were downed at Amiens, France—a total of 45 British planes in two days.]

The raiders concentrated on breaking down coast defenses and smashing shipping out of the narrow straits of Dover.

The British said "a few persons" were killed by high explosives inland.

At times at least 150 planes battled simultaneously along the coast

Over the Coffee

By Harlan Miller

Washington, July 11.

F. D. R.'s MAIL: At the White House mail room they have counted during the last week 5,000 letters urging Mr. Roosevelt to run for a third term. He has been studying these letters, analyzing their source motivation.

Harlan Miller

But it may take more than letters. Some of his closest intimates, who spend many hours a day with him and have known him for many years, say it will take a nomination by acclamation at Chicago. Not that he's unwilling. But he isn't over-eager.

* * *

However, a White House insider has counseled a friend that a $1,000 bet that Roosevelt will be the nominee would be a good bet. The recent poll of 100 Washington newspapermen, with 71 convinced he will and 29 thinking he won't, was a surprise because as many as 29 thought he wouldn't.

* * *

SHY MRS. W. W.: About the public utterances of Mrs. Wendell Willkie there are two views here. A few are in a mood to welcome a shy backgrounder of a First Lady. But more women hope Mrs. Willkie won't overdo her shyness and her reverence for Wendell; bad for the sex, they say.

"—she's lavish with radios"

LION'S HAWKS: It's a caution what a variety of figures on the belligerent air fleets are tossed around on Capitol Hill, where they're supposed to get secret data. Latest figures bandied about are 22,500 German planes, 17,500 British planes. That's about twice the previous British figures. If true, invasion is no cinch.

* * *

FACIAL NOTES: After studying the portraits of several hundred Washington celebrities of the last 30 years, a few conclusions are inevitable. About half of them pose flamboyantly, with a maximum of oomph on tap. About 1 in 20 seems shy.

* * *

Many of those faces seem to be bluffing, hiding secrets, fearful of being found out. An amazing large proportion have boyish, immature faces, with the expression of 7-year olds, even in their sixties.

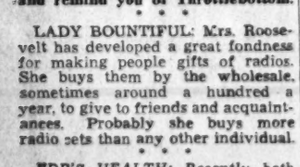
* * *

Only one in ten combs his hair in accordance with the precepts of the ads. Many of our statesmen cultivate theatrical or dramatic haircuts, with marcels, pompadours or other histrionic effects.

* * *

Few take their baldness gracefully; they try to fluff their hair up, or spread it thinly across the scalp, or bring it down spuriously across the bald temples toward one eye . . .

Big jawed men with furtive eyes are frequent. Here and there an idealist's face shines out startlingly who made the grade through the welter of politics, only to find himself an innocent among the pirates.



"—as FDR and WW weigh in"

Many of the mighty have sad, disappointed or disillusioned faces. Only a few appear to have discovered any real satisfaction in the hard-sought privilege of helping govern the Republic, to judge by their eyes and their facial lines. And the Vice Presidents almost unanimously look wistful, neglected and remind you of Throttlebottom.

* * *

LADY BOUNTIFUL: Mrs. Roosevelt has developed a great fondness for making people gifts of radios. She buys them by the wholesale, sometimes around a hundred a year, to give to friends and acquaintances. Probably she buys more radio sets than any other individual.

* * *

FDR'S HEALTH: Recently both friends and foes of the President have expressed concern about his health on the eve of the Democratic Convention. At the White House these expressions are greeted only with indulgent smiles.

* * *

The truth is that both his health and is spirits are in excellent condition. The nomination of Willkie hasn't bothered him nearly as much as it has bothered some of his palace guards. There were suggestions that Dr. Ross McIntire issue one of his periodic statements that F. D. R. is as healthy as an ox. But his aides decided not to bother.

Wendell Willkie's Namesake Thriving

Wendell Willkie Weiner is two weeks old today.

The baby, who was born a few hours after his namesake received the Republican nomination for President, is doing nicely, his doctor reported yesterday.

Little Wendell weighed 2 pounds 11 ounces at birth. He is in an incubator at the Columbia Hospital, and is still receiving oxygen.

The child is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard B. Weiner, of Arlington, Va. Mrs. Weiner also was reported doing well.

Roosevelt Backs Principle Of Training Bill

Judge Clark Flies To Capital to Plead For Measure

President Roosevelt yesterday indorsed in principle the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill as two Congressional committees heard a host of witnesses approve and attack the measure.

The Senate Military Affairs Committee listened to representatives of peace and student groups oppose conscription as bringing "Hitlerism" to America, while the House Military Affairs Committee began consideration of the measure.

Judge William Clark, of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, Newark, N. J., made a dramatic appearance before both groups, flying down to advocate passage of the measure. Now taking Army training at Plattsburg, N. Y., he was still attired in uniform. He strongly defended compulsory military service as democratic rather than "totalitarian."

Lodge Offers Substitute

Meanwhile, Senator Lodge (Republican), of Massachusetts, and a captain in the Reserves, introduced a substitute conscription measure on the eve of his departure for military training camp. His bill would require registration of all men between 21 and 25 and draft by lot to bring the Regular Army to 750,000 men.

Among the opponents of the measure testifying before the Senate group was Eugene Morris Lerner, president of the 1940 class at George Washington University. He declared the use of the same military methods used by Germany and Russia would "destroy democracy," and to bolster his argument against "militarism," declared that section 2000-25 of the Army training manual in effect from 1928 to 1932 opposed democracy, defining it as "mobocracy."

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, clashed repeatedly with Senator Minton (Democrat), of Indiana, over Libby's statements in opposition to the bill.

"Treason," Says Minton

Libby said the bill "is going to fill our jails with hundreds of thousands of young people who will have to choose between their religion and patriotism." Independence and freedom, he declared, "will not come by military conscription."

"It might go by military action," snapped Minton.

When Libby declared that there existed a higher loyalty than to this country—loyalty to God, Minton declared this "treason."

C. S. Longacre, general secretary of the Religious Liberty Association of America and Representative of the Seventh Day Adventists, Takoma Park, Md., urged that members of his faith not be put in fighting units. He said 300 had already been enrolled in medical corps noncombatana training courses.

Two representatives of the Catholic Worker of New York City, Dorothy Day and Joseph Zarella, opposed the bill as the "beginning of revolution" and "as violating the fundamental precepts of the Catholic Church as laid down by numerous leaders."

Mrs. Ernest William Howard, of the District Federation of Women's Clubs, appeared to give the group's support of the measure, and declared that "as a Catholic," she would like to have her 12-year-old son go into training tomorrow.

Showing of Nazi War Films Stirs Furore on Capitol Hill

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

July 6, 1940

My dear Colleague:

Motion pictures showing the advance of the German Army into Belgium and other countries will be shown in the caucus room, Old House Office Building, Tuesday night, July 9, at 8:15 o'clock. ONLY SENATORS AND MEMBERS OF CONGRESS WILL BE ADMITTED. Employees of the House, who know the Senators and Representatives, will be at the doors of the caucus room to admit them.

These motion pictures will realistically present warfare, using modern war machinery, as it has been going on recently in Europe. Therefore, I don't believe a member of the Senate or House should fail to be present.

Very sincerely,

Ross A. Collins

Ross A. Collins, M. C.

P. S. I urge you to give no publicity to the showing of this motion picture. R. A. C.

FOR MEMBERS ONLY—A copy of the invitation which members of Congress received for a showing of a motion picture depicting Germany's invasion of the Low Countries. The secret showing created a mild uproar on Capitol Hill yesterday

Movie Depicting Lowlands Invasion, Sponsored by Rep. Collins, Called 'Propaganda' and 'Warmongering'

The secret showing of what appeared to be an official German motion picture showing Nazi invasions into Belgium and the Low Countries of Europe created a mild uproar on Capitol Hill yesterday and threatened to boomerang against proponents of mechanized military equipment.

Representative Ross Collins (Democrat), of Mississippi, who sponsored the show, was not present Tuesday night when about 175 members saw the picture in the House caucus room. He was called to Mississippi, and yesterday he was en route back and not available for comment.

Colleagues of Collins pointed out that for years he has insisted that machines are of more importance than men in modern warfare and that it was obviously his intention to illustrate his theory by showing the Nazi successes.

The origin of the film was not explained although it was learned that Collins first saw it at a private showing in the War Department.

Some of the members who attended the Capitol show called it "propaganda" and "warmongering" and expressed resentment that they had been invited to it. Others merely said they were disappointed and that the film didn't come up to American news reels.

Representative Johnson (Democrat), of Oklahoma, who introduced the movie in Collins' absence, in a formal statement said:

"Congressman Collins, in calling the meeting, desired to render the members of Congress a service in bringing to them whatever information on mechanical warfare the films might portray.

"When he could not be present last night, I made the announcement that he was unavoidably detained and announced that it was my understanding that the films were official German films. I am sure that all members present understood that was their origin.

"Personally, the films were disappointing to me in the amount of information they revealed since they were clearly edited for German home consumption. I have seen much better ones in current news reel releases.

"But I am sure that the members of Congress, which is appropriating almost $10,000,000,000 for national defense—much of this for airplines and mechanical units—wants to know everything possible about experiences in actual warfare.

"Regardless of origin, members of Congress are anxious to have all information possible on modern warfare. One thing was clear from comment I heard after the showing of the picture and that was that the United States must have only the latest and most effective mechanical armament."

Collins, in his letter to members of Congress, stated the showing was "only for Senators and members of Congress" and asked that no publicity be given to the affair.

"The motion pictures will realistically present warfare, using modern machinery, as it has been going on recently in Europe," the letter stated.

Representative Starnes (Democrat), of Alabama, a member of the Dies Committee, declared the film was "pure propaganda, and I'd like to know whose."

Representative Reed (Republican), of New York, recalled that a picture of the German invasion of Poland was shown to members of the Norwegian Parliament shortly before the Nazi invasion of Norway.

"The fact that this picture was made available by one of the totalitarian governments at this particular time," he added, "looks to me like there is too close a connection between the warlords and warmongers who stand to share the fruits of appropriations that result from the showing of such pirctures as this."

Representative O'Toole (Democrat), of New York, said the film was "purely German propaganda," and added, "I can't understand why we were invited to see it. I don't know whether the reason was to instill in our minds the glory and efficiency of the German military machine or put fear in us. It reminded me of the showing of a film of the German invasion of Poland to members of the Norwegian Parliament just before Hitler's forces took over that country."

House Votes Marine, War Risk Insurance

Approves $40,000,000 To Establish System Under Maritime Board

By the Associated Press

Acting with extraordinary speed, the House yesterday voted $40,000,000 to establish under the Maritime Commission a Government-underwritten system of marine risk and war risk insurance.

The bill was passed by unanimous consent and without debate, which sped it along to the Senate for expected early action.

The House trimmed the original request of the Maritime Commission for $50,000,000 with the explanation that it considered $40,000,000 ample to start the fund and that further amounts could be provided if needed. Premiums and operating revenue also will go into the fund.

The insurance plan is modeled after the war risk insurance act of the World War, under which over $2,000,000,000 in marine insurance was written, and from which the Government realized a net profit of $17,500,000.

The system, commission spokesmen explained, is designed as a "buffer" against any inability of the private insurance market to meet the demands of commerce, and will not be used to compete against private underwriters.

Testimony on the enabling legislation disclosed that approximately half of the domestic marine insurance business was reinsured abroad, principally in London, and any breakdown in the world market would react critically to American commerce.

The system permits the commission to insure marine risks directly when insurance is not available at reasonable rates in the private market, and to reinsure its risks in the private market, or to reinsure risks assumed by private underwriters, thus affording a three-way protection.

Sirens Blare As Firemen Cavort in Md.

1,200 Join in Frolic As Sessions Open In Lonaconing

By the Associated Press

Lonaconing, Md., July 10.—A carnival spirit prevailed here tonight as 1,200 frolicking firemen joined in the fun marking the opening of the Maryland State Firemen's Association's three-day convention.

Merrymakers in garish costumes cavorted through the streets in a Mummer's parade while hundreds of spectators stood along the line of march watching their antics.

The streets resembled scenes from a miniature Mardi Gras. Firecracker explosions and the piercing blasts of sirens reverberated through the mountains, while Main street was closed to traffic to make room for the merrymakers.

Tomorrow the firemen will get down to business and elect a president to succeed the incumbent, Percy S. T. Reinwall, of Easton.

Two presidential candidates were actively campaigning tonight. They were Roland Duke, of Leonardtown, and Donald Wilson, of Barton.

Willkie Dinner Bandit Hunted

"Mr. Adams, of Roanoke, Va.," was still at large last night despite extensive police efforts to find him.

He is the man who "crashed" a private dinner for Wendell Willkie, "for the speeches," and stayed long enough afterward to bind, gag and rob Representative Harold Cluett (Republican), of New York, of $100.

The robbery took place at the Willard Hotel Monday night, when the bandit cowed the Congressman with a "Lone Ranger" cap pistol.

The stranger, Cluett said, accompanied him to his room after the dinner, pushed him inside, drew the gun and bound him with sheet strips.

Wheeler Lauds Defense Message; Chance of Isolationist Split Fades

Declaration Means Insertion of Plank He Seeks, Senator Says

Any likelihood of a noninterventionist split away from the Democratic Party apparently disappeared yesterday as Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, who had threatened such a bolt, applauded President Roosevelt's declaration that American troops never would be sent to Europe.

The declaration, Wheeler declared, "means that there will be inserted in the Democratic platform a plank that I have been insisting on."

At the same time Wheeler and the Secretary of Agriculture turned guns on the Republican platform—Wheeler because it contains no such pledge as the President gave in his defense message yesterday, and Wallace because he said it contains a promise to eliminate "essential" crop control features.

Wheeler Still a Candidate

Wheeler, who had threatened to leave the party if it should become a "war party," insisted that he is "positively and definitely" a candidate for the Presidential nomination, "provided the President does not announce his intention of seeking a third term." Previously, the Senator had said his name would go before the convention next week irrespective of Mr. Roosevelt's decision.

"Of course he can have the nomination if he wants it," Wheeler said, "and there would be no use in offering my name."

Wallace told a National Conference of State AAA Officers that the farm policies advocated in the G. O. P. platform, if put into effect, would result in a breakdown of the farm program.

Sees Danger in State Control

"The Republican platform," he said, "went far toward indorsement of the present program. If, however, it were administered on a State basis as provided in the platform, it would result in a breakdown of the whole farm program."

He said the "same forces" which drafted what he called the "poisonous" Republican plank also chose Senator McNary of Oregon to be the Vice Presidential nominee as "bait for the farm vote."

He expressed the "greatest affection" for the Vice Presidential nominee and said that "I am sure the Senator, in his campaign, will behave himself in a statesmanlike manner in regard to agriculture."

He said, however, that if McNary was elected he might find himself powerless to help farmers.

A strangely quiet pre-convention week brought few other political developments here.

Herring to Open Headquarters

Senator Herring (Democrat), of Iowa, said he would open headquarters at Chicago tomorrow in his campaign for the Vice Presidential nomination. He listed as among Democrats active in his behalf former Assistant Attorney General Joseph Keenan; Ray Murphy, New York insurance executive and former Iowa insurance commissioner and American Legion commander; Justice Richard Mitchell, of the Iowa Supreme Court; George Key, Oklahoma City; Ray Files, of Los Angeles, formerly of Fort Dodge, Iowa; Mark McKee, Detroit and Pasadena; Gov. David Scholtz of Florida, and Frank Pollick, Pittsburgh businessman.

On the other hand, Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri took himself out of the Vice Presidential race in a statement saying "I am absolutely not a candidate for any office but United States Senator."

Political interest was aroused by a night visit of Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago to the White House. Kelly has been so enthusiastic third-term booster. However, Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said the mayor had called to see Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, and "that's all there was to it."

President to Run, Chicago Hears

By the Associated Press

Chicago, July 10 (U.P.).—The international executive board of the United Automobile Workers of America, second largest affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, tonight adopted unanimously a resolution urging President Roosevelt to run for a third term and, "if necessary," that he be drafted by the Democratic National convention.

The resolution was in direct contrast to recent statements by John L. Lewis, C. I. O. head, who repeatedly has denounced the idea of a third term and who predicted that should the President run again he would be defeated "ignominously."

The U. A. W. resolution said that "neither the platform nor the candidate by the Republican Party deserves the support of labor."

President to Run, Says Kelly

Chicago, July 10.—The unanswered question of President Roosevelt's third-term plans dominated Democratic preconvention conversation today, with an obviously large majority predicting he would be a candidate.

Asserting what manifestly was a general view, two State leaders, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago, and Frank McHale, of Indiana, expressed the opinion the President would run again. The former had just returned from a White House visit.

"Anyone nominated in times like these has got to accept the nomination whether he wants it or not," the mayor asserted at a press conference.

Kelly, moreover, was of the opinion that Postmaster General James A. Farley would continue as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to which Farley replied at a press conference that his "situation was unchanged."

Foe of Third Term

The chairman is a foe of the third term, a candidate himself, and his associates have said he would withdraw if Mr. Roosevelt accepts the renomination.

With the possible exception of Kelly, Farley is, moreover, the only man in town who knows the Nation's number one secret—whether the President will run. The predictions made by others were based upon their analysis of the situation confronting the party—or even upon what they hope may happen.

At his press conference, Farley said Senator Wagner (Democrat), of New York, platform committee chairman who is expected in the city soon, would hold a preliminary meeting of the committee on Friday and that 16 committee members have signified their intention of being present.

Charles Michelson, publicity man for the national committee who sat beside Farley, was asked in a jocular way, whether he had written Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance speech yet, and in the same vein he replied:

"I have three speeches in my pocket, and I don't know which one I'll pull out."

Young Opposes D. C. Gas Tax Rise

Commissioner John Russell Young yesterday opposed a proposed increase in the gasoline tax for the District, "especially if it entails diversion of tax revenues from highway purposes."

The bill to raise the tax was introduced by Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee with a provision the extra money shall go to the District's general fund instead of the highway fund, used exclusively for road-building purposes.

U. S. Envoy Wins Favor In Greenland

Back With Word Our Interests There Are Safe for Present

America's first diplomatic envoy to strategic Greenland, dispatched after the occupation of Denmark, returned to Washington yesterday to report that the interests of the United States are secure "for the moment."

He is James K. Penfield, who went to the huge, icy Danish island—almost one-fourth the size of the United States—as American consul one month after German troops seized Copenhagen.

Populace Not Alarmed

The 17,500 residents of the rocky, fjord-cut territory showed "no apprehension" about the threat of Nazi domination, Penfield told The Post, adding:

"But there are a lot of people in Washington who are afraid of that development."

State Department fears, Penfield indicated, stem from the fact that Greenland is the world's only important source of cryolite, the white mineral "flux" that is vital to the extraction of aluminum from the ore. German control of the island would render helpless America's huge aluminum industry.

The strategic importance of Greenland, which commands the northern approach to America, rests partly in its vast, table-like ice cap, which has been called "the world's largest and finest natural landing field for airplanes."

Governor Guest Here

Penfield reported to State Department officials yesterday that his mission—transferring the economic dependency of Greeland from German-controlled Denmark to the United States—shows every sign of success.

He brought with him on the United States Coast Guard cutter Campbell the Governor of North Greenland Eske Brun, and a Greenland commercial commission.

Negotiations are afoot for increased American purchases of Greenland's $2,000,000 cyrolite production and American provision of clothing, lumber and foodstuffs for the island.

lieve that the people of this country are willing to make any sacrifice to attain that end."

The huge additional outlay, which includes $2,161,441,957 in cash and $2,686,730,000 in contractual authority, would provide additional ships for the Navy, arms for an Army of 2,000,000 men, and 19,000 warplanes for both services. This would give the Nation about 34,591 Army and Navy planes, about two-thirds of the 50,000 goal set earlier by the President.

"Isolationists" Rejoice

Congressional reaction to the new arms request was almost 100 per cent favorable and Chairman Woodrum of the House Deficiency Appropriation subcommittee said it will be taken up immediately when Congress reconvenes after the Democratic National Convention, July 22.

Some members who have accused the Administration of interventionist tendencies, hailed the President's declaration that no troops will be sent to fight in European wars.

"It's a great victory for the despised, so-called isolationists," said Senator Johnson (Democrat), of Colorado. "On this important day the noninterventionists welcome the President into our ranks."

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, also welcomed the statement and said it meant there would be a strong "nonintervention" plank written into the Democratic platform at Chicago next week.

Denies U. S. Is Weak

Others predicted the President's message would form the basis of the defense and foreign relations plank to be adopted by the Democrats. In it, Mr. Roosevelt reported "excellent progress" made in the procurement of arms already voted and thrust at critics—including Republican platform framers—who have charged that the Administration has bungled the defense program.

"Let no man here or elsewhere believe that we are weak," the President declared, adding that the American workers and businessmen have shown they can unite in the public interest and produce a great fighting machine.

"The apologists for despotism and those who aid them by whispering defeatism or appeasement," he said, "assert that because we have not devoted our full energies to arms and to preparation for war we are now incapable of defense.

"I refute that imputation."

Indorses Training Bill

The President also indorsed in principle the pending compulsory military training bill, declaring that it would make certain that when the new arms become available they will be placed in the hands of trained troops.

Under the new arms request, the Army would receive $1,662,265,417 in cash and $2,249,730,000 in contract authority; the Navy, $499,176,540 cash and $437,000,000 contract authorizations.

President Roosevelt said the immediate broad objectives of the program were:

To carry forward the naval expansion program designed to provide a fleet adequate to meet "any possible combination of hostile naval forces." He asked $168,000,000 to start construction of about 1,500,000 tons of warships and 175,000 tons of auxiliaries authorized by the bill passed later in the day by the Senate.

Provision for the "total equipment" for an Army of 1,200,000 men "though, of course, this total of men would not be in the Army in time of peace."

Additional Weapons Provided

Provision for the tanks, guns, artillery, ammunition, etc., for another 800,000 men. A total of $540,162,645 cash and $902,000,000 contractual authority is provided for the ordnance items under these two objectives, plus funds for other equipment.

Provision for additional manufacturing facilities, public and private, for producing the equipment for a 2,000,000-man Army, plus aviation ordnance production equipment. A fund of $325,000,000, half in cash, is allowed for this purpose.

Procurement of 15,000 additional planes for the Army and 4,000 for the Navy, "complete with the necessary spare engines, armaments and the most modern equipment." A total of $1,523,402,304 is allowed for Army aircraft—about one-third cash—while $500,000,000 is provided for naval planes and aircraft manufacturing facilities.

Acting Secretary of War Johnson said the additional aircraft would give the Army a force of 24,591 planes by October, 1941. Some 10,000 planes are now on hand or order. The Navy now has 2,100 planes on hand, about the same number on order, while funds have already been appropriated for an additional 1,800.

The naval expansion bill passed by the Senate now goes back to the House for action on minor amendments. It would increase the present authorization strength by 70 per cent and, with present projected construction, triple the existing Navy.

Roosevelt Orders Rail Strike Inquiry

Postpones Express Tieup by Creating Investigating Board

President Roosevelt invoked his powers under the Railway Labor Act yesterday to postpone for at least 60 days a threatened Nation-wide strike of 30,000 Railway Express Co. employes.

The President created a three-man board to investigate the dispute between Railway Express and employes represented by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes.

President George H. Harrison, of the Brotherhood, had announced earlier in the day that a strike would become effective at 5 p. m. Friday, paralyzing the movement of railway express traffic throughout the country.

Harrison said the strike grew out of the agency's refusal to grant the 30,000 employes involved a 44-hour week, although it had granted such a work week to 5,000 other employes represented by the Teamsters Union, (A. F. of F.). Harrison's members now work 48 hours a week.

"We will not continue to work under this unjustifiable discrimination," Harrison said.

The President stepped into the controversy after the two disputants had tried unsuccessfully to settle the dispute by mediation under auspices of the National (Railway) Mediation Board. No agreement on points at issue and no agreement to arbitrate could be reached. Consequently, as prescribed by law, the President created a three-man board.

The board has 30 days in which to make findings and 30 days to write and submit its report. During the intervening 60 days the status quo is mandatory.

The President was expected to announce shortly the names of board members. He said, in issuing his proclamation invoking Railway Labor Act powers, that the dispute "now threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive the country of essential transportation service."

Treasury Offers Big Bond Issue

In its first quest for new money in seven months, the Treasury today offers for cash subscription a $600,000,000 issue of 2¼ per cent Treasury bonds of 1954-56.

Giving preference to small investors, the Treasury said preferential allotment would go to subscriptions for $5,000 and under. The bonds, bearing the date July 22, 1940, can be applied for at Federal Reserve Banks and at the Treasury Department.

Interest on the bonds will be payable semiannually on June 15 and December 15. The bonds will be issued in demoninations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000.

used in construction in Washington, the effect of their closing down is to stop all construction in the city—to throw out of work more than 5,000 at present and perhaps more than 15,000 in the future over a dispute involving not more than 250 men, in addition to the stopping of the supply of sand and gravel and delaying of work on Government construction imperatively needed in the present crisis."

Purchase of sand and gravel from nearby cities, Arnold said, would require construction of handling facilities impossible to build without "great delay."

"We feel we are making progress," said Conner, after all-day conferences with company and union representatives. "We have offered what we consider fair terms and are now awaiting an answer from union and company officials."

Express Confidence

Although Conner and Colvin declined to disclose the plan which they feel may lead to termination of the walkout, they expressed confidence it would meet with approval from both factions.

It was reported last night that efforts were being made to work out a formula under which the 10 per cent salary increase promised by the company may be applied in some manner to cover time-and-a-half overtime pay required in the wage-hour ruling.

Attending yesterday's conferences at the Labor Department were Thomas A. Butt, treasurer, and A. M. Parker, secretary of the Smoot Co.; Joseph Gillis, of Baltimore, representing the American Federation of Labor, and John O. Crawford, financial secretary, Sand and Gravel Workers' Union, Local 22075.

Judge Bentley Case Appears Stalled

Unless a subcommittee of the Senate District Committee acts today, the nomination of Judge Fay L. Bentley for another term as juvenile judge will go over until after the Congressional recess, it appeared yesterday.

Senator Chandler (Democrat), of Kentucky, is understood to be prepared to vote for a favorable report, but Senator Austin (Republican), of Vermont, said he has not had time to examine a digest of testimony presented at hearings conducted by Senator McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada.

Rotterdam Raid Killed 30,000

London, July 10.—Thirty thousand persons died in Rotterdam when the Germans bombed the city official circles here said today.

According to Dutch sources only three buildings were left standing over an area of nearly 2 square miles. There was not so much as a wall left to mark off the blocks, it was said.

"So complete was the ruin of the devastated area that even natives of the city hardly knew their way in the streets which had become mere passages, cleared through masses of masonry," the semiofficial statement said.

R. I. Governor Takes Naval Training Here

The State of Rhode Island is minus its Governor for two weeks.

Gov. William H. Vanderbilt, the Navy Department said yesterday, is doing two weeks active duty as a reserve officer behind a desk at the Navy Department. He was one of the Navy's youngest cadets during the World War.

Willkie to Win West, Colorado Governor Says

Nominee to Meet With State G. O. P. Leaders Tomorrow

By the Associated Press

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 10. Wendell L. Willkie conferred on his campaign strategy today with Gov. Ralph Carr of Colorado, and Carr later told reporters that "Willkie absolutely will carry every State West of the Rockies—and I'm not kidding you."

Carr, questioned by reporters as to how many Western States he had visited, asserted he had made recent trips to New Mexico, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Texas and Arizona.

Except for a brief automobile ride through the nearby mountains, Willkie spent a quiet day in his hotel apartment. Talking with reporters on a sun-lit balcony, Willkie said he would meet Friday in Denver with members of the State Republican committee and would attend a rodeo at Cheyenne, Wyo., July 23.

The nominee said he would devote the rest of this week to "sleeping and reading" and that he would confer with political leaders next week.

Russell Davenport, former magazine editor, will talk with Willkie before the candidate makes his formal acceptance of the Republican nomination about August 1.

Carr, who attended Willkie's press conference, interposed his prediction about the nominee carrying the West during a lull in the questioning. Willkie smiled broadly.

During the day Mrs. Willkie spent some time with her aunt, Mrs. Jesse Slaughter, of Denver.

Willkie had luncheon with Carr, Charles R. Enos, Colorado Republican committeeman; Thomas Daly and William Montgomery, chairman of the Colorado Willkie-for-President campaign.

The nominee had dinner with W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, and Boardsman Robinson, an artist.

Saturday, Willkie will lunch with Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, who supported Thomas E. Dewey for the Republican nomination.

Ickes Designates Vanderbilt House As Historical Site

Secretary of Interior Ickes yesterday formally designated the Vanderbilt Mansion in Dutchess County, New York, as a national historical site and announced appointment of Mrs. Dexter Cooper, of New York, as superintendent.

The property was donated to the Government by Mrs. Margaret Louise Van Alen, and its acquisition was approved by Congress.

The mansion, located in the home county of President Roosevelt, was said to be an outstanding example of the "type of great estate built by captains of industry in the era of expansion that succeeded the war between the States; representative of an important phase of the economic, sociological and cultural history of the United States."

A 50-cent guide fee will be levied for upkeep.

Nearby States Receive Share of Game Fund

Secretary Ickes yesterday apportioned $2,300,000 to various States for improvement of game conditions.

Participating States, Ickes said, were required to contribute 25 per cent of the cost of projects. The total Federal apportionment plus State contribution will make 3,066,667 available for wildlife restoration work this year.

Allotments by States included Maryland, $15,857; Virginia, $38,771, and West Virginia, $34,014.

Leaders Agree on Profits Tax To Bar 'War Millionaires'

Roosevelt and Congressional Chiefs Also Decide to Let Industry Write Off Cost Of Plant Expansion in 5-Year Period

President Roosevelt and his tax leaders in Congress agreed yesterday on legal machinery to speed construction of emergency plants and equipment for national defense and to tax out of existence any prospective "war millionaires."

Unanimously, conferees at the White House from Congress and the Treasury decided to put into the forthcoming excess profits bill a provision to write off in five years the value of additional factory facilities "certified as immediate and necessary for national defense purposes by the Army and Navy and Advisory Commission of the National Defense Council."

Also unanimously, they agreed that profit limitations of 7 and 8 per cent on naval construction and Army and Navy aircraft would be dropped in favor of an excess profits tax to apply generally to all industries, whether working for the Government or not.

The announcement of the formula, made for the conferees by White Houes Secretary Stephen T. Early, said they "were agreed that the plan is certain to result in an appreciable acceleration of the national defense program. At the same time it is intended that there shall be no substantial sacrifice of revenues accruing to the United States Treasury."

Will Speed Defense Work

The agreement, it was explained later, removes a chief source of uncertainty for industrial concerns that had been delaying the defense program.

Now such firms as the Packard Motor Car Co., considering a 9,000-engine contract that was rejected by Henry Ford, can know just at what rate they may depreciate, for tax purposes, any new plant or equipment they build to handle defense orders.

M. M. Gilman, president of Packard, has said that his firm would have to spend $30,000,000 on new plant and equipment to handle the order of 6,000 engines for Britain and 3,000 for the United States. Thus depreciation on a sum of this size, it was understood, would bulk very large in the company's profit and loss calculations. Gilman has said his firm would not take any contract to do work at a loss.

Gilman, who conferred yesterday with William S. Knudsen, of the Defense Commission, on threatened breakdown of the $150,000,000 contract negotiations, said after the conference that the projected contract was "definitely not off."

Agreement on the amortization plan also smoothes the way for Jesse Jones, Federal Loan Administrator, to grant some Reconstruction Finance Corporation money to Packard and similar firms that want to handle defense orders.

Packard, it was learned, has not yet asked the RFC for a loan to build a new engine plant, but such a request was expected to follow if negotiations between Gilman and Knudsen end in success.

Agreement on a general excess profits levy to supersede the Vinson-Trammell rates, would generalize a tax that has applied until now only to naval construction and to military aircraft construction.

The Vinson-Trammel rates, as changed by amendments approved June 28, limit such profits to 8 per cent of contract price or 8.7 per cent of cost. These amended rates superseded former limits of 10 per cent on naval vessels and 12 per cent on Army and Navy aircraft.

It was believed yesterday that the World War excess and war profits laws would not serve as a model for the new levy, which is being worked out in conferences with the Treasury.

Precedents Studied

But experts had under study the following precedents:

The 1916 law, as amended, imposed excess profits levies ranging from 8 per cent on salaries in excess of $6,000 and income over $6,000 from small businesses to 60 per cent on net income of more than 33 per cent on invested capital.

Corporations, under the 1916 law as amended were allowed credits of $3,000 plus a "normal" profit based on certain prewar years. Above that, the tax took slices ranging from 25 per cent to 65 per cent.

Under the 1918 war profits tax on corporations the credit allowed was a minimum $3,000 profit plus an 8 per cent return on invested capital and the tax rates on profits over that were 30 per cent on net income up to a 20 per cent return on invested capital, and a tax of 65 per cent on a return over that figure.

Conferees who met with the President yesterday were:

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Assistant Secretary John L. Sullivan, General Counsel Edward H. Foley, Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee; Representative Cooper, chairman of the subcommittee on internal revenue taxation of the Ways and Means Committee; William Knudsen, of the defense commission, and Jesse Jones.

In Congressional circles it was predicted that enactment of a tax measure would take at least four or five weeks after conclusion of the Democratic National Convention.

Nazis Reported Criticizing Havana Parley

Seen as 'Warning' to Central Americans To Keep Neutrality

San José, Costa Rica, July 10 (AP).—Usually reliable sources reported today that the German Minister to Central American countries had sent messages to the foreign ministers of those nations criticizing forthcoming Havana conference to the American Republics.

Some quarters interpreted the report as meaning that the Minister was "warning" Central American countries to maintain their "neutrality." The conference is scheduled to open July 20.

Dr. Otto Reinebeck is Minister to Panama and the five Central American republics.

Rio de Janeiro, July 10 (AP).—Brazil favors American mandates or protectorates over European possessions in the Western Hemisphere rather than see them pass from one European nation to another, Foreign Minister Oswald Aranha said today in an interview.

Aranha asserted American nations at the Havana conference July 20 "should take a definite stand on the question of European colonies."

Aranha remarked that in many cases colonies were not "good investments" economically, but that "the defense of the Western Hemisphere necessitates some such action in case the question of transference arises."

STORE UP IRON for YOUR BLOOD

Get Vitamin B1 for your Nerves

When the body craves these vital elements, a rich supply can put color in your cheeks and help you like a new person. WITHOUT ALCOHOL OR HABIT-FORMING DRUGS.

When your system is low in iron and Vitamin B1 many vital organs slow down—you often look pale, lose your appetite, get tired easily, sleep poorly, and feel nervous and played out. Iron helps make red blood, and red blood is vital for healthy muscles, healthy skin, healthy glands and healthy organs. Iron-poor blood may cause low vitality, heart palpitations, shortness of breath, swollen ankles and frequent periods of ill health.

You need Vitamin B1 and if you don't have enough Vitamin B1 you may get a painful neuritis, stomach upsets, constipation, weak appetite, mental depression, restless sleep.

In these conditions, take ENRICH, the thrilling new tonic that tastes like juice of wild berries and gives you more iron every day than 6 lbs. of spinach or 6 lbs. of raisins; more Vitamin B1 daily than ¼ lb. of baker's yeast. Your pep comes back with a bounce when you restore missing iron and Vitamin B1 and you eat more, stop worrying, and sleep better. Right in this neighborhood, many men, women and children feel keen and lead happier lives, through the help of ENRICH. Don't wait. ENRICH costs only a few cents a day. Money refunded unless ENRICH improves your state of well-being.

DAY OR NIGHT

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

Army of 3,690 From WPA Starts Strengthening Capital Defenses

500 Workers Also To Start Training Courses Next Week

An army of 3,690 District WPA workers is now engaged on projects to strengthen military defenses in and around the Nation's Capital, it was revealed yesterday by Paul Edwards, local administrator.

In addition to this number, which represents one-third of the local WPA enrollment, 500 workers next week will begin an intensive training course in vocational subjects and techniques also designed for defense purposes.

Edwards has not completed arrangements for the training courses, which will be offered in cooperation with the United States Office of Education and the Board of Education. He plans to accept the offer of the school board to make use of school facilities during the summer months.

WPA Starts Program

The many projects designed for defense purposes have been spurred on by the national program organized by Federal WPA Administrator Harrington. In many instances, the WPA workers form only a part of the project, other workers being supplied by PWA. Total WPA cost for all projects is $5,503,000.

Projects listed and work being done by the WPA men follow:

Washington National Airport at Gravelly Point—Work on runways, landing field for Pan American Airways, and general work on field, with a total number of 2,837 workers. Cost, $3,585,000.

Bolling Field: Improving the warming-up platforms, runways and emergency landing fields, 200 men engaged. An additional 400 men begin today working on taxi-strips connecting runways and improving buildings and hangars. Cost, $600,000.

Naval Air Station: Increasing the size of warming-up platform, improving and enlarging runways and modernizing hangars, 125 men engaged. Cost, $663,000.

Fort Humphreys: Eighty-five men working on various mapping projects, compiling and drafting the local areas as well as that of the entire countryside. An additional 75 men erecting new quarters, sewer and watre facilities. Cost, $155,000.

Navy Yard: A group of 685 men working on an additional ammunition depot and buildings for the United States Naval Research Laboratory at Bellevue, a naval torpedo station in Alexandria, Va., and storage facilities at the Navy Yard proper for ordnance and improvement of all utility facilities. Cost, $400,000.

Fort Myer and Arlington Cantonment: One hundred and sixteen men rehabilitating buildings and all roadwork. Cost, $100,000.

Camp Sims Work

Camp Sims: Work starts today on grading of drill fields, new gun sheds, mess hall, machine-gun repair shop and new walks and roads.

Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation: Forty-one men investigating records of seamen, bringing information to date.

Adjutant General's Office, United States Army. Twenty-seven men started yesterday modernizing the filing system.

Edwards said he would assign another 400 men to Naval Air Station today to aid work on the reconditioning of warming-up platforms, building new roads and remodeling the hangars.

Training of the 500 workers in industrial activities, such as toolmaking, mechanics and carpentry, was placed under the leadership of Lawson J. Cantrell, assistant superintendent of schools and in charge of vocational education. Official sponsor of the program, as in other sections of the country, is the Office of Education, with the National Defense Council.

Selection of the men for this training will be on a voluntary basis, Edwards said.

Teachers will be paid by the Office of Education. Although Edwards said 500 would begin the course, he expects many others will follow in weeks to come. One highly important phase of the work will be in the field of manufacture and repair of aircraft. A course under the Federal plan will also be offered enrollees in the NYA and CCC. Money for the trainees will come from the WPA and funds for materials from the Office of Education. Cantrell yesterday estimated it would cost between $6 and $10 a week per pupil for the training and materials.

It is planned to seek information from the United States Employment Service as to the industries needing a specially trained worker, which might be supplied through the WPA after the training course.

WPA Display of Activities Opens in National Museum

Deciding to go through with the opening though only half the exhibits were installed, the WPA yesterday began a display in the National Museum depicting its numerous welfare activities.

While FWA Administrator John M. Carmody, honor guest, made the rounds from booth to booth and a mixed colored chorus from the WPA music division sang spirituals, workers strove feverishly to fill several bare walls with charts, pictures and other graphic material. The display is expected to be completed today.

Accompanying Carmody on the inspection visit was Mrs. Florence Kerr, assistant commissioner of WPA, under whose general supervision the exhibition was prepared.

Taking as its theme the protection of the health and happiness of Americans, the display illustrates various phases of WPA contributions.

Senate Confirms Knox Appointment

Percy Nelson, assistant White House comptroller, at a brief ceremony in President Roosevelt's office.

The 66-year-old publisher of the anti-New Deal Chicago Daily News, replaces Charles Edison, who recently quit the Navy post to run for Governor of New Jersey. Col. Stimson, 73, Secretary of War in President Taft's cabinet, and Secretary of State under President Hoover, takes the place of Harry Woodring, who was generally considered the most isolationist member of the Roosevelt cabinet.

Defending the appointment of Col. Knox, Senator Lucas said "I know Col. Knox is against the Democratic party. I ought to—I live in Illinois." However, Senator Lucas declared, 'he' has placed his country and patriotism above partisanship."

"We all belong to the peace bloc," shouted the Illinoian in answer to allegations that Col. Knox would lead the country to war. "And the party which attempts to take into politics this question of defense will be doomed to defeat."

Prisoners Beat Man Who Refuses To Salute Flag

Pottsville, Pa., July 10 (AP).—Prisoners working outside the Schuylkill County Jail beat a passerby and daubed him with paint today when he refused to salute an American flag on the courthouse staff.

Police said they have statements from prisoners that a member of a religious sect which regards flag salutes as image worship made unpatriotic remarks within their hearing.

One of the prisoners commanded the pedestrian to salute the flag, police were informed. When he refused, eight prisoners hustled him to the courthouse basement and beat him. He was rescued by court attaches, who heard his cries.

Washington, Pa., July 10 (AP).—A. T. Anderson, who enlisted in the Union Army at the age of 17, headed the rapidly thinning Grand Army of the epublic today as commander in chief.

Anderson, senior vice commander in chief, succeeded John E. Andrew, of Quincy, Ill., who died June 30.

Mexican Labor Militia Mobilizes

tion in the capital, where the most important tabulations in the election are scheduled to be held, starting at 9 a. m.

The new danger was epitomized by the fact that at least two members of the cabinet of President Cardenas were known to have moved their families "out of the danger zone." Other reports, not confirmed, however, said that several important figures in the labor movement had gone into hiding.

To explain their threat to send "flying columns" of militia men through the streets of the Federal District, labor leaders and high officials of the Mexican Revolutionary Party hung a "Nazi sign" on the conservative candidate, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, and announced that Camacho was the next President of Mexico.

Officials of the Mexican Revolution Party, which is the government party, showed themselves to be particularly incensed over the manner in which Almazan followers swept the capital on Sunday with parades that eventually led to street riots resulting in the killing of 30 persons and the wounding of 200 others.

Summing up plans for tomorrow, a spokesman for the government party said, "we are going to give the Almazanistas a dose of their own medicine. They want a 'putsch'—and they are going to get it. If they approach any of the vote counting places with arms tomorrow, we will shoo them away with a 'T' at the end of the 'shoo.'"

This official, who admitted he himself would carry a gun, said further that his party had decided "to tolerate no longer the Nazi putsch tactics" of the conservative opposition. He concluded "it is now a question of which candidate has been elected. It is now a question of which system shall prevail, the democratic system or the Hitlerist system based on terror."

The charge of pro-Nazism against Gen. Almazan was a new one in the Mexican political catalogue, though only last week the radical newspaper Popular attempted to pin a Fascist label on him. It was a strange turn of events, taking into consideration that from the outset of his campaign the "strong man" from Monterey had attacked not only the Nazis, but all of the other proponents of European ideologies.

His headquarters today did not answer the charges immediately, but close friends shrugged and suggested that it be placed on the shelf with other "equally absurd" charges that have accumulated during the hotly contested campaign, which has actually found both candidates on the same side of the fence with regard to "isms" and their desire to cooperate in a friendly manner with the United States.

Love's Labor Lost

Shortly before the Republican convention, the Pleasures of Publishing, that engaging mimeographed feuilleton which serves as the house organ of the Columbia University Press, invited its readers to submit lists of "required reading for Presidential candidates." After inspecting the returns from this canvass the editors agreed that by far the best list was that submitted by Miss Jennie Flexner, of the staff of the New York Public Library.

Miss Flexner's list is nothing if not comprehensive. It covers nearly 50 separate works, most of them pretty deep and devious stuff. Any candidate who undertook to get through these books between now and election day would have, of course, no time left for speech-making, handshaking or Indian tribal initiations.

There is no room here to mention all of Miss Flexner's recommendations. They include, however, such obvious warhorses as Plato's "Republic," More's "Utopia," Hobbes' "Leviathan," Locke's "Essay on Human Understanding," Smith's "Wealth of Nations" and Mill's "Principles of Political Economy." These apparently are with the idea of arousing in the candidate some interest in the general subject of politics.

The special character of American politics is covered in such books as the "Federalist Papers," Bryce's "American Commonwealth," Woodrow Wilson's "Constitutional Government in the United States," and the politico-mystical poems of Whitman and Archibald MacLeish. And to acclimate the candidate to some of the fierce winds of new socio-political doctrines now blowing over the earth there are "Das Kapital," "Mein Kampf" and the "State Papers of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Obviously, Miss Flexner put a good deal of thought and labor into this bibliography. What a staggering disappointment, then, it must have been when she read of the five books that Mr. Willkie bought here in Washington the other day to take with him to Colorado. Not one of them was included in her list. Mr. Willkie's selections, in fact, seem to have been almost haphazard—a psychological novel, a popularized biography, two books—one pro, one con—about the desirability of big business, and a collection of opinions by the late Mr. Justice Holmes. Indeed, he would have fared no worse if he had left the whole thing up to one of the book clubs.

Can it be that Mr. Willkie isn't taking the Presidency so seriously that he feels the need of intellectual preparation? Or was this just a gesture to the low-brow, lending library vote? Or is it that he wants to start his term of office with a completely open mind?

Spilled Paints

New York WPA Administrator Brehon Somervell, one day this week, had four murals ripped out of a building at Floyd Bennett Airport. The conglomeration which composed these works, it was alleged, included a portrait of Joseph Stalin and other matter of a Russian character.

The destruction of the murals need not be regarded as interference with art, as not all murals are art. Many WPA murals could be erased without esthetic loss. Nevertheless it appears that Col. Somervell, and those who brought the supposed irregularities to his attention, may have been oversensitive. The artist, who had been dismissed because he declined to sign an affidavit that he was not a Communist or a bundsman, or both at once, said the portrait in question was that of Franz Reichelt, pioneer parachutist killed in a leap off the Eiffel Tower in 1912.

The muralist produced a photograph of Reichelt. Examination of photograph and painting shows that some slight alteration in paraphernalia makes the subject's trousers appear like those favored by well-dressed Bolsheviks. Otherwise the figures are about the same. Stalin, Reichelt and painting have similar mustaches.

Col. Somervell said he had started an investigation to see whether persons in authority were negligent in allowing the murals to be shown. The negligence, if such there was, began much earlier. There is something unpleasantly familiar in covering hundreds of square feet of canvas with paint which is promptly washed off. A proper investigation would be aimed at putting an end to this revival of boondoggling, with overtones of hysteria thrown in.

The Defense Program

In asking authorization to spend an additional sum of close to $5,000,000,000 on national defense President Roosevelt seeks to assure Congress that he has no thought of American participation in the present conflict. "We will not use our arms in a war of aggression," he says. "We will not send our men to take part in European wars."

This assurance, in all probability, was inserted in yesterday's message with one eye on the forthcoming Democratic National Convention. The platform committee there will have the task of drafting a foreign policy plank which will conform to a public opinion increasingly resolute against involvement so far as it can be averted by the will of the people. The Gallup Poll of last Sunday indicated only 14 per cent of the electorate willing to vote for a declaration of war against the Axis powers as compared with the maximum of 19 per cent which favored belligerency just before the French collapse.

The Democratic Party must of course take cognizance of this trend and so must its nominee. If that nominee is Mr. Roosevelt, who rightly or wrongly has been regarded as not wholly averse to throwing America's strength into the struggle, it is particularly imperative that a disclaimer be entered in advance of selection. That disclaimer has now been voiced by the President, and there are many who will view it as further evidence that he intends to contest for a third term as Chief Executive.

While yesterday's message pledged the Administration to a policy of nonintervention in Europe, it was equally categorical in its statement that "we will repel aggression against the United States or the Western Hemisphere." And in this positive statement of policy, which implies American protection for European possessions in the New World as well as for the Latin-American republics, there is ample basis for the tremendous defense authorization which is asked.

The request made yesterday, coupled with those already granted, brings the cost of the current preparedness program to approximately $10,000,000,000. Of course only a substantial fraction of this vast sum would be expended during the fiscal year which began July 1. A large proportion, if a settlement encouraging disarmament should be reached in Europe, may never be spent. On the other hand there is no assurance that developing conditions may not demand even greater outlays as time goes on.

So far as the public knows, the defense program is as yet defined in the most generalized terms. But, figuring in terms of modern warfare, there is no reason to think that the anticipated outlay is an overestimate. The cost of the present war to Great Britain, for instance, is now officially estimated at $30,000,000 a day, which works out at the rate of approximately $11,000,000,000 a year.

While the estimated cost of the Administration's defense program cannot be called excessive, considering the circumstances with which it is designed to cope, this conclusion does nothing toward raising the necessary funds. A $10,000,000,000 program means an average contribution of about $75 for every man, woman and child in the country—for emergency preparedness expenditures alone. As Mr. Roosevelt says, "so great a sum means sacrifice."

It will be the business of Congress, in considering the estimates submitted by the President, to consider also the unpleasant subject of how to raise the requisite revenue. By far the easiest part of a national defense program is figuring out the approximate cost of the equipment deemed essential by military experts. From those calculations it is a very long step to getting the money in hand, regardless of the distribution of the cost between new taxes and new borrowing.

"I believe," said Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, "that the people of this country are willing to make any sacrifice to attain" the goal of national security. It may be hoped that the elected representatives of the people are equally willing, in this election year, honestly to confront the staggering costs involved.

By greatly extending the scope of the income tax; by stepping up the rates for those who already pay; by levying new imposts and by grim curtailment of all nonessential expenditures a large portion of the cost of the proposed program can be met on a pay-as-you-go basis. If it is not met that way there will be an ugly refutation of the President's belief that the country is really prepared to make the sacrifices which events demand.

Jacob Hollander

Despite the many and diverse interpretations attaching to the term "liberal," all who knew him would agree that the late Dr. Jacob Hollander richly deserved that designation.

That is another way of saying that his liberalism was much more than a matter of political attitudes or economic theories. It was, rather, the essence of his character, and in consequence this great scholar never evaded the necessity of recognizing that in a liberal society even illiberal ideas have equal right to a hearing.

Thus, in the economics department which he long headed at the Johns Hopkins University, he fought to retain subordinates whose theories were markedly opposed to his own.

Liberalism, wrote Dr. Hollander, is "not so much a creed as a habit of mind. The liberal . . . refuses to impose his judgment upon that of others or force them to live their lives according to his ideas rather than their own."

This attitude he believed to be both practical and logical because of his profound conviction that though the liberal spirit is often obscured by recurrent waves of reaction it can never be permanently eclipsed.

In The Middle Sea

Details of the fighting in the central Mediterranean between Italian and British squadrons are still obscured by a fog of censorship as dense as the smoke screen which the Italian warships are supposed to have laid down prior to escaping to home ports.

It is not certain, for instance, how many ships were actually engaged in this battle and what types of ships they were. Nor is there any certainty as to the extent of the damage inflicted. There are the usual conflicting claims and counter-claims. Yet the clear impression left is that the British readily held the upper hand in this first major encounter between British and Italian sea power.

The admiralty communique says that "there were no casualties among the British ships engaged." The claim made by Rome is that the Italian warships scored hits which "probably" sunk a British battleship and "probably" sunk a destroyer while other British vessels were "seriously damaged." What is more important, however, is that the Italians admit the total loss of a destroyer and a submarine and the damaging by British shellfire of an unnamed warship of whose crew 29 were killed and 69 injured.

On points, therefore, the British seem to have had far the best of it. And while the action may not have been decisive, it shows that the British still have sufficient sea power in the Mediterranean to risk taking the offensive against the enemy. This is a very promising indication that the Royal Navy will be able to maintain the Mediterranean communications of the empire at a time when its resources are vital to the people of the British Isles.

Enthroned At Last

Late last month, amid a plethora of rumors, British sources announced that "all possible steps" were being taken for the safety of Edward Windsor. This week he was appointed Governor of the Bahamas. No better spot could have been found in the empire, either for the former King's safety or for the satisfaction of those who feared embarrassment should he return to his native land.

Nor could any more fitting dukedom have been selected for this lover of bright lights and his American wife. On the flashy Bahamas they will meet outstanding figures from that cafe society of which they are so fond. If they should want to visit the United States, they can reach Miami in less than an hour by airplane. Or they can relax in their own domain and draw to them an element of America which is at least not deficient in spending power.

Certainly the island population should not object to their new governor. Under his genial guidance and with the magnetism of his glamour the tourist trade should boom and all rude talk of extending American sovereignty to these islands will end.

And, at last, Wallis will have a throne. As the agent of Queen Elizabeth, she may sit in a chair of state beside her husband to receive Bahamian homage. If it is a comedown for Windsor it is a step up for his duchess.

The chief characteristic that makes whisky so popular is that it acts as an anesthetic for the conscience.

Still, a "permanent" wave is about as permanent as anything else in these parlous days and times.

O Petersburg!

From the Montgomery Advertiser.

A gentleman we can vouch for recently stopped off on his honeymoon in that fabulous Virginia city of Petersburg, where the memories of another generation still live. The bride and groom were being shown the Crater and some of the other scenes of the last great battle of the Other War. An attractive young man from Petersburg was their guide. He told of the brave stand one of the commanding officers had made at one point. In fact, he grew quite eloquent about him, until our friend remarked that he knew what a fine officer he had been and what a fine citizen, too. Thereupon, the guide's face fell. He muttered something about the deplorable record of the officer after the close of the war. The gentleman, surprised, inquired for details. Sheepishly, the guide looked at the ground, then at the man's wife. It was so bad, apparently, he wasn't sure he should say it in the presence of a lady. Finally, gathering strength, he looked up and said dolefully: "He went Republican."

More On Rumania

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. George F. A. Boin, the American representative of the Rumanian paper, Porunca Vremii, in a letter to the Editor of The Post of July 2, under the heading, "Rumania's Claim to Bessarabia," tries to convince your readers of the justice of Rumania's claims to all her provinces on historical grounds and because the population of each is preponderantly Rumanian.

I should like to make a few remarks and corrections to Mr. Boin's statements. It is true that Bessarabia and Bucovina were formerly Rumanian provinces. After the Russian-Rumanian war against Turkey in 1877-78 Rumania ceded to Russia the province of Bessarabia in exchange for northern Dobruja (which Russia conquered from Turkey) comprising the two districts with their capital ports of Constanta and Tulcea.

Until 1918 Bessarabia belonged to Russia, not by conquest, but because of an exchange of territory. Taking advantage of the chaotic conditions in Russia under the bolshevik revolution and the state of war between the bolshevik regime and Poland, Rumania invaded and occupied Bessarabia without the slightest resistance. The Versailles Treaty gave to Rumania Bucovina, although the Rumanian populace there was in the minority.

But what about the other two provinces ceded to Rumania by the Versailles Treaty? Transylvania and Dobruja. Transylvania was Hungarian over 1,000 years and the majority of the populace overwhelmingly Magyar. Southern Dobruja, where the populace is 85 per cent Bulgarian, was annexed by Rumania without any fight in 1913, at a time when Bulgaria (after she had defeated Turkey in alliance with Serbia and Greece) was engaged in war with her former allies for the division of the spoils. Willkie And "Findustry"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An open-handed nation should be a broad-minded nation.

It is hinted that the Wall street money interests are again to be accused of engineering a spontaneous demand by subterranean influences, as in the much debated case of our sudden shift into the World War in 1917.

In the former instance, eminent financiers have pointed out, painstakingly, that the great interest of "findustry" (short for finance and industry) in large European loans and our entry into the conflict "to save the world for democracy" was merely a coincidence.

Consequently, it is not unreasonable to regard as also only a happy coincidence the stake which "findustry" now has in the heavy billions to be spent by the Government in munition plants, factories and shipyards and the loud call for the nomination of a man to control those expenditures who is the 100 per cent choice of the Wall street money interests.

That the coincidence is patent, palpable, obvious, apparent and undeniable is no evidence to a confiding and generous people that the call at Philadelphia was not spontaneous.

Nor does the further coincidence of the jovial surrender of his pledged delegates, when they were needed, by the candidate who was in the lead to the one who was last, shut the minds of broad-gaged persons to the likelihood of perfect spontaneity in the call for Willkie.

Inflamers of the public mind with fanciful accusations should be reminded that "findustry" is organized for the creation of profits—not coincidences. ALBERT A. VOLK.

Willkie Nomination

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This ballyhoo about Willkie having been nominated by the people is one of the funniest things that has hit the country in a long time, and the people are wise to all of it. Just to check up I dropped into two movies to see the news reels that advertised the candidate of the people. There was not a hand of applause in the house at either place. It would seem there were no utility people doing the movies or that the stock brokers were all out playing golf and drinking mint juleps at 40 cents a throw.

I understand Wall Street will go into a war dance any minute now and that the Street's campaign song will be written around the chorus of the famous song of some years back. It goes like this:

Waltz me around again Willkie;
Waltz me 'round and 'round.
The stocks will go up and go up and go up
When you get in they'll never come down.
Oh, waltz me around again Willkie;
Waltz me 'round and 'round.

No, the people did not nominate Willkie, and they are not being fooled by a couple of wisecracks that he handed out in the news reel

GEE HOSA PHAT.

Chevy Chase, Md., July 9.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I cannot help but write and tell you what a fine job I think The Post did in covering the Willkie nomination. The issue of Friday, June 28, is, I think, an outstanding example of the splendid job being done on The Post right along.

JOE SCOLARO.

Washington, July 1.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that certain high-placed Democrats are beginning to sail into Wendell Willkie for his Wall street affiliations, I should like to remind them that FDR himself wasn't so far from Wall street from 1920 to 1928! In fact, about the only place privately where FDR has made any money at all was on Wall street or in close proximity, while Willkie has made money in practically all sections of the country in some private capacity or another.

HENRY STONER.

Veterans In Danger

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wonder why the United States is not doing something to help the refugees of the Spanish Civil War, now in France, who are in danger of being returned to Franco and certain death. Also, Hitler has demanded that Petain turn over to him and Mussolini the German and Italian veterans of the International Brigade. We know what the fate of these brave fighters against fascism would be once Hitler and Mussolini got them in their clutches.

Mexico and Chile have granted visas to the refugees and the Cuban and Bolivian governments have offered to cooperate. If we would merely send an American ship to transport the refugees to Mexico or Chile, we would save the lives of thousands of the best and most sincere enemies of fascism.

MRS. LOUISE MORRISON.

Washington, July 9.

League Of Nations

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At the time of the stalemate on the Western Front in 1916, after the Kaiser's blitzkrieg had failed, President Woodrow Wilson proposed to the warring powers to negotiate a "peace without victory."

This proposal was scornfully rejected and excited the risibilities of our most distinguished "man on horseback," who took considerable delight in referring to "these sissified professors," and again to President Wilson as the "first in peace and last in war."

Reluctantly entering the war into which he was driven by a powerful conspiracy possessing control over the press and other agencies of propaganda, President Wilson was determined at the conclusion of the war to set up an organization possessing the potentialities of minimizing aggressive military actions by marauding nations bent upon loot.

He laid the basis of the League of Nations with its Covenant, the most striking example of international association in the history of the world. He was acclaimed by the European masses as a benefactor of the human race, but found much of his work repudiated by a small political clique within his own country, which unfortunately for the world possessed a veto power over the results of his great achievements at Paris.

Had the United States not been deterred from taking its seat in the great league at Geneva—had England and France been firm when Japan invaded Manchuria, all sections of the civilized world would today be at peace.

THOMAS H. R. CLARKE.

Roda Roda Austrian

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your excellent columnist Harlan Miller is wondering in his July 9 "Over the Coffee" column, whether Mr. Roda Roda, whose portrait he recently admired, was a German diplomat or the like.

An ex-Austrian myself, I can assure Mr. Miller that Mr. Roda Roda is far from being a German diplomat; he is a well-known Austrian playwright and actor, who dedicated the most part of his writings to sharp but nonetheless patriotic criticism of old Austro-Hungarian conditions.

In spite of his very sharp and witty works he never was molested by the authorities of the old monarchy, which was destroyed at the end of the World War, when the world was made "safe for democracy." ROBERT RIE.

Aid To England

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Can you not do something to show up the folly of those Senators in passing that Bill 9822 "An Act to Expedite National Defense and for Other Purposes?"

Can the Senators not see that our only chance against Hitler is to help England defeat him? Those mosquito boats would be of immense help to England with the French coast only 20 miles away in some places, while here of what possible use to us if England is defeated?

We do not need to declare war against Germany, but if we give everything we have on hand now, England will defeat Hitler, and if he does not like it, he is helpless.

Have the Senators forgotten the time we were at war with Spain when at Manila the Germans were about to fire on us and the English warship went in between us and the German ship and said, "If you fire you do it through us?" And now we leave England without help. For our own salvation and safety we must help her now. Z. E. GAFF.

Ladies' Day

They didn't scream at all. They didn't pull each other's hair. They didn't scratch each other's faces.

Somehow men have got the idea that that's what the spectators do on Ladies' Day at the ball park. Gordon got that idea and passed it on to me. So I went to the ball park on Ladies' Day ready—nay eager—to scream and pull and scratch. I have wanted to scream and pull and scratch for many months over a lot of things.

What the women did was shout. They shouted: "You got it that time, kiddo!" . . . "C'mon, Jimmy, it's your turn" . . . "How about it!" and things like that. They pulled their hats down over their foreheads and leaned over to watch the batter or they pushed their hats back off their foreheads to follow a fly. Then they muttered: "Base on balls" or commented curtly: "There she goes!"

They didn't spend the afternoon eating and sipping, either. I felt sorry for the vendors of ice cream, hot dogs, peanuts and pop. In the second inning I wanted an ice cream like I never wanted an ice cream before, but I wasn't going to make a minority of myself so I just sat there and suffered with my appetite for a while.

"They're all on a diet," I thought at first. But my eyes belied that thought. Around me I saw women of awesome proportions who could have consumed daily diet menus for desserts. No, these people weren't dieters, I decided. They were baseball fans.

When a vendor shouted: "Cigars . . . cigarettes," I waited for a rush on 5-cent stogies. After all, if they weren't living up to reports of women's behavior at a ball game, they would live up to eyewitness accounts of men's behavior. Of course they didn't. The lady with the stovepipe yellow straw that hid my view of the plate just put aside her knitting and bought a package of cigarettes. After all, these baseball fans happened to be women and women are considerate enough of people around them not to smoke cigars.

Yes, there was a woman who had brought along her knitting. Maybe she was knitting socks for Oliver, or a sweater for Oliver, jr., or maybe even something for a Tommy or a Poilu. I watched that woman and her knitting. She knitted before the game started. She knitted between innings. But while the play was on she didn't knit. She kept her eyes on the game. She kept her fingers busy with pencil and score card.

Another woman had brought along her tatting. She worked on a delicate blue and yellow filament between innings. And then there were scads and scads of women who had brought along their daughters. And scads more who had brought along their sons. In fact, just like the other fans who happen to be men the ladies had brought with them to the ball park all those preoccupations that bothered them away from the ball park.

Until the players trotted out on the field I didn't know who was playing whom. Somehow I missed getting a score card that would have told me. Assuredly, I could have discovered who the participants were simply by looking down and across the field at the score board but I didn't discover there was a score board until the sixth inning. That's when everybody got up and stretched and I couldn't help seeing it.

Also I screamed. I screamed only once but I kept blushing for it during the rest of the game. I let out a stabbing: "Eeee . . ." while about me the fans were shouting in real words as human beings should. The only reason I didn't pull someone's hair and/or, scratch someone's face was simply that the instinct for self-preservation in me is so strong. Such gestures would have got no understanding.

I also broke down in the fourth inning and ate ice cream. I bought a hot dog and sipped pop. I gorged myself, so that if I had had the courage to scream again I would have gurgled.

There was a tense moment later when I would have had every reason to scream again. That was when a fly spun into my section of the grandstand. Whizzing over the plate the baseball had looked no bigger than a golf ball. Over my head it looked as big as a medicine ball. So I ducked. I was practically under the seat. When finally I emerged it was in time to observe a wild scramble. Big women and little boys were in it. The grandstand seemed to rock with the commotion.

It was soon over. From out of the scramble appeared one of the little boys, his face flushed, his eyes glinting, holding on high the aforementioned baseball.

The little boy stroked the baseball. He let the withered lady beside him on the grandstand hold it for a moment, feel it with her fluttery fingers. Then he took back his prize and sat up straight and tall while his grandmother proudly smoothed the mussed hair back out of his eyes.

The whole thing made me gulp a little.

"They didn't scream at all . . ." I started to relate that evening. Then I saw the pain in Gordon's eyes and stopped. "One woman said," I hurried on, "'Aren't the uniforms cute!'"

That was a lie but Gordon loved it. "What did I tell you!" he exulted.

There are too few illusions left these days. I wouldn't disillusion a soul. MALVINE COLE.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

France And America At Martinique

THE SITUATION in the West Indies at the French colony of Martinique is delicate and serious. For while Martinique is a small island, the importance of which must not be exaggerated, what is done at Martinique may establish precedents and set in motion a train of events involving this country, the Latin-American republics, France, Great Britain and Germany. There is the immediate question of what is to be done about the French airplane carrier which is now in the harbor of Fort de France with a cargo of airplanes made in the United States. There is the greater question of what is to be American policy towards the colonial possessions of France in this hemisphere.

We shall do well, I believe, to seek to avoid precipitating an issue over the warships and planes until we have clarified and defined our attitude towards the island colony itself. We should so advise the British government and the French government; and we should request that they cooperate with us, even if they cannot cooperate with one another, in stabilizing the position about the warships while we promulgate the policy we shall pursue about the colony itself. It ought not be difficult to formulate a simple and workable policy for the United States in the next few days and to explain it at the Pan-American Conference in Havana next week.

THE PROBLEM will be difficult only if we make the mistake of announcing great general principles, like those in Mr. Early's unfortunate interview over the week-end. General principles are out of order for the obvious reason that the war is far from being over and that no final settlement of any territorial question is remotely in sight. All that is required, therefore, is an interim working arrangement about the island itself. With such an arrangement the problem of the warships ought to be easier to deal with.

In order not to stumble over our own principles, we must begin, it seems to me, by recognizing clearly that the Monroe Doctrine is not now relevant to the situation in Martinique. The colony belongs to France. According to the Monroe Doctrine this colony may not be ceded to any other non-American state. But there is nothing in the doctrine which asserts any special right in Martinique on the part of the United States or of any American republic. Under the Doctrine the colony may remain French. It may become an independent American republic protected under the Monroe Doctrine against reconquest from abroad. Or the colony may be ceded by France to an American state. These are the three alternatives recognized by the Monroe Doctrine, and it is apparent at once that none of them can now be adopted.

It follows that in the interim, which may last for many years, our policy will have to be based not on the Monroe Doctrine as a clear rule of United States policy but on its intent and its spirit as applied to the existing situation.

THE REAL QUESTION, obviously, is whether the French government at Vichy which controls Martinique and can appoint and direct the administration of Martinique is in fact an independent French government within the intent and spirit of the Monroe Doctrine.

This is a question which, regardless of private opinion in this country, the United States Government cannot and should not prejudge. It is plainly a question where the proper official attitude is to wait in order to see what actually happens in Martinique rather than to draw conclusions from what appears to be happening in Vichy at this moment.

We should, therefore, send competent diplomatic observers to the colony instructed to report on whether there are any changes in the administration, in its personnel, procedure, and policies, which indicate that the colony is no longer governed as it has been in the past. Among the decisive indications to be watched would be any which pointed to the use of the colony as a base of operations against Great Britain, or as a base for totalitarian propaganda and penetration in this hemisphere. The first clear sign of any of these things would justify the United States Government in concluding that Martinique had in fact been lost to France, that the substance of the Monroe Doctrine had been violated, and that American control of the island was required immediately. But unless there is an overt act of some sort in Martinique, it would be neither honorable nor wise to jump to conclusions about Martinique because of the political convulsion through which the French nation is passing.

IT WOULD NOT be honorable because the French nation have been and are our ancient friends. With good friends one persists in affection and in understanding, even when one does not like or understand what they are doing. In this hemisphere the French are our good neighbors, and more than good neighbors, they are of all the peoples of the world the ones who understand best both our Latin neighbors and ourselves. But above all, in the misfortune of France it should be our fierce pride to be the last to forget the greatness of France. We must wish to be the first to remember, and to make it our privilege to be among the first always to remind mankind, that France is indispensable, as indispensable to the maturity of western civilization as Hellas was to its birth,—and as imperishable.

Under no circumstances, then, can we permit ourselves to be maneuvered into a position where it can be alleged, even by the most cunning propagandist, that we profited or aggrandized ourselves in any degree at the expense of a prostrate France.

And what is dishonorable is in the end unwise. No matter what victories Hitler wins in Europe, no matter how France reacts for the time being to the conquest, it would serve no interest of ours to treat France as if she were forever lost beyond the hope of resurrection. What we must do as a practical necessity to protect our vital interests in this hemisphere, we must do, and most of the French will, we may believe, in their hearts understand. But what we do should be done as a practical measure in a transitional period. And we should invoke no general principles, formulate no new doctrines, and above all do nothing on grounds which can be interpreted or misinterpreted as a conclusive judgment that France is finally defeated and subjugated.

A WORKING POLICY conceived in this fashion and put forth in this atmosphere ought to make it much easier to solve the problem of the French warships at Martinique. Our interest is quite clear and we should make it clear both to the authorities in France and to the local commander at Martinique. These warships must not now return to France. They cannot stay in Martinique, where they would have to be watched. They should not be scuttled because those ships were built to defend freedom, and they are still needed in the defense of freedom. They should not come out and fight because, for one thing and that is a big enough thing to settle the matter, the United States will not wish to see any British and French blood spilled in this hemisphere.

Therefore, the warships should either join the British, or, if that is for some reason too difficult, they should come by agreement to a United States port, and there be interned.

Enemy Of Labor?

FOR ABOUT NINE MONTHS these pieces have hammered away at certain faults of labor organization, and, as your correspondent expected, he has been denounced as an enemy of labor with a capital L, which he is not. On the A. F. of L. side the revelations have concerned the invasion of the field of labor by dirty criminals of the gangster type. On the C. I. O. side they have dealt with communistic control, particularly in the American Newspaper Guild.

The A. F. of L. crooks have had the support of William Green, whose cabinet or executive council includes George Brown, a capper for a mob of criminals who indorsed notorious racketeers in the recent Louisville convention of the stagehands and movie employes' union. Green, in turn, indorsed a thoroughly vicious gang of thieves, grafters and extortioners. Green, therefore, degraded his office and besmirched the reputation of the A. F. of L. by appearing personally before the convention to bestow his blessing.

The disclosures regarding crookedness in the leadership of A. F. of L. unions have not been vague hearsay. They have been supported by court records, and, as Green well knows and doesn't deny, they are only samples of the general rottenness which has been allowed to develop in his organization under his flabby presidency.

SIMILARLY, the influence of the Communists in the newspaper guild has been positively shown. In particular it has been shown that in California the guild acquiesced in the indorsement of the ham 'n' eggs proposal which would have abolished the American system of government there and substituted a Fascist or Communist dictatorship. It also has been shown that in New York, the other Communist stronghold in the guild, Communist publications are especially favored by the Bolshevik leaders, being granted conditions which no American publisher would dare to propose in union negotiations.

The Communist Daily Worker, for example, enjoys immunity from conditions which American publishers are asked to meet. And the Communists have rigged a scheme by which regular American newspapermen of the editorial side, for and by whom the union was founded, can be utterly swamped by muscovite parachutists who are not newspapermen at all. It also has been shown that the guild constitution contains mantraps, concealed beneath innocent language, which never have been advertised to members or prospective members whereby joiners find themselves caught in the guild for life and unable to escape, even though the guild should become openly communistic. Most members and prospects are given to believe they can quit at will, and the Communists have resented the disclosure of the treacherous man-traps, because this will make prospects wary.

THE GUILD has been very dishonest, too, in deceiving its own members with propaganda in the columns of its union publication. In one strike, in Seattle, the guild used Dave Beck's A. F. of L. gorillas—or goons as they are called—to win its battle on the picket line and hailed these thugs as high-minded comrades in the cause of labor with a capital L. After a while, however, the guild went over to the C. I. O. and got into a jurisdictional scrap with the same Dave Beck, who then used the same gorillas against the guild. So the guild changed its opinion of Mr. Beck's mob. They were now just plain sluggers. That, incidentally, made Dave Beck pretty sore.

The guild always has felt very strongly about labor's right to organize and strike, but the California guild, by indorsing ham 'n' eggs, advocated a proposal which would have abolished both of these rights. The reason was that ham 'n' eggs would have caused bloodshed and bankruptcy. The guild paper soft-pedaled that little paradox.

Naturally, the Communists haven't argued these points, preferring merely to say that all such information is merely antiunion propaganda. The professional leaders of many A. F. of L. unions have said the same about revelations of crookedness in their camps.

But stick around. The rank and file are not with these conspirators. They are crying for protection from A. F. of L. crooks and Communist political exploiters in unions of the C. I. O. Time and developments will show who is the enemy and who the friend of labor with a capital L.

The Humor Vanishes

By Mark Sullivan

Roosevelt Silence Awkward

THIS PRESS conference was six days before the opening of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, and nine days before that convention will name its Presidential candidate. As the newspapermen came in, the third-term question was much in their minds—put there by the nearness of the decisive hour, and by that much written about cryptic Sunday talk between President Roosevelt and Mr. Farley.

The querying was begun by Mr. Earl Godwin. He put his question in one of the most venerable forms for extracting information by indirect leverage. He said a bet had been made—the President's military aide, Gen. Edwin M. Watson, had bet $300 that Mr. Roosevelt will be renominated and elected, against $200 bet by the Administration's Ambassador to Belgium, Mr. John Cudahy. (Query: Was Mr. Cudahy wise to bet against Mr. Roosevelt's continued elevation, even when the odds were so attractive? The ambassadorship to Belgium may not last, since Germany's occupation of that country, and Mr. Cudahy may have need of continued Administration favor.)

Smilingly, with accentuated inscrutability—Sphinx with a grin—Mr. Roosevelt listened. Cryptically he answered—whoever won, the money would be in good hands.

There were several other questions similarly indirect, similarly semihumorous—if you think this treatment of a serious public question can be funny at all. One query said that three newspaper men were going to speak on the radio about a third term—and would Mr. Roosevelt give them any suggestions? He inquired the hour of the radio talk. It was to be 11:15 p. m. and he said that most unfortunately he would be in bed and could not listen; if they would advance the hour he would be glad to listen and judge the merit of their prognostications.

BUT THERE WAS NOT, really, as much humor in it as Mr. Roosevelt seemed to wish to preserve. To the newspapermen, it had long lost its capacity to evoke hilarity. When the third-term question first arose, some eight or nine months ago, Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward it was one of irritation. Toward newspapermen who raised it, at that time, he showed exasperation. One of them he consigned to the dunce cap corner. A little later he almost angrily tabooed questions about a third term. For a while, the questioning lapsed. But the newspaper men could hardly ignore, permanently, a subject so momentous. As passage of time made the matter more pressingly imminent, the questions began again. At this stage, for several weeks past, Mr. Roosevelt's attitude has been one of jocularity.

But the jocularity could hardly avoid becoming stale with repetition; and becoming artificial and forced, almost macabre, because of the essential gravity of the issue involved. At this week's press conference, here described, there were no ringing laughs from newspapermen. Indeed their mood was almost at the point where tacit tolerance merges into active unappreciation. This attitude of many newspapermen is not professional. It is not that they resent Mr. Roosevelt's attitude of prolonged evasiveness of the most important piece of news in the contemporary world.

It is rather that—themselves endowed with more humor than the average—they have just ceased to find entertainment in Mr. Roosevelt's ingenuity of sustained crypticness. They enjoy guessing once, or even twice or thrice. But to be kept guessing for eight or nine months is a little boring.

IF IT IS that way with the newspapermen, who are mere onlookers, it is more so with the Democratic leaders, whose sense of obligation to party trust is involved, and also their personal dignity. Their feeling about Mr. Roosevelt's course is suggested by the remark that "he is treating the Democratic National Convention like Hitler treats the German Reichstag—using them merely as an audience and sounding-board for what he has to say, reducing their function to hearing, and approving, what he has decided."

This spirit of silent sullenness runs throughout the whole group of Democratic leaders—Democratic leaders as distinct from New Dealers. It is perfectly true that most of them, at this stage, want Mr. Roosevelt renominated—they think his nomination is the best they can make. But inwardly, sometimes subconsciously, they resent the condition which now compels them to take this view, the process by which this condition was imposed upon them. As the convention comes nearer, they resent the queer awkwardness imposed upon them by Mr. Roosevelt's continued silence.

In detail after detail, Mr. Roosevelt's course makes this convention out of the ordinary. In a normal convention, every name proposed for the Presidential nomination is put forward in a nominating speech, usually delivered by a high party leader, who puts time and thought and pride into preparing the speech. In this convention, no one knows whether the leading candidate is a candidate at all.

IF anyone has been chosen by Mr. Roosevelt to place his name before the convention (which is improbable) the bearer of that distinction is the only one who shares with Mr. Roosevelt the most important secret in the contemporary world. All the other speakers who are to make the nominating speeches for other candidates are handicapped by not knowing whether there will be a speech in behalf of Mr. Roosevelt. Practically every person who addresses the early sessions of the convention must speak in the dark. The writers of the platform cannot know whether to point with pride to Mr. Roosevelt's peerless past, or paint with rococo confidence his glorious future.

Everything about this convention must be contingent—must have an atmosphere of "when, as and if."

Text Of Roosevelt's Arms Plea

President Pledges Americans Will Not Fight Overseas

The text of President Roosevelt's defense message to Congress follows:

As President of the United States and as Commander in Chief of its armed forces, I come again to the representatives of the people in Congress assembled, to lay before them an extraordinary estimate of funds and authorizations required for the national defense.

In my opinion, it is necessary now that the people of this Nation and their representatives in Congress look at the problem of the national defense with utterly dispassionate realism. Never have we as a Nation attempted to define the word "defense" in terms of a specific attack at a certain place at a certain time or with specified land and sea forces. In the long sweep of the century and a half since our defenses have been concentrated under the Constitution, it has been a prime obligation of the President and Commander in Chief promptly to advise the Congress with respect to any world circumstances calling for either increased or diminished defense needs.

From time to time during the last seven years, I have not failed to advise the people and their representatives of grave dangers threatening the United States and its people, and the institutions of democracy everywhere. From time to time I have availed myself of opportunities to reassert and to implement the right of all the nations of the American hemisphere to freedom from attack or control by any non-American power.

A year and a half ago, on January 4, 1939, in my address to the Congress, I referred to the fact that I had felt it necessary on previous occasions to warn of disturbances abroad, and the need of putting our own house in order in the face of storm signals from across the seas. On that day I said that a war which threatened to envelop the world in flames had been averted, but that it had become increasingly clear that peace was not assured. I said then that all about us raged undeclared wars, military and economic. I said then that all about us were threats of new aggression, military and economic. I said then that the storms from abroad directly challenged three institutions indispensable to Americans—religion, democracy and international good faith.

Unhappily, many Americans believed that those who thought they foresaw the danger of a great war, were mistaken. Unhappily, those of us who did foresee that danger, were right.

A week later, on January 12, 1939, I submitted a program considered by me as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy and by my advisers to be a minimum program for the necessities of defense, saying that every American was aware of the peaceful intentions of this Government and of this people, and that every American knew that we have no thought of aggression and no desire for further territory. The Congress granted that request for the minimum program then deemed necessary.

At the beginning of September the storm broke, and on the twenty-first of that month, in a message to the extraordinary session of the Congress, I said that this Government must lose no time or effort to keep this Nation from being drawn into the war, and I asserted my belief that we would succeed in these efforts. We have succeeded. I believe we shall continue to succeed.

In September last, I increased the strength of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and the Federal Bureau of Investigation within statutory authorizations made by the Congress. In January, 1940, I submitted a budget to the Congress which included provision for that expansion of personnel, as well as estimates for the national defense, amounting to approximately $2,000,000,000 for the fiscal year 1941.

On May 16, in a message to the Congress, I pointed out that the swift and shocking developments of that time forced every neutral nation to look to its defenses in the light of new factors loosed by the brutal force of modern offensive war. I called attention to the treacherous use of the "fifth column," by which persons supposed to be peaceful visitors were actually a part of an enemy unit of occupation, and called especial attention to the necessity for the protection of the whole American hemisphere from control, invasion or domination. I asked at that time for a sum totaling $1,182,000,000 for the national defense.

On May 31, 1940, I again sent a message to the Congress, to say that the almost incredible events of the then past two weeks in the European conflict had necessitated another enlargement of our military program, and at that time I asked for $1,277,741,170 for the acceleration and development of our military and naval needs as measured in both machines and men.

Again today, in less than two months, the changes in the world situation are so great and so profound that I must come once again to the Congress to advise concerning new threats, new needs, and the imperative necessity of meeting them. Free men and free women in the United States look to us to defend their freedom against all enemies foreign and domestic. Those enemies of freedom who hate free institutions now deride democratic governments as weak and inefficient.

We, the free men and women of the United States, with memories of our fathers to inspire us and the hopes of our children to sustain us, are determined to be strong as well as free. The apologists for despotism and those who aid them by whispering defeatism or appeasement assert that because we have not devoted our full energies to arms and to preparation for war that we are now incapable of defense.

I refute that imputation.

We fully understand the threat of the new enslavement in which men may not speak, may not listen, may not think. As these threats become more numerous and their dire meaning more clear, it deepens the determination of the American people to meet them with wholly adequate defense.

We have seen nation after nation, some of them weakened by treachery from within, succumb to the force of the aggressor. We see great nations still gallantly fighting against aggression, encouraged by high hope of ultimate victory.

That we are opposed to war is known not only to every American, but to every government in the world. We will not use our arms in a war of aggression; we will not send out men to take part in European wars.

But, we will repel aggression against the United States or the Western Hemisphere. The people and their representatives in the Congress know that the threats to our liberties, the threats to our security, the threats against our way of life, the threats to our institutions of religion, of democracy, and of international good faith, have increased in number and gravity from month to month, from week to week, and almost from day to day.

It is because of these rapid changes; it is because of the grave danger to democratic institutions, and above all, it is because of the united will of the entire American people that I come to ask you for a further authorization of $4,848,171,957 for the national defense.

Let no man in this country or anywhere else believe that because we in America still cherish freedom of religion, of speech, of assembly, of the press; that because we maintain our free democratic political institutions by which the Nation, after full discussion and debate, chooses its representatives and leaders for itself—let no man here or elsewhere believe that we are weak.

The United States is the greatest industrial nation in the world. Its people, as workers and as businessmen, have proved that they can unite in the national interest and that they can bring together the greatest assembly of human skills, of mechanical production, and of national resources, ever known in any nation.

The principal lesson of the war up to the present time is that partial defense is inadequate defense.

If the United States is to have any defense, it must have total defense.

We cannot defend ourselves a little here and a little there. We must be able to defend ourselves wholly and at any time. Our plans for national security, therefore, should cover total defense. I believe that the people of this country are willing to make any sacrifice to attain that end.

After consultation with the War and Navy Departments and the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense, I recommend a further program for the national defense. This contemplates the provision of funds and authorizations for the material requirements without which the man power of the Nation, if called into service, cannot effectively operate, either in the production of arms and goods, or their utilization in repelling attack.

In broad outline our immediate objectives are as follows:

1. To carry forward the naval expansion program designed to build up the Navy to meet any possible combination of hostile naval forces.

2. To complete the total equipment for a land force of approximately 1,200,000 men, though of course this total of men would not be in the Army in time of peace.

3. To procure reserve stocks of tanks, guns, artillery, ammunition, etc., for another 800,000 men or a total of 2,000,000 men if a mobilization of such a force should become necessary.

4. To provide for manufacturing facilities, public and private, necessary to produce critical items of equipment required for a land force of 2,000,000 men, and to produce the ordnance items required for the aircraft program of the Army and Navy—guns, bombs, armor, bombsights and ammunition.

5. Procurement of 15,000 additional planes for the Army and 4,000 for the Navy, complete with necessary spare engines, armaments, and the most modern equipment.

The foregoing program deals exclusively with material requirements. The Congress is now considering the enactment of a system of selective training for developing the necessary man power to operate this material and man power to fill Army noncombat needs. In this way we can make certain that when this modern material becomes available, it will be placed in the hands of troops trained, seasoned, and ready, and that replacement material can be guaranteed.

I take this occasion to report the excellent progress being made for the procurement of the equipment already ordered under authorization by the Congress. Every week more and more is being delivered. The several branches of the Government are working in close cooperation with each other and with private manufacturers.

We are keeping abreast of developments in strategy, tactics, and technique of warfare, and build our defenses accordingly.

The total amount which I ask of the Congress in order that this program may be carried out with all reasonable speed is $2,161,441,957, which it is estimated would be spent out of the Treasury between now and July 1, 1941, and an additional $2,686,730,000 for contract authorizations.

So great a sum means sacrifice. So large a program means hard work—the participation of the whole country in the total defense of the country. This Nation through sacrifice and work and unity proposes to remain free.

French Vote Totalitarian Rule, Battle Over Blame for Defeat

Only 80 Cast Negative Ballots In Wild Session

By the Associated Press

Vichy, France, July 10.—Bitter accusations of responsibility for France's defeat threw the National Assembly into an uproar tonight as it formally voted approval for Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain to form an authoritarian regime for what is left of France.

The final joint vote of both houses was announced as 569 to 80 with 15 abstentions.

France thus will shortly have a a new totalitarian constitution modeled after those of the very Axis powers which conquered and ended the third republic.

Pierre Laval, former foreign minister and proponent in years past of close Franco-Italian relations, represented the 84-year-old marshal-premier.

Plans Referendum

Laval said the new constitution would be presented to the people for approval in a national referendum, but he did not say how the vote would be conducted in divided, impoverished, unoccupied France.

Germans now occupy half the country, France's soldiers are in concentration camps or on the march to them, and the French navy mainly has been seized or sunk by Britain.

As result of the stormy session and the casting of 80 negative votes, which the German radio called "catastrophic" for the French, there were reports that Marshal Petain might be replaced as premier, United Press said, in a Zurich dispatch.

[Former Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin, a rightist, was mentioned in Nazi quarters as a possible successor of Petain. Flandin was said to have violently attacked various leaders during the session, accusing them of "responsibilty for France's war policy."]

Members in both parliamentary groups sought to place the blame for France's heavy defeat, and the roots of bitterness were deep.

Defends Daladier

Aged Edouard Herriot, president of the Chamber of Deputies, leaped to his feet soon after the session began to shout a violent defense of Edouard Daladier, former premier, and other prominent absentees, when their names were hissed in a roll call.

Paul Reynaud, the premier who succeeded Daladier, and who was pushed out of office when he wanted to continue the war against Germany from French North Africa, sat impassively, his head turbaned with bandages due to an automobile accident last month.

In a Chamber meeeting preceding the National Assembly, Herriot, looking tired and discouraged, remained silent when an extreme Rightest, Tixier-Vignancourt, screamed at him:

"And you! You let yourself be an accomplice of those who carelessly brought their country under the heavy heel of their (Germany's) boots.

"I accuse you of permitting Paul Reynaud to return here."

Messages excusing themselves from attending were read from Daladier, Georges Mandel, Cesar Campinchi and others previously reported to have sailed aboard the liner Massilia for North Africa, where it was believed they might try to form a new government.

Until today their names had not been officially mentioned nor was it explained whence their supposed messages came, nor where they were supposed to be.

Old Leaders Booed

Extreme Rightists jeered, hissed and booed when their names were mentioned.

It was a strange setting where the Third Republic died in this city famous for its mineral water cures, but efforts were made to present the same pomp as if the meeting was held instead in the Palais Bourbon in Paris.

Outside a unit of the Republican Guard sounded their drums as senators and deputies arrived. Most came by foot, dressed in formal black. The white-bearded Jules Jeanneney, Senate president, wore a top hat.

Leon Blum, Socialist premier of the Popular Front government in 1936, whom many extreme Rightists hold partly responsible for France's defeat, was an outstanding figure with his big hat and heavy spectacles.

Most of the Parliament wore the little red buttons of the Legion of Honor bestowed by the Third Republic which they voted out of existence.

Although the number of negative votes were heavier than yesterday's separate meetings of both houses in which only four voices were raised against the totalitarian measure, the outcome of today's meeting was never in doubt.

Shakeup Expected

Zurich, July 10 (U.P.).—The official German D. N. B. agency reported tonight from Geneva that a reorganization of the Petain government by the week-end is anticipated as an outgrowth of today's developments at Vichy.

Only a few parliamentary committees will remain behind in Vichy, it was understood, to serve as advisers to the government in its shift toward a totalitarian regime and to serve as a "rear guard" for the now destroyed Parliament.

The National Assembly's resolution as it was approved after changes in its text said:

"The National Assembly gives to the French government under Marshal Petain all powers in order to promulgate by single or various acts a new constitution which shall guarantee the rights of labor, family and fatherland under a new order.

"This change of constitution must be approved by the French people and then to be passed by the people's representatives, as yet to be created."

Great Air Battle At Dover Viewed As Possible Prelude

—the Germans trying for hits on ships and attempting to break through British defenses for inland attacks.

Unlike raids of weeks ago when the bombers came a few at a time without fighter escort yesterday raiders brought whole flights of fast, light, fighting planes to ward off the British Spitfires and Hurricanes.

One squadron of nine big bombers was guarded by 50 lighter warplanes. The bombers were guarded within two full circles of Messerschmitts.

Some of the British fighter planes literally dived through the ring of Messerschmitts to reach the bombers. One British pilot was credited with roaring high over the ringed bombers, then diving into the center and bringing down one fighter and a bomber.

Some of the planes smashed together in midair and plunged in locked wreckage to the earth or into the sea.

No Time to Count

"In aerial combat," the British air ministry said, "there is no time to watch what happens to the enemy, so accurate figures on enemy losses in such a day's flights will probably never be known except to the German high command."

The British reported the last waves of attackers finally driven off, but early today the drone of bomber motors still was heard intermittently over the coast.

Other Nazi bombs fell near the Bristol channel on the west coast, at regions in the Norfolk coast, in South Wales, at an undesignated southwest port and in districts in the south of England.

The air ministry also announced that Tuesday night R. A. F. bombers attacked naval dockyards at Wilhelmshaven and Bremen, freight yards in the Ruhr, an oil refinery at Monheim and airdromes at Borkum, Texel, Schiphol and Waalhaven. "Damage was done to all these objectives," the communique said. "All our aircraft returned safely."

No Damage, Nazis Say

[British planes Tuesday night again attacked "nonmilitary objectives" in Holland and northern and western Germany "without causing essential damage," the German high command said.]

The report of abandonment of efforts at coordinating defense plans in Ireland said Premier De Valera's determination to maintain Eire's neutrality has blocked the British, and on the other hand Viscount Craigavon, premier of northern Ireland, has shown equal resolve to preserve the status quo of the six counties still tied to the British crown.

DeValera not only has declared for neutrality but has appealed for a united Ireland to defend the island. That would be tantamount to Northern Ireland abandoning its belligerency on the side of Britain—a course Lord Craigavon will not follow.

Military forces in northern Ireland have been strengthened to combat any attack there.

Butler's statement that Germany might be diverted from England to southwestern Europe added that aside from its difficulties in holding down the subject peoples, Germany will have to face the "old major rivalries" between powers. "Italy and Russia will each have its view about the Balkans.

"Spain will have its own tradition of pride and independence. There will be varying views about the Dardanelles. There will be several voices in the Mediterranean. The loudest will be the bark of the big guns of our battle fleet."

A British air raid warden saw a Nazi detachment of half a hundred planes strike at a convoy of small ships in the Dover Straits and said he believed one was sunk.

"Altogether," he said, "there must have been at least 120 German planes including some 80 bombers.

"The bombers approached in two large formations and attacked the convoyed ships in waves, covering the sea with their bombs. I had never seen anything like it. A solid wall of water went up in one line for a distance of two or three miles as the bombs burst.

"You could not see the ships now. As the bombers and fighters of both sides met in the sky, planes were hurtling down. I counted at least ten which went into the sea and others made off toward France badly damaged. Several had smoke coming from their tails."

A man who watched one phase of the great air battle thus described it:

"There must have been something like 70 planes all concentrated in one spot in the sky—mixed up and going 'round and 'round in a wide circle as the pilots tried to get on their targets.

Like Swarm of Bees

"They were like bees around a honey pot. Now and then you would see a machine come away, go down in a steep dive and crash into the sea thousands of feet below.

"One fighter pilot appeared to shoot down two enemy (German) machines, one after the other.

"Within two minutes—perhaps less—I saw (German) bombers go crashing down into the sea.

"I think the antiaircraft fire from one of our warships got two. Another bomber had its tail shot right away and it went down in a spin. Hundreds of bombs must have been dropped. The noise was deafening although I was at least five miles away.

"After dropping their bombs the raiders made off as fast as they could, leaving teir fighter escort to hold off our fighters. Ours, however, succeeded in getting through the screen and accounted for some more bombers."

Two airmen bailed out from a falling bomber and fell into the sea. A fishing boat searched but found no trace of them.

[The Italians said a strong Italian fleet concentration has been made in the Ionian Sea—between lower Italy and Greece—to oppose any further attacks.

Poles Flee French Harbors

Two Polish ships which French authorities in West African ports attempted to hold broke out of their harbors and are now in British ports, the admiralty announced today.

The ships were the 3,133-ton Stalowa Wola, which escaped from Dakar, French West Africa, and the 6,345-ton Pulaski which escaped at night from the inner harbor at Konakri, another French West African port.

Slaying Suspect Returned Here To Await Trial

William Thomas Hooper, 59, was at the District Jail last night awaiting trial, on murder charges in the drinking party slaying of Ernest W. Hartman, 48, a fellow inmate of Soldiers Home.

Hooper was returned here yesterday afternoon from Philadelphia by Detective Sergt. Jeremiah Flaherty following his arrest there on information forwarded from Washington.

The veteran told police he had no recollection of the fight which resulted in Hartman's death, June 18.

Hartman died of a fractured skull after he was found unconscious in "Hobo Valley," a strip of woodland near the Soldiers Home grounds. Described as a drinking partner of Hartman's, Hooper has been indicted in the case.

Slaying Suspect Admits 3d Killing

Los Angeles, July 10 (AP).—Harry W. Gordon, unemployed merchant seaman, today admitted the slaying of a third woman, police said. They quoted Gordon as saying he choked Lena Coffin, 35, to death in a San Francisco hotel April 6, 1935, then mutilated her.

Gordon yesterday confessed, detectives said, the killing of his wife, Florence Johnston, in New York in 1934, and Mrs. Robert Earl McCarthy, mother of two children, in San Francisco June 25. A warrant charging him with the latter slaying has been issued.

So You Possessed $59.39 Last Month, Eh?

The public's unprecedented demand for cash boosted money in circulation last month to a record average of $59.39 per person.

This was an increase of $1 over May and a gain of $5.66 over a year ago.

The unusual demand caused the mints to go on 24-hour production.

U. S. Apology For Japanese 'Insult' Asked

Quiet Meeting Gives Impression Tokyo Is Soft-Pedaling Issue

By the Associated Press

Shanghai, July 10.—Anti-American agitation based on the recent arrest of Japanese gendarmes by United States Marines culminated tonight in a massmeeting at which Japanese residents demanded an official apology for the "insult."

It was a sober gathering, however, devoid of extravagant speeches, and some observers gathered the impression that Japanese officials were beginning to soft-pedal the excitement.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, did not mention the meeting.

The newspaper Tairiku Shimpo, however, printed a fresh diatribe against the United States Marines for their "senseless cruelty" and said 11 gendarmes had been injured through rough handling during their five-hour detention.

Only 3 Need Iodine

Col. Dewitt Peck, United States Marines commander, said only three of the 16, arrested while armed in civilian clothing in the United States defense area of the International Settlement, were bruised badly enough to require "iodine treatment."

A Japanese army spokesman said the point of Japan's protest was not the arrest itself, but violence against the gendarmes "and unfriendly treatment to which they were subjected like criminals sentenced to death."

Col. Peck suggested that discussion turn back to the real issue, which was why the gendarmes entered the defense zone in violation of previous agreements.

The British steamer Shengking, which the Japanese navy seized here yesterday, still was detained at Woosung. The Shengking's failure to halt when a Japanese warship chased it was characterized by a Japanese spokesman as "an insult to the Japanese navy."

Asked whether any measures had been taken against anti-American agitation in Hongkew, Japanese-occupied section of the International Settlement, the spokesman replied, "It is a matter of course to suppress unreasonable, illegal or improper action, but we are not in a position to suppress a spontaneous expression of national feeling."

The campaign, he added, would be stopped if it reached such proportions that it would be likely to impair Japanese-United States relations or disturb the peace.

Suma Expects Settlement

Tokyo, Juy 10 (AP).—Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, said today he expected the Shanghai incident would be settled between Japanese and American authorities in Shanghai.

Meanwhile, the Japanese government interpreted President Roosevelt's recent suggestion of "Monroe Doctrines" for Europe and Asia as agreeing in principle with Japan's "Asiatic Monroe Doctrine," Summa said.

The President's remarks brought general acclaim in official Japanese circles.

Secretary Hull again expressed the hope and expectation yesterday that the Shanghai incident would be settled locally.

der.

The reported presence of Russian warships off the Bulgarian port of Varna was regarded as a Soviet threat to bring the Bulgars into line with Russian plans, rather than as a direct menace to Turkey.

Fear was expressed that Bulgaria might yield to Russian pressure and permit Red army troops to cross Bulgaria should Stalin's expected ultimatum lead to hostilities.

The Turks feel secure against any Russian attack by the Black Sea or through the Caucasus. The great danger was seen as a Soviet advance from Bessarabia through Rumania and Bulgaria to Thrace—which is hard to defend—and thence to the straits.

This, however, would throw the Balkans into war, it was believed. It was doubted that Germany or Italy wanted this at present, but it was admitted there was some doubt as to whether they could prevent it.

western Europe.

German sources declared Russia's move into Rumania was made only after advance notice to Germany last summer, at the time of the Russian-German rapprochement.

But Hungary's clamor for return of war-lost Transylvania remained. At least until Teleky and Csaky conferred today with Foreign Ministers von Ribbentrop, of Germany, and Count Ciano, of Italy, and later with Hitler, Hungary seemed ready to march against Rumania.

While both Hitler and Premier Mussolini agree that Balkan revision falls within their program for scrapping Versailles and associated treaties of the World War, the Fuehrer is said to hold that territorial claims must not be pressed too aggressively.

[Money as well as territory will go to Bulgaria in the German-sponsored settlement of Balkan affairs, according to reports in well-informed Sofia circles.

[Germany, these reports indicated, has promised Bulgaria its aid in recovering World-War reparations paid by that country, as well as substantial territorial expansion. Bulgaria seeks return of the southern Dobruja from Rumania and an outlet to the Aegean sea from Greece.]

Any revision for Hungary will carry no German indorsement, according to informed sources, until Hungary gives:

1. Binding assurances that Germans within her borders will receive better treatment.

2. A clear statement as to where she stands on German plans for rearrangement of the European continent.

The conferences formed a sequel to last Sunday's conference of Hitler and Ciano on the future of Europe.

"The will of Germany and Italy to direct a new order in Europe," said the authoritative commentary Dienst aus Deutschland, "is progressing more distinctly into the consciousness of the continent of Europe."

The presence in Munich of Dr. Karl Clodius, Germany's ace economic trouble shooter, strengthened reports the conferees discussed measures of economic warfare which would permit Germany and Italy to tighten their blockade of Great Britain through closer economic integration of the Balkans.

Only a First Step

Copyright by New York Times

Rome, July 10.—The first step in the construction of "the new order in Europe," taken in Munich today, will not yet be a decisive one, according to well-informed circles here.

The problems involved in southeastern Europe have proved too complicated to permit swift settlement and every evidence points to the basis of such a settlement being laid down while the actual moves will be taken after—as the Axis powers hope—Britain has been defeated and the war is over.

Despite the emphasis on the Balkans, no one is losing sight of the fact that the offensive against Britain is more important in the long run. It is believed here that the attack was postponed for this meeting. Consequently, once the conference is over the offensive will be expected soon afterward.

Carol Stands Fast

Bucharest, July 10. (AP).—Rumanian government circles tonight emphatically declined to comment on the Munich talks, and developments indicated King Carol II was determined to remain master in his own country, regardless of Russia's recent seizure of Bessarabia and the menace of further dismemberment to satisfy Hungarian and Bulgarian claims.

A communique announced the detention of Gen. Ion Antonescu, whose Iron Guards had touted him for the premiership, and he was accused of being "unfriendly" to the present regime. Later, however, a second communique said Antonescu had been freed after promising to stay out of politics.

Antonescu was slated to become vice premier in the Gigurtu government but the Iron Guard refused to let him serve, informed sources said, because the Guard wanted to save him for the premiership if they succeeded in toppling the present Gigurtu regime and creating a 100 per cent Iron Guard government.

Rumania announced her withdrawal from the League of Nations tonight. The withdrawal, Prime Minister Mihail Manoilescu told the press, ends Rumania's "political illusions."

Hundreds of Communists also were arrested in a nation-wide drive against subversive agitation but authorities said there were no violent incidents.

You Don't Have to Be a Hollywood Star To Have Fur Coat by Movie Designer

Practical Wraps By Creators of Glamour Clothes Featured Here

By Marshall Adams
The Post Fashion Editor.

MARSHALL ADAMS

PROSPECTIVE fur buyers may be interested to know that many of the furs they will wear this winter were designed for them by the same stylists who create exclusively for Hollywood's film stars.

An arrangement between Hollywood's "Big Five," a unit of movie designers, and a local store had been made months ago to bring to Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Smythe, of Washington, a really different looking collection of fur coats both practical and glamorous. Originally responsible for this arrangement was Twentieth Century Fox's Miss Gwen Wakeling, who, over a year ago, discovered the need of personalizing fur fashions for the everyday woman who might still feel that furs are "too bulky to be becoming" or "too ordinary to compete with a good cloth coat."

Exclusive Designs

Both of these average objections seem to have vanished under the touch of the dynamic Fox Studio stylist. This year she joined forces with Howard Greer, famous free-lance designer; Edward Stevenson, of RKO; Milo Anderson, the boy wonder of Warner Brothers, and Walter Plunkett, the Selznick Studio "G. W. T. W." costumer who made Scarlett's "green muslin" live all over again. Together these five stylists originated canvas patterns exact in every detail with their original sketches which in turn became the exclusive property of one store in each big city. Under a local buyer's skilfull fingers, these patterns have grown in practicality until they have just been completed in versions of beaver, fox, muskrat, mouton, pony, Persian, etc.

Displayed Here

These Hollywood designed furs were featured at a fashion show yesterday—impressive with a backdrop of pelts, and a former Hollywoodite, Miss Meredith Howard, acting as mistress of ceremonies. Savoring especially of that gilded city were the pony coats, glistening and sleek (but modest in price) and looking quite new with hip pocket effects, skunk borders, overlapping sleeve treatments and high-riding yokes in authentic movie manner.

A coat typically collegian is the laskin mouton above. College girls, already buzzing over the August fur sales, like the expensive beaver effect they get from this economical dyed lamb. The finger-tip length jacket features a detachable hood (another campus favorite) and deep slashed pockets bound with broadcloth to match the ties of the hood. The color is logwood brown; the price, well under $100

Economic Misfortune Separates Man From Family; Wife Now Thinks He Is Better Off Where He Is; Should He Go Back, at Risk of Being Jobless?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: A friend of mine is in a dilemma over a domestic problem, and has sought my advice on its solution. Because my experience in such matters is so limited, and yours so great, I would appreciate your suggestions. Following is a sketchy outline of the case:

Five years ago, at a time when this man was unemployed, he was offered a temporary Government job. He was then living with his wife and son, and the wife's mother, in property which he jointly owned with his wife. They had a car and never had been separated since their marriage.

After a conference, it was decided that a temporary job was better for him than no job at all, so he packed up and went to a distant city to take the post. His work proved so satisfactory that he was given a permanent job. He made trips home about twice a month. Then the wife's mother died, leaving additional property to that already owned by the couple. Meantime, the wife found employment and hired a relative to keep house. Her income exceeded her husband's.

After the mother's death the husband felt that he should be at home with his family, but his wife showed no enthusiasm over the idea. Jobs were scarce and hard to find, and in order to return to his home town the man would have to quit his position and start all over again. Also, the wife insisted that her income was not enough for both—although it exceeded $3,000 a year, plus $90 a month from the estate. She said if the husband came home and couldn't find work it would be disagreeable for all.

So the husband remained in the distant city, living at a hotel and building up a new circle of friends. He contributed regularly to the support of his wife and son (despite the wife's substantial income), and this has been going on now for years. The wife lives in their beautiful home, while he has a room and taken his meals out. His marriage prevents any but a limited circle of friends, and his wife keeps strictly to her home and her books, as she studies continuously for additional college degrees.

The husband is getting older. Many of his friends don't know that he is married. Others, who know that he is married, think that he is separated from his family. Neither husband nor wife, so far as I know, is interested in anyone else. Both are intelligent and well educated, with high moral standards. The question is: What should be done? Surely the normal life for them is together, under the same roof.

With a joint income of more than $5,000 a year they are growing apart; and the son is denied his father's companionship, except at rare intervals on a "visiting" basis. Both husband and wife have a high sense of duty and loyalty, up to a certain point, and they are devoted to their son. What is the solution of their problem?

Very truly yours,
J. B. H.

Best to Override Wife's Selfish Indifference

DEAR J. B. H.: I imagine the wife is bent on keeping her husband where he is, for the reason that she is blandly content to have him there. No doubt he had become something of a fifth wheel in her scheme of things long before he left. And when he moved out, I daresay she took the reins in her own hands with a sigh of relief—that she no longer need go through the motions of deferring to him and catering to his comfort as nominal head of the house.

There is a considerable number of women who would rather be absentee wives than ministering angels to their respective husbands, once they have made the grade into the precinct of matrimony. Such women marry more for matronly status and prerogative (and, occasionally, for children), than for close conjugal companionship. And I hazard the guess that this man's wife is such a woman.

Thus, I believe it is futile to try to persuade her that she and her husband would be better off together than apart, regardless of monetary sacrifice. Indeed, I believe she would rather sacrifice to keep him away, than sacrifice to bring him home. She might deny the truth of such an analysis, but I think it applies, nevertheless.

However, her unspoken but potently implied preference need not be the determining factor in perpetuating the present unwieldy set-up. Theoretically, the man has the power to go home to stay, whenever he chooses. And that, of course, is where he should go, if he thinks such a move is best for him and his son. Nothing is keeping him from going except his own lack of "git-up-and-git."

If he wants to demonstrate his right to call himself a man, he ought to go back home at once—either with a new job in hand or with plans well laid to get one. If he brings enough argument and pressure to bear upon the proper Federal executives, he probably could secure a transfer from one Government department to another—a transfer that would move him from the "distant city" to his "home city." He should make it plain why he wants to be transferred; and this appealing reason, when coupled with his "satisfactory" work, which quickly won him permanent employment, is calculated to bring the result he so greatly desires.

Yet, a brave and self-reliant man wouldn't wait too long on such an eventuality, if it gave promise of being tediously delayed. He would hightail back to his own bailiwick without that crutch, trusting to his proved competence and credentials (as solvent citizen and efficient employe) to land him a job there, now that times are better. And instead of meekly waiting for wifely encouragement to make the move, he would simply tell his cold-shouldering better half what he had determined to do—and then he would set about doing it. And that is what I think your friend should do, and must do—if he is ever to become a bona-fide family man again.

M. H.

It's Those Little Extras That Add Fat

By Ida Jean Kain

It's easy in the summer for you to get extra calories in all the trimmings—cream on berries, butter on sandwiches, mayonnaise on salads, sugar in short and tall drinks, calories here, there and everywhere!

The worst of it is, all the trimmings are so high in calories it just doesn't seem right. One teaspoon of mayonnaise furnishes 100 calories. The same number is contained in one and one-half tablespoons of French dressing. The number of calories in cream varies with the percentage of fat, but even thin cream contains 30 calories per tablespoon. And one carefully measured pat of butter, one-half inch thick, equals another 100 calories. It doesn't matter how you take them, 100 calories a day above your requirements will put fat on, not take it off

Avoid Too Much Salt

As if the calories were not trouble enough, there are other menu mistakes to be avoided when you are trying for streamlines. There isn't a calorie in a carton of salt, but the overgenerous use of it leads to the bad habit of drinking too much water with the meals and that leads to the still worse habit of gulping your food and eating too much.

You need some salt in hot weather to replace that which is lost through perspiration. But you don't need to salt everything twice or to use it too liberally on salads, corn and melons. Salt holds water in the tissues. If you eat quantities of salt, then drink lots of liquid with the meal, you are not going to be very slim in the middle by fall!

Excess Liquid Bad

Whether you take one glass of liquid with the meals or three makes a big difference in your slimming progress. Too much liquid with the meal stretches the stomach, increases the appetite, and eventually, ruins the silhouette. This is true of any excess liquid—tea, coffee, milk or beer. The quantity is what counts.

The Gentler Sex

Senators and Silhouettes

WAR against the new fall fashion silhouette was carried yesterday to Congress by Mrs. Henrietta DeGoofey, president of the Do Something About It League.

Mrs. DeGoofey

"Act now while there is yet time and save the American woman from making a spectacle of herself in September," Mrs. DeGoofey abjured members of the Senate Committee for Public Meddling.

Opposing Mrs. DeGoofey at the hearing was Miss Geraldine Van Glitter, New York stylist, who declared the new feminine silhouette was "terribly smart," "figure flattering" and "fashion right."

"This new tight hobble silhouette," declared Mrs. DeGoofey, "is merely the forerunner of the atrocious styles we had following the last war!"

Miss Van Glitter objected to Mrs. DeGoofey's use of the term "hobble silhouette." "It is called the straight and narrow silhouette," insisted the stylist.

"So much the worse," retorted Mrs. DeGoofey. "I have always been opposed to anything 'straight and narrow.'"

Fifth Column Move Seen

The crusader charged that Hitler was back of the fall silhouette and that Nazi interests were trying to get American women into costumes that would make them "look worse than at any time since they wore the comic-strip attire of the 20's."

Miss Van Glitter

"If the present trend continues," said Mrs. DeGoofey, "every woman in the country with piano legs or knock-kneed shanks will be wiggling along the streets in a tight, short dress that has about as much grace as a strait jacket. Worse still, women will be wearing these skimpy outfits without girdles."

"Mrs. DeGoofey," interrupted Senator Tweet, pointing an accusing finger at the reformer, "you are an interventionist! You are trying to drag this country into war!"

"Senator, you're still seeing things—from last night," Mrs. DeGoofey retorted.

"Not at all!" thundered the Senator. "Doesn't Hitler control Paris now? We cannot afford to offend him by taking any action on the fashion front. We are not going to send our brave boys overseas to defend anybody's waistline!"

"Simply because yours is past defending," replied Mrs. DeGoofey, "is no reason why you should bury your head in the sand and let American women be regimented into walking barrels."

"Do you gentlemen realize," continued Mrs. DeGoofey, "that the feminine waistline is dropping every day as skirts are tightening; that it eventually will be around the hips, and that the fashion nightmares of the 20's will return to haunt us?"

'To Utterly Utter,' Says Stylist

Miss Van Glitter interrupted again in defense of the new silhouette. "It is utterly intriguing," she declared. "So stunning! And so youthful! It imparts a slim pencil effect to the figure."

"You mean a tub effect!" broke in Mrs. DeGoofey. "Ninety per cent of the women who wear it will look exactly like walking tubs. Another thing, what are we going to do with our flared skirts from last winter? This is a diabolical device to make every woman throw away last winter's best dress that she intended to fall back on this fall."

Mrs. DeGoofey further declared she had been warning the Nation for three years of this trend toward the "awful attire of the jazz age and that those in authority had been acting like a 'bunch of Chamberlains.'"

"Is it no concern to Congress," she asked, "that subversive forces are trying to get the women of America back into the most unbecoming and immodest attire since Eve donned the fig leaf?"

"Say, what about having some of these gowns modeled for the committee?" asked Senator China.

"Fine!" exclaimed Miss Van Glitter. "I will assemble some stunning bathing beauties——"

"And I," exclaimed Mrs. DeGoofey, "will assemble some dowagers and housewives as horrible examples of the 90 per cent——"

"Just a minute!" interrupted Senator Sly. "I move we postpone further hearings on this controversial matter until after the campaign."

"Aye!" shouted his colleagues.

Delightful Buffet Luncheon Served in Seaside Manner

A SWIMMING party is one place where hunger reaches great heights. Out in the wide-open spaces of lovely Sherwood Forest on the Severn River Dr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Silver entertained last Sunday at their summer home a group of friends, largely composed of members of the Women's National Press Club. Mrs. Harold Tufty was the honor guest.

While the sun was at its height many of the guests took advantage of a refreshing swim, while others enjoyed the large sun deck of the attractive, rambling rustic cottage. Summertime meals can stimulate happiness, and the buffet luncheon served at this party was no exception as there was sparkle and color to the entire buffet table.

Great platters of turkey and baked ham were highlights of this meal. Dr. Silver and Mr. Harold Tufty carved the fowl and porker with great dispatch. A veritable garden had been tossed in a huge wooden salad bowl and drenched with French dressing. A tomato-cheese aspic added savor and charm to the meal. It was this salad with a different twist, that especially delighted many of the guests. And here is a recipe for making this excellent summertime salad.

Tomato-Cheese Aspic

Sprinkle 2 tablespoons gelatine over ½ cup of tomato juice drained from a No. 2½ can of tomatoes. Cook the remainder of the tomatoes and juice from the can with ½ cup chopped celery leaves, ¼ cup chopped celery, ½ small onion sliced, 6 cloves, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains pepper and ½ teaspoon sugar for 10 minutes. Put through a sieve and add 1½ tablespoons lemon juice and 1½ tablespoons vinegar. Add the gelatine and tomato juice and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Pour into a mold, which has been rinsed with cold water, and then chill. When the mixture begins to congeal, place one half of the aspic on a platter and spread with cream cheese that has been whipped to a creamy consistency and flavored with chives, if desired. Then place another layer of aspic on top of the cheese mixture, and allow it to chill to a firm consistency. When ready to serve, cut in squares and place in lettuce nests. This aspic may be served with mayonnaise or salad if desired. Serves 6.

Hot cloverleaf and pocketbook rolls, iced drinks, hot coffee and devil's food cake were other items on the buffet table.

Beauty Secrets

By CAROLYN ABBOTT

Eyelid Make-up

HOW do you put on your eyeshadow? With your little finger, as you've been told for years? Well, here's a new idea. Try it with a brush—the result is much more subtle and glamorous.

The ideal kind of brush is a thin, camel's hair similar to a fine paint brush. With this type of brush a delicate line of eyeshadow can be drawn along the line of the eyelashes, much closer to them than the finger can possibly get it. Then this line is blended out over the lid, fading toward the temple. It should fade, too, as it reaches the crease of the lid. This blending process can be done with the finger, but be careful not to get it too close to the nose or allow it to spread over the entire lid.

Here are two general rules to keep in mind about applying eyeshadow: If your eyes are close together or your face very narraw, keep your eyeshadow on the outer half of the lid and nearer the temples; but if your face is broad or your eyes too wide set, bring the shadow toward the nose. Do not let the shadow extend all the way to the corner.

Najeras Give Party For Senora de Ledon

Mexican Playwright Meets Chiefs of Most Latin-American Missions at Embassy Gathering; Plans to Leave for New York Visit Next Week

By Carolyn Bell

It takes just the slightest excuse for the Mexicans to give a party. But last evening the Ambassador and Senora de Castillo Najera had a very good reason, in the person of scintillating Senora Amalia Castillo Ledon, Mexico's outstanding feminine playwright.

Something of a whirlwind, Senora de Ledon has been constantly on the go since her arrival in Washington last week. As a climax to her visit she spoke at the Pan American Union last evening. Although her topic was the literary women of Mexico she dwelled for sometime on contemporary poetesses. For the most part the audience was Spanish speaking, so naturally the talk was in that tongue. An extremely expressive person, however, Senora de Ledon made her views clear to many who don't speak Spanish.

Honor Guest Wears Black

Later in the evening the lively lady met most of the chiefs of missions of Latin-American countries, at the small gathering at the embassy. It was a typical "Najera party," differing only in size. Whereas the embassy often bulges with several hundred people, only about 60 diplomats had been invited. An impromptu affair, guests were asked via telephone.

Receiving with her hostess, Senora de Ledon wore a chic black dinner frock with long sleeves. Several magnificent sapphires—her favorite jewel—twinkled on her hands. Tall, well proportioned she is a striking figure. She has wide blue eyes, extremely fair skin and copper-tinted brown hair.

Creating quite a stir among the male contingent was Senora de Ledon's 17-year-old daughter, Beatrice. A beautiful child, Beatrice has the Latin eyes and hair. She wore a pale pink tulle frock last night which billowed out at the waistline. Beatrice confessed that she is following in her mother's footsteps to some extent, for she has written several poems.

Missing at last night's merry fete was vivid Senorita Erma Castillo Najera, daughter of the Ambassador and his wife. At present Erma and her brothers, Luis and Pancho, are visiting relatives in Mexico City. Both Erma and Luis had the thrill of casting their votes lats Sunday for the next President of Mexico.

Lavish Buffet Is Offered

Senora de Ledon was being complimented on all sides last evening on her well-delivered address. Coming in for a share of the spotlight was the genial Ambassador, who, in his incomparable style, had introduced the speaker. The bar was, as usual, set up in the patio where one could take a peek at the canaries in their cages. The small buffet table was centered with white lilies and roses. All manner of food, including turkey, ham, salads and sweets were served. The ladies of the embassy assisted throughout the evening. Missing from the throng, however, was handsome Senora de Fuentes, wife of the Counselor of the Embassy.

Senora de Ledon, chatting easily with the guests, was telling one, somewhat excitedly, about her experience on the radio in the afternoon, when she was guest on Miss Elinor Lee's hour. Since her arrival she has been deep in plans for the new League for Democracy, which she organized a short while ago in Mexico City. Planning to remain here a week longer, Senora de Ledon, with her daughter, will leave then for New York for a visit to the World's Fair. She also plans to give several talks in New York City, on the women of Mexico. Before returning to Mexico City she will visit Washington again briefly.

Barbara White To Be Wed To Ensign

Marriage Ceremony Set for Tomorrow At Long Island

Mrs. Hollis White, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. George Weed Wallace and Mrs. William Lewis Pitcher, will leave Washington today for Douglaston, L. I., where they will attend the marriage of Mrs. White's granddaughter, Miss Barbara Lewis White to Ensign John L. Erickson, U. S. N. The ceremony is scheduled to take place tomorrow afternoon at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Gibson White.

Miss White is the granddaughter of Mrs. Lewis D. Pace and the late Mr. Pace, of Atlanta, Ga., and Washington, D. C. Her maternal great grandfather was Samuel Field Phillips, one-time Solicitor General of the United States. She also is descended from the Warner Hall Lewis family of Virginia.

On her father's side she is a great-great-granddaughter of Brig. Gen. Horatio Gates Gibson, U. S. A., and a direct descendant of Capt. John Underhill and Antoine Lispenard, figures in the early history of New York.

Ensign Erickson is the son of David L. Erickson and the late Mrs. Erickson, of Lincoln, Nebr. He was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1938 and was stationed on the U. S S. Savannah until early this month when he was transferred to the United States Naval Air Corps at Pensacola, Fla.

Benets to Leave On Vacation Today

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence V. Benet will leave today by motor for a vacation trip that will keep them away from Washington until the middle of September.

They will drive first to Eagles Mere, Pa., to spend some time, going from there to Saranac Inn, N. Y. Later, after motoring through New England, they will stop at Poland Springs, Me., for a couple of weeks before returning home.

Engagement Announced

Albin Austin Bricker, of Stanley, Va., announces the engagement of his daughter, Claire Laurette, to Thomas Edwin Speake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Raymond Speake, of Luray, Va. The wedding will take place August 17.

Miss Lee Returns

Miss Pearl E. Lee has returned to Washington after visiting friends and relatives in Norfolk and Virginia Beach.

Enjoying 'Country Club Vacation'

"What's the score?" Mrs. Hugh Rowan asks Mrs. Woodlief Thomas as they pause briefly on the golf links at Kenwood. As a rule, you see Mrs. Rowan teeing off at the Chevy Chase Club, but this shot was taken on a guest day at a nearby club. Many Washingtonians with no going-away plans on tap are enjoying their vacation days at country clubs around these parts

Mrs. Clifford Lee Corbin Gives Luncheon for New York Guest

Mrs. Horatio Hackett, formerly of Washington, but now of New York, is in town for a brief visit and is the guest of Mrs. Clifford Lee Corbin. Mrs. Hackett will leave today for Leesburg, where she will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Harris for a few days.

At a small luncheon yesterday, Mrs. Hackett told friends that her husband is recuperating from a minor operation at a hospital here, and that as soon as he recovers they will return to New York.

Among others at the luncheon was Mrs. Walter G. Distler, who has just returned from Spring Lake, N. J., where she has taken a house for the season. She will go back to the resort next Tuesday, and Mr. Distler will join her there on week-ends through the summer.

Their daughter, Ann, is at Camp Asquam, Center Harbor, N. H., and their son, Walter, jr., is at Camp Wachussets, Holderness, N. H. According to present plans, Mr. and Mrs. Distler will visit their son and daughter late in August and then take them back to Spring Lake to spend the remainder of the summer.

Still others at the luncheon, which took place at the Mayflower Hotel, were Mrs. Arthur Henning and Mrs. Irene Caldwell. The former is marking time in Washington while her journalist husband covers the Chicago convention. In August, they will be off to a favorite spot in Maine, where they plan to spend most of the month.

Miss Barbara Henning will leave tomorrow to spend the week-end with friends in Annapolis, where she frequently visits. Her brother-in-law and sister, Lieut. and Mrs. Landon N. Head, who were recent guests here, have left for Fort Sill, Okla., to which Lieut. Head has been transferred from Fort Sam Houston.

Mrs. Caldwell, accompanied by her daughter, Barbara, will leave tomorrow for Chicago, where they will attend the Democratic National Convention. They will go first to the Stevens Hotel, where they will be for several days. Later, they will visit friends who have planned a gala round of parties for them.

After the convention, Mrs. Caldwell and her daughter will go to their place on Lake Geneva, Wis., where they will be joined by a large party for a few days.

Dorothy Russell, Bride-to-Be, Feted at Luncheon

Mrs. Robert E. Adams and her sister, Mrs. Harry E. Barbour, entertained at luncheon yesterday in the Louis Seize room of the Shoreham in honor of Miss Dorothy Russell.

Miss Russell, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Russell, will be married next Wednesday to Prof. Henry A. Lepper, jr., of Yale University, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Lepper, of Washington. The ceremony will be performed at 2 p. m. in the United Brethren Church on North Capitol street.

Among the guests at the luncheon were the bride-to-be's mother, Mrs. Russell, and Prof. Lepper's mother, Mrs. Lepper.

The table was decorated with a centerpiece of white flowers.

Bullises Announce Birth of Daughter

Maj. and Mrs. William F. Bullis announce the birth of a daughter at Columbia Hospital Tuesday. The child has been named Faith Ann.

She is the fourth child of the family and the second daughter. Her two brothers are Lawrence and Clark, and her sister is named Starr.

Maj. Bullis is president of the Bullis Preparatory School in Silver Spring, Md. Mrs. Bullis is the former Lois Hoover, of Washington.

Birth Announced

Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Notes announce the birth of a son, their first child, on Tuesday at Homeopathic Hospital. Mrs. Notes is the former Miss Lillian Houck, daughter of Phillip Houck and the late Mrs. Houck, of Harrisburg, Pa.

In Hospital

Mrs. Jesse P. Wolcott, wife of Representative Wolcott, of Michigan, underwent an operation several days ago at Colombia Hospital. Her condition is favorable.

Change Address

Mrs. Harriet Hammond Bishop and her daughter, Miss Virginia Simpson Richter have moved to 1340 Park road, where they will be temporarily before going to Blue Ridge Summit, Va., to spend part of the summer.

Wedding Plans Are Completed

Miss Florence O'Donoghue, daughter of Mrs. John A. O'Donoghue and the late Dr. O'Donoghue, has completed plans for her marriage to Dr. Francis F. Talbot July 15.

St. Matthew's Cathedral will be the scene of the ceremony at which the Rev. Joseph M. Noonan will officiate at 11 a. m. The bride will be given in marriage by Justice Daniel O'Donoghue. Mrs. James F. Leahigh, her sister, will be matron of honor, and bridesmaids will include Mrs. Robert J. Coffey, Miss Jeanne Murphy, Miss Mary Catherine Johnston and Miss Madeline Cotter.

Dr. Charles L. O'Neill, jr., of Newark, will be best man, and ushers will include Dr. John E. Carey, and Dr. James Creighton, of Buffalo; Thomas Rice, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. John A. O'Donoghue, brother of the bride.

Immediately after the wedding, there will be a reception at the Carlton Hotel. The bride-elect attended Georgetown Visitation Convent and Trinity College. Dr. Talbot, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Francis J. Talbot, of Niagara Falls, was graduated from Georgetown University Medical School.

Miss Eddy Visits Col. W. M. Dunns

Col. and Mrs. William McKee Dunn, who are spending the summer at their home at Hot Springs, have as their guest their niece, Sally Eddy, daughter of Mrs. Joseph D. Eddy, of New York and Williamsburg, Va.

Also vacationing at Hot Springs are Mrs. Howell Moorehead and her daughter, Miss Anne Moorehead, of Washington.

The Hunt Country

By Nina Carter Tabb

MRS. ROBERT C. WINMILL, of Clovelly, Warrenton, and New York, a former master of Warrenton Hunt, has again been made chairman of the entertainment committee for the forty-first annual Warrenton Horse Show to be held on Saturday, August 31 and Monday, September 2 (Labor Day).

• • • •

Mrs. Winmill has appointed an efficient committee to work with her. Assistant chairman is Miss Jane Wilbur, of Warrenton. The active entertainment committee has planned many parties for the numerous visitors and exhibitors who will be in Warrenton for the event, which is known as the "Hunter Horse Show of America." On the executive committee are J. North Fletcher, secretary; Mrs. James Hamilton, treasurer; Harold E. Smith, Sterling Larrabee and Morris Clark.

• • • •

Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. Fletcher and Alex Calvert are in charge of handling finances. Mr. Smith, Frances T. Greene and H. E. Ullman have been appointed to select the judges, who will be announced later. Mr. Greene, son of the late Col. Frederick Stuart Greene, was named manager of the show to succeed the veteran manager, Frank D. Gaskins, who has served the association in an official capacity for 40 years and who retired at the annual meeting earlier in the season. Well known in hunting circles as a point to point and steeplechase rider, Mr. Greene is an outstanding young sportsman. Recently he was named to the executive committee of the Warrenton Hunt.

• • • •

THE ORGANIZATION OF the Warrenton Horse Show is out to make its event second only to that at the Garden in New York. The Fauquier County Chapter of the American Red Cross will serve luncheons on the grounds both days of the show. Prize lists will be sent out in the next few days and those who will exhibit will be greatly interested in several new classes that have been added.

• • • •

Spending several days at Tappahannock on the Rappahannock River are Mr. and Mrs. Chaffraix Lelong, of Richmond, formerly of Warrenton; Miss Hilda Horden and Jack Keith, who have been registered at the Riverside Hotel. However, the party devoted most of its time to fishing from a boat.

Miss Hoyle Is Married In Georgetown

Wed to E. B. McLaughlin; Couple to Make Home In Wilkinsburg, Pa.

Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Georgetown was the scene of an early morning ceremony yesterday when Miss Madeline Hoyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Hoyle, became the bride of Edmund B. McLaughlin.

The Rev. Walter F. Cunningham officiated at the 9 o'clock service, which took place before an altar banked with palms, gladioli and larkspur. Miss Clelia Floravanti and Mrs. E. P. Coffey sang prior to the ceremony.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, who also gave her in marriage, the bride appeared in a white taffeta frock, fashioned with puffed sleeves and a full skirt terminating in a circular train. Her long veil was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a white prayer book from which fell a shower of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Richard Marks Marton of Honor

Mrs. Richard Marks, sister of the bride, was a matron of honor. Her dress of perwinkle taffeta was designed with puffed sleeves, a fitted bodice and a bustle-effect skirt. With it she wore a wide-brimmed Leghorn hat, and she carried a nosegay of summer blossoms.

Mrs. Page Bledsoe, of Arlington, Va., a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Ellen J. Laughlin, of Washington, were the other attendants. Mrs. Bledsoe was gowned in print taffeta, while Mrs. Laughlin had on pale blue. Both wore Leghorn hats and carried old-fashioned bouquets.

John Hoyle and Dick Marks were train bearers; Jack Marks was ring bearer, and small Billie Hoyle, was altar boy. All three are nephews of the bride.

H. Dolan Awalt Is Best Man

H. Dolan Awalt was best man, and two brothers of the bride, W. Linwood Hoyle, jr., and Roy C. Hoyle, were ushers. Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Hoyle, mother of the bride, was gowned in crushed rose lace over taffeta with white accessories. Mrs. Henry Hitzfeldt, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., mother of the bridegroom, wore white flowers—chiffon with matching accessories.

Shortly after the reception, the couple left on a Northern motor trip. For her traveling ensemble, Mrs. McLaughlin had chosen a powder blue redingote with navy blue and white accessories. She and her husband will make their home in Wilkinsburg.

Iranis Announce Daughter's Betrothal to George Ragsdale

Republican Women Working Toward Election

Members of the League of Republican Women are keeping their clubhouse open daily during the summer months and having programs with speakers to discuss national issues. Mrs. Edwards E. Minnesotan Foresees an Economic War With Dictators and Urges America To Build Protective Tariff Ramparts

By Jessie Ash Arndt.
The Post's Club Editor.

Foreseeing an economic war should the dictator countries achieve success in the present conflict, Representative August H. Andresen (Republican), of Minnesota, yesterday urged "some of the protective laws always advocated by the Republican Party, to keep the country from being flooded with products from all over the world."

Addressing the first of a series of program meetings being held this summer by the League of Republican Women, Representative Andresen declared it was "safe to assume that, if the dictators should win they would put the people of the conquered countries into agricultural and industrial slavery for the production of goods with which to capture the world market.

"It would mean, he said, that this country would be obliged to compete against sweat shop labor and prices based on correspondingly low standards of living."

He advocated protective tariff legislation as the only means of maintaining American living standards.

He expressed hearty support of all measures and appropriations for national defense, but was of the opinion actual attack on our shores was unlikely. The attack the United States would need to guard against in case of a success for the totalitarian forces would be one waged against our commerce, he asserted.

Representative Andresen discussed the New Deal policies in agriculture and industry, declaring they had only served to reduce the production of the American farmers and open the door to products of those of other countries who were taking foreign markets and those of this country as well.

He cited the scarcity program resulting in the slaughter of 7,000,000 hogs, quantities of cattle, the plowing up of wheat and the taking out of production of approximately 15,000,000 acres of cotton.

"Had this program been limited to domestic policy, it might have been more successful," he said, "but while the Federal Government was paying farmers in this country to grow less, it was also lowering tariff barriers and encouraging foreign farmers to raise more and increase their acreage so as to ship their commodities to the United States."

He asserted that, in 1932, President Roosevelt declared his intention to lower duties on industrial products, but not on agricultural commodities. Despite this, duties have been lowered on 161 competitive farm products, he said, including cattle, hogs, chickens, vegetables, berries—"practically every farm product raised north of the Mason and Dixon Line."

Cattle from Mexico and Canada, beef from Argentina, butter from 31 countries, including Russia and Japan, were some of the products he enumerated, that have come in to be sold in competition with those of American farmers.

Women's Clubs Plan War Relief Bazaar

Mrs. Lucker Heads Committee; Party Next Wednesday

Plans went forward yesterday at a meeting of the Coordinating Committee of the District Federation of Women's Clubs for the large war relief benefit to be sponsored Wednesday of next week at the clubhouse of the Women's City Club in Jackson place.

The committee, of which Mrs. John T. Lucker is chairman and Mrs. LeVerne Beales, first vice president of the federation, is cochairman, met at the club and worked out details of an afternoon and evening entertainment and bazaar.

The clubhouse and grounds will be turned over for the fete and there will be booths, games, fortune telling, refreshments and a program. It will continue from 3 to 10 p. m. There will be a gift booth, "what-not" table, white elephant table, a booth in the charge of Mrs. Frederic Newburgh, of the Housekeepers' Alliance, with all sorts of home-making supplies; a hot-dog stand, and displays of quilts and linen, for which there will be an admission charge.

Mrs. Daniel Is Chairman

The clubhouse of the Women's City Club, which was once the home of the Theodore Roosevelt family, was chosen as an appropriate setting for the initial money-raising enterprise of the committee

Mrs. Ernest Humphrey Daniel, president of the federation, is chairman of the patron and patroness committee and has announced a list of patrons from the American Red Cross.

Among them are: Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Fieser, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davison, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, Otto S. Lund, Dr. and Mrs. Albert N. Baggs, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Jenks, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Huettig, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Lingle, Mrs. J. H. Fishback.

Mrs. Gladys B. Middlemiss, president of the Women's City Club, welcomed the committee members as they arrived. Mrs. Lucker and Mrs. Beales presided.

Many Club Officers Present

Those present included Mrs. Charles P. Keyser, president of the Entre Nous Club; Mrs. Newburgh, president of the Housekeepers' Alliance; Mrs. John R. 'Work Hard,' Is Advice To Women

'Good Neighbor' Policy Suggested Also in Attaining Business Success

Hard work and a "good neighbor" policy were given as the recipe for women's success in business by prominent members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs yesterday at the national board meeting in Asheville, N. C. A psychological study to determine how women best win high posts in business and the professions was held in connection with the session of the board and discounted the value of a "militant" attitude.

Miss Myrtle Ellen LaBarr, of Greenville, N. C., chairman of the federation's publicity committee, presided at the session and introduced a group of federation officials who gave their opinions and read the testimony of outstanding women in various fields. The federation leaders who took part in the program were Dr. Minnie L. Maffett, of Dallas, Tex., president; Miss Margaret A. Hickey, of St. Louis, Mo., educator; Miss Kathryn H. Starbuck, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., educator; Mrs. Olivia Johnson, of St. Paul, Minn., department store executive; Miss Elizabeth Woodward, president of the Charlotte (N. C.) Business and Professional Women's Club; Miss Grace N. Fitzgerald, of Dallas, attorney.

All the women testified that they had advanced through hard work, and, as Olivia Johnson expressed it, "My own place in the scheme of things has been won by trying to be gracious, accommodating often to the point of working a hardship upon myself, and by hard work and, therefore, long hours. I am a good neighbor."

Successful Women Present Testimony

Testimony from outstanding women in various fields and professions which were presented at the clinic follow: Miss Gertrude B. Lane, editor of the Woman's Home Companion, "I did not employ any 'tactics' to succeed in my profession except hard work. I was never personally ambitious and every promotion I received was handed to me by the officers of the company for which I worked. I was called a 'glutton for work,' and my one aim in living was to do as good a job as I was able to do. In other words, I was interested in my work and not in my own professional and financial progress.

"My experience has been that men are perfectly willing to give women high positions provided the women are capable of holding them. I did not even have the advantage of a college education, but I have had a rich and interesting life doing the work I loved better than anything else."

In reply to the federation's questionnaire, "How Can the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs help women to advance in business, the professions, and public office holding?"—a. By a militant campaign to insist that men give women high posts? b. By offering women every help in improving themselves so that advancement is inevitable? c. Which tactics did you employ to succeed? Militancy plus efficiency, or the educational method plus efficiency?" Ora H. Snyder, Chicago candy manufacturer, said, "Decidedly no," to a militant campaign. "We have fought for equality and hope to have it—some day." She believes that the federation should help women to improve themselves and she believes that the educational method plus efficiency is the only way to succeed. She commented, "Persistency combined with confidence in myself, my customers and my merchandise helped to put me forward. I believe in following the Golden Rule and in being kind."

Medical Dean Opposes Militant Campaign

Dr. Martha Tracy, dean of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, is opposed to a militant campaign to insist that men give women high posts. She believes that only by improving themselves can women from this time forth save and secure advancement in the professions and in business. She comments, "My own progress in my profession has been definitely related to the idea of "the educational method plus efficiency." In my opinion militancy which is not infrequently associated with inefficiency does 'the cause' of women's progress and opportunity harm instead of good.

"I wish in all of the educational propaganda of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs more stress might be laid upon competency, spirit of cooperation and willingness to take orders until demonstrated efficiency puts one in the position of giving the orders instead of taking them."

Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), of New Jersey, chairman of the Committee on Labor, said in a letter to Dr. Maffett that she could sum up the answers to all of the questions by "telling you that my only formula for success is hard work, sincerity and the desire to achieve an objective."

Another Congresswoman, Miss Jessie Sumner (Republican), of Illinois, in reply to the questionnaire, said: "I believe that the adoption of a militant campaign by your organization would be a mistake, except in the case of public office-holding in such offices as are usually filled by such pressure tactics." She thinks that the better way for women to succeed is by improving themselves so as to be in order for advancement, and comments: "Of course, in a political campaign or law court, these being my fields, a certain degree of militance is required for women, the same as for men. I have always tried, however, to be as fair as I knew how with opponents, and believe that women do better when they stand on their own feet and do not demand special favors because they are women."

J. Frank Bowling Home in Georgetown Is Interesting Artistic Restoration

ONE OF THE HOMES opened last spring in the annual Georgetown tour was that of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Bowling, 1614 Thirty-third street. It was not a historic place, but one of the most interesting from the standpoint of its artistic restoration.

Mrs. Bowling is an active member of the Women's City Club. An old spinnet, which is part of the furnishings of her living room, was used at a colonial membership tea she helped to arrange at the clubhouse in the winter.

She and her husband were married five years ago July 7. Soon afterward they rented a house in Georgetown and began a systematic search for a house they could buy and restore. Mrs. Bowling came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Myers, from Charles Town, W. Va., to Washington when she was a child and their first home was on N street. From her father, who felt the charm of Georgetown, she gained her love of it—an interest shared by her husband.

They finally found the house where they now live and bought it and the one next door, remodeling both of them, selling the other. They moved into their own as soon as a portion of it was livable.

Together they worked out the plans for its restoration, laid out the little garden in back and selected colonial furniture in keeping with that which had come down in their own families, and which fitted into the rooms as though it had always been there.

THE FRONT ENTRANCE is a few steps up from the street and leads into a little hallway. To the right is a long living room, running back the full length of the house. In it is an old reeded and fluted mantel of the pre-Revolutionary period, which was taken from the old Bladensburg Inn.

A stairway at the back leads to the second floor, where there are two bedrooms, one with a canopied four-poster bed.

A door at the foot of the stairs leads out onto an unroofed porch with a flower box down the whole length of one side, filled with blooming pansy plants. Five steps down from the porch there is the little walled-in garden, with ivy and rose vines covering the wall, a little lily pool and fountain at the back, bordered by ageratum, and with shrubs, rose bushes and flowers planted along the wall.

Three broad steps down from the garden, at the side of the porch, is a small flagged sunken court with a bird bath in the center. Below the porch is the kitchen, and below the living room the dining room, both opening onto it. In the summer the Bowlings entertain frequently at supper parties there.

Stepping into the dining room is like going back into colonial times. There are paneled walls and a beamed ceiling. The big, broad fireplace has a quaint Dutch oven at the side and the furnishings include an old cherry table and sideboard that have been in the family for generations, old andirons cast by Mrs. Bowling's great-grandfather and quaint old prints and china.

THE WOMEN'S CITY CLUB is the only one to which Mrs. Bowling gives her time. After office hours she does things about the house. She occasionally practices old-time songs on the little spinnet, which can still be played and was actually used in the club program last season. She is a member of the summer activities committee and the membership committee of the club and headed its successful fund campaign for the National Symphony Orchestra this year.

AT CONVENTION—Betsy Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Carson, of Chevy Chase, president of Gamma Psi Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma, national sorority at the University of Maryland, is returning Sunday from Sun Valley, Idaho, where she has been attending the Kappa's national convention. She was accompanied by Mary Ellen Hunter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Bentwood Hunter, and Martha Shelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Watson Shelton.

AIDS COMMITTEE—Mrs. Floyd Cook, president of the Democratic Women's National Council, has gone to Chicago to work with the committee on arrangements for the Democratic national convention. Mrs. Cook had much political experience in Missouri before coming to the Capital.

Daytime First-Aid Classes Begin This Morning

With the evening classes in first-aid instruction crammed to the doors, the American Women's Voluntary Services will begin a series of day classes on this subject at 10 o'clock this morning at the local A. W. V. S. headquarters, 1605 Connecticut avenue. The period of instruction will last until noon and marks the first of a series which will continue on Tuesdays and Wednesdays for the next five weeks.

Physical culture classes will be formed July 16 and will be held every Tuesday and Thursday at half-hour intervals, from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and from 8:30 to 9:30 in the evening.

Educator Warns Democrat Club To Work to Keep U. S. System

Mrs. Hale T. Shenefield Scores 'Apathetic' Attitude Toward Fascist Threat; Relates Anecdotes of Libertyless Life in Europe

Women of the United States can do much for this country by clear, calm thinking and constructive activity in the national defense program, Mrs. Hale T. Shenefield told members of the Woman's National Democratic Club yesterday at the meeting of its weekly study group.

Mrs. Shenefield, who is better known in educational circles as Dr. Norma Bird, of American University, scored the apathetic attitude of Americans who talk of "appeasement." There can be no peace where there are tyranny and oppression, she pointed out.

"I am amazed at persons who would desire any form of appeasement," she declared. "There are things worse than death—a living death devoid of all of the things life means to us.

Fail to Appreciate U. S.

"I wish people could realize what it means to live under a fascist form of government. In this country, they cannot conceive what that involves."

Pointing out that many citizens of the United States fail to appreciate its Government and institutions because they have never had opportunity to compare them with those of other nations, Mrs. Shenefield described the changes she saw take place in Germany under the Hitler regime. She has made five trips to Europe in the last few years to study conditions among women.

Going from Russia to Germany on her last trip, she remarked, on visiting some of the German women's work camps, how similar they were to those in Russia. The regimentation was identical although some of the conditions varied slightly. Her remark, she said, caused amazement and was greeted in shocked silence by the German women to whom she made it. How they took the news of the Nazi-Communist alliance which was foreshadowed by the situation she observed, she does not know.

CBS Counsel Attacks 'Errors' in FCC Report

Network Attorney Clashes With Senator Tobey

By James D. Secrest

The Federal Communications Commission monopoly report was attacked as containing "errors of fact and unwarranted inferences" yesterday at a third Senate Interstate Commerce Committee hearing on the renomination of Commissioner Thad H. Brown.

Counsel for CBS made the attack, but Chairman Wheeler and other members of the committee commented that the FCC should be more careful to avoid making misstatements regarding any company. Brown was chairman of the committee which drafted the report.

The session opened with sharp words between Senator Tobey (Republican), of New Hampshire, and Ralph Colin, CBS general counsel, over a statement Colin had released to the press on June 21 in reply to comments attributed to Tobey in a news story.

Colin had stated that Tobey had made false charges against CBS and William S. Paley, its president, and appeared to have attempted deliberately to injure the company and its head.

Declines Apology

The CBS attorney steadfastly declined to withdraw his statement or to make an apology, although Chairman Wheeler and other members of the committee called it "unjustified" and "an outrage on the committee."

They pointed out that the comments of Tobey and other Senators with regard to a deal between CBS and Paramount, the movie corporation, were based on information furnished them in the FCC monopoly report.

Colin, at the conclusion of the hearing, pointed out that he had acted hastily to "beat a deadline" after seeing press reports of Tobey's charges and that he now withdrew any statement that Senator Tobey had been motivated by malice.

The CBS-Paramount deal, which was the basis of the Tobey criticism, was explained at length by Colin, who pointed out in detail wherein the FCC monopoly report was wrong in reporting facts and in its conclusions and implications.

Afterward Chairman Wheeler commented that he saw nothing irregular in the transaction in which Paley is reputed to have made $1,000,000.

Doubled Shares in 1929

Colin explained that C. B. S. had doubled its shares of stock in 1929 and sold them to Paramount in exchange for 58,823 shares of the movie company's stock. Paramount agreed to buy back its own stock at the end of two years at $85 a share providing C. B. S. earned $1,000,000 a year or more in the interim.

As the stock market crash occured before the expiration of the two-year period, Paramount, when confronted with the demand, decided to sell its C. B. S. holdings to raise the necessary cash. C. B. S. thereupon bought 14,156 of the 63,250 shares held by Paramount out of its surplus, and 15 C. B. S. stockholders bought the remainder.

The profit came to Paley and other stockholders through the subsequent sale of this C. B. S. stock to investment bankers at $82.21 a share, which was the value fixed by Paramount, although the book value was far less.

Colin insisted that minority stockholders, as well as the majority, profited by the transaction.

Dies Reveals Plot to Wreck U. S. Battleship

Agents Report Scheme To Sabotage Warship In Pennsylvania Yard

By the Associated Press

Austin, Tex., July 10.—Chairman Martin Dies of a Congressional investigating committee said today he had information that a plot to sabotage a battleship under construction in a Pennsylvania navy yard had been uncovered.

He asserted the information had been given him by agents of the committee, which is inquiring into un-American activities in this country.

He is conducting a closed hearing in the Texas capital. Other committee members are reportedly investigating in other areas.

Meanwhile, Herman Koetter, painting contractor of Houston, was questioned for two hours by Dies, presumably regarding the Kyffhauserbund, which Koetter has described to newsmen as primarily a social and nonpolitical organization.

Koetter said any insinuation that the organization was military or subversive to American institutions was "to say the least, grotesque."

A committee spokesman had said the bund, allegedly secert, had members in oil refining and other basic industries and that testimony indicated one qualification of membership was the ability to do confidential work.

"The Kyffhauserbund is a public and nonpolitical organization of former service men of the old Imperial German army," Koetter said.

"The American Legion in Houston is quite familiar with our aims and has from time to time participated in a little gemutlichkeit" (harmony and tenderness of feeling in a group of people assembled).

Koetter said the organization has no more than 25 members in Houston and possibly seven or eight posts in other cities, principally in the East.

Authoritative sources disclosed that witnesses charged the Kyffhauserbund's membership included all big industrial centers of the Nation.

Committee agents have been investigating the bund for several months.

The organization held rifle practice, it was said, and members of the organization must be veterans of German wars. The group met monthly.

Bund members entertained German ship crews at Houston and at such celebrations the men jointly saluted the swastika and sang the Horst Wessel.

Know Nothing of Plot

Philadelphia, July 10 (AP).—Officials of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, only shipyard in Pennsylvania where a battleship is under construction, said today they knew nothing about a purported plot to sabotage any ship.

They made the comment when informed that Representative Martin Dies had said in Texas that committee agents had given him information about such a plot.

The 45,000-ton New Jersey is in the prefabrication stage at the yard here. Another battleship, the U. S. S. Washington, was launched at the yard three weeks ago.

Vatican Praises Roosevelt, Favors His Reelection

Copyright by New York Times

Rome, July 10.—In a dispatch date lined Washington but edited here, the Osservatore Romano today writes that "President Roosevelt has always acted with great ability both in internal and foreign politics, according to the unanimous opinion of the American people."

Even his opponents, says the newspaper, say Mr. Roosevelt "has known how to defend the democratic institutions of his country and at the same time present and put into effect new ideas which have lifted the country from the crisis, even though he was not able to apply his reforms integrally."

It is clear that the dispatch reflected the opinion of Vatican circles, if not of the Pope himself, who undoubtedly would welcome Mr. Roosevelt's reelection as assuring from the Vatican's point of view the continuance of the policy of collaboration so marked since the advent of Pius XII to the pontificate.

Red Cross Drive Nearing Quota In Montgomery

Mrs. F. Eliot Middleton, chairman of the Montgomery County (Md.) Red Cross Chapter, announced yesterday $10,891.83 had been raised in the war relief drive. The county's goal is $12,000.

County branches, which have exceeded their quotas include Bethesda, Clara Barton (Conduit road area); Chevy Chase, Annie M. Wilson (Kensington area); Olney, Laytonsville, Poolesville, and Potomac.

A new surgical dressing unit was started last night at the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Recreation Center. The work is under supervision of Mrs. Henry Milburn.

Browder Calls Alien Registry Blow at Labor

Tells Senate Group Bill Will Strengthen Nazi Influence in the U. S.

Earl Browder, secretary of the American Communist Party, yesterday charged before a Senate subcommittee that legislation requiring registration of foreign-affiliated organizations will lead to persecution of organized labor and strengthen Nazi influence in the United States.

The Communist leader, now at liberty under bond pending his appeal from conviction for a passport fraud, appeared at the request of his party before the Judiciary subcommittee headed by Senator Connally (Democrat), of Texas.

Browder agreed with an assertion by Connally that it is "basically sound" to inform the American people of the foreign affiliations of any organizations in the country, but he insisted that the pending bill, in effect, would operate against American workers.

Running Fire of Argument

The bill, which has been approved by the House, would compel organizations with affiliations outside the United States to furnish detailed information on personnel and activities to the Attorney General.

Browder's testimony was a running argument with subcommittee members on a wide variety of topics, ranging from President Lincoln's message to Congress in 1861 to Russia's attack on Finland.

Questioned by Senator Connally on his views concerning Soviet foreign policy, Browder gave unqualified approval to Russia's recent seizure of the Rumanian province of Bessarabia, which he termed "a great contribution to human progress."

Browder argued that "the Fifth Column" came to power in France on the pretext of outlawing treasonable elements. First they outlawed the Communist Party and then they disrupted the labor movement."

Nazi Party, Too, He Says

The Nazi Party, he said, rose to power in Germany "under this very flag—first suppressing the Communist Party and then the labor movement."

Browder conceded that the pending bill might bring "incidental embarrassment" to the German-American Bund, but he said this "would be much more than offset by the victory for Nazi philosophy."

The Communist leader insisted that his party is promoting its views openly, but that publication of the names of its members would aid industrialists "in building up a blacklist against us."

Brothers Hear Entire Family Died in Holland

Harrisonburg, Va., July 10 (AP).—Arthur and Seigfried Klingstein, of Harrisonburg, have received word that their parents, an older brother, his wife and two children are dead in Amsterdam where they fled from their homes in Germany 18 months ago.

The brothers have no information as to what caused the deaths of their relatives. They heard regularly from their parents, they said, until the German invasion of the Low Countries.

The Klingstein brothers came here from their Bavarian home five years ago.

Child's Condition Still Serious

Condition of 4-year-old Cynthia Baldwin, who was shot in the head Tuesday by a youth who was aiming at a rabbit in his back yard, was reported "unchanged" at Doctor's Hospital last night. It was still regarded as serious.

Cynthia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Baldwin, 4401 Cathedral avenue northwest.

Artist Helps Place His Murals In Postoffice Department

FINISHING TOUCHES FOR LEO—Vahe Kirishjian working on one of his four mural panels yesterday in the Postoffice Department Building

A proud young man, Vahe Kirishjian toiled like a stevedore yesterday, helping install his four mural panels on the ceiling of the Post Office Department Building library.

It was the first Government commission for the 27-year-old American-Egyptian painter, who depends for a livelihood on his wages as a newspaper advertising artist.

Kirishjian, a New Yorker, was born in Cairo, Egypt, and came to the United States at the age of 9. For four years he studied mural painting at Cooper Union Art School in New York.

When the Federal Government's Section of Fine Arts, then under the Treasury Department, two years ago announced a competition to decorate the new Bronx Post Office, Kirishjian decided his talents were ripe enough to enter.

P. S. He didn't get the job, but his designs were held so meritorious he received a $6,000 commission last year to embellish the Post Office library ceiling. During his preliminary work on the canvases he was able to hold his newspaper job at the same time, but four months ago, when the oil-on-canvas murals were nearing the final stages, he obtained a leave of absence.

Cost of Va. Marriage to Soar More Than 140% in August

Special Dispatch to The Post

Winchester, Va., July 10.—With the new State law requiring a premarital health test effective on August 1, the cost of marriage is going to rise more than 140 per cent in Virginia, a survey indicated today.

The law will require that both applicants for a license shall present a certificate issued by a physician stating tests to determine whether the applicant is free of syphillis have been made and that the medical history obtained has been filed with the State department of health.

At Memorial Hospital here, it was learned plans have been made to provide the technical and laboratory service that will be necessary for syphilis tests.

The cost, it was said, will be $4 a couple. From the time the blood specimen is drawn until the test is completed will require from two to three hours. After the test is completed, it will be necessary for the applicants to obtain a certificate from a physician which, without disclosing the results of the examination, sets forth that the tests have been completed. There is nothing in the law, it was said here today by persons who have studied it, to prevent persons who are infected from marrying. They must, however, if residents of Virginia, submit to treatments designed to effect a cure.

In addition to the $3.50 required for the license, there will be the $4 examination fee and the cost of the physician's certificate, which may vary with the physician. Assuming the minimum certificate charge will be $1, the minimum cost of preliminaries to the ceremony will be $8.50 compared to the present $3.50 now prevailing. In addition, there is the minister's fee to be considered.

What effect the law will have on the present influx of couples is problematical but generally, the opinion is that while the flood of applicants will subside, it will not be completely controlled because this State has no "wait law" other than the few hours necessary to ascertain the results of the physical examinations.

Britain's Navy Guards America's Highlife Line

New York, July 10 (AP).—The flow of Scotch whisky to this country continues despite the war, liquor men report, largely because Britannia still rules the waves.

Provided German bombs don't find Scotland's whisky warehouses, Americans will have little difficulty getting Scotch for their highballs. Liquor men say there is a nine-months supply in American warehouses and the supply in Scottish warehouses is said to be sufficient for four years consumption in the United States.

Pontiff Urges Axis to Show France Mercy

Conclude Fair Peace, He Asks, Cites Hatred That Follows Revenge

Copyright by New York Times

Rome, July 10.—Pope Pius XII today urged Germany and Italy to abstain from taking revenge on France and to conclude a fair peace inspired by clemency, which alone could prevent, he said, the fostering of hatred that inevitably follows the imposition of harsh terms on the vanquished.

Although the names of those three powers were not mentioned, there was no mistaking the objects of the pontiff's words to a group of newly weds at a general audience in the Vatican Palace this morning.

It was the first time that the Pope had referred directly to the present international situation since his message of sympathy to the sovereigns of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg after Germany's invasion of those countries.

"In the present hour, the Pope said, "there is the danger that the noble and legitimate feeling of love for one's own country may degenerate in the soul of many men in revengeful passion—an unceaseable pride in some and an incurable rancor in others. While defending faithfully and courageously his country, a Christian must, however, abstain from hating those whom he is obliged to combat."

Justice's Son Home With Degree

Paul T. O'Donoghue, son of Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District Court, returned here from Harvard University yesterday with the degree of master of laws, conferred at the recent commencement. He plans to take the bar examination here in December and expects to practice law later.

The younger O'Donoghue received the bachelor of arts degree cum laude at Georgetown in 1936 and received the bachelor of laws degree from Georgetown law school in 1939.

Cammerer Becomes Regional Park Head

Arno B. Cammerer, who resigned last month as director of the National Park ervice because of ill health, was appointed director of the bureau's Region 1 yesterday by Secretary Ickes.

Cammerer's new headquarters will be in Richmond. He replaces Miner R. Tillotson, who has been transferred to the directorship of Region 3, headquarters in Santa Fe, N. Mex.

Heat Fells 2 Men, One While Fishing!

Two men collapsed from the heat here yesterday as summer returned to Washington.

Otis Granger, 52, of 2529 Georgia avenue northwest, fell unconscious as he was fishing in the Potomac and was taken to Georgetown Hospital for heat exhaustion treatment.

The other victim was Clarence Dekeyser, colored, 29, who was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Man Loses Wooden Leg in Accident

Matt Smith, 44, of 31 Massachusetts avenue northwest, lost his left leg—a wooden one—and suffered cuts to his right one yesterday when he was knocked down at North Capitol and G streets. He was taken to Casualty Hospital for treatment. Driver of the auto was Frank Bailey, 39, colored, 4213 Grant street northeast, according to police.

W. S. Garland Feted On His Retirement

Retiring after 33 years of Government service, W. S. Garland, assistant project manager in the public works section of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, was presented with a gold watch, chain and knife in ceremonies yesterday at the bureau.

GARLAND

The presentation was made by Admiral J. H. Towers, chief of the bureau, on behalf of other employes. Garland, who lives at 12 East Lenox street, Chevy Chase, Md., entered the Navy's service July 1, 1907, as chief draftsman in the Bureau of Yards and Docks, and had been connected with the Bureau of Aeronautics since its organization.

Water Main Breaks At 2700 Porter St.

Mauled 2 Policemen, He Gets Jail Term

Justice James M. Proctor of the District Court yesterday warned law violators that they may expect stern treatment from the courts for resisting officers.

Justice Proctor sent William W. Robinson, 36, a giant colored man, to jail for 8 to 24 months immediately after a jury convicted him of manhandling two ordinary-sized policemen who arrested him for drunkenness and panhandling.

"This was a vicious and unjustified opposition to an officer performing his duty," Justice Proctor said. "The whole situation presents a case which calls upon the court to protect law enforcement officers."

Woman Hurt As 4 Cars Hit On Bridge

A four-car collision on the Highway Bridge yesterday injured one woman and paralyzed traffic for more than an hour. Six other persons were hurt in traffic accidents yesterday.

Mrs. Mary M. Aldhizer, 34, of Arlington, Va., suffered cuts and bruises and possible fractured ribs when her automobile hit the rear of a taxicab and then careened against another machine on the bridge. The fourth car crashed into the wreckage.

Two scout cars, three motorcycle policemen and the police crane responded. Traffic was routed over the Lincoln Memorial Bridge.

Mrs. Aldhizer was treated at Emergency Hospital. Police said the woman was driving north when a taxicab, operated by Robert Abel, 22, of 811 Decatur street northwest, started to pass a car at the same time she did.

The Aldhizer car was either knocked or swerved against the automobile of Charles Denton, 16, of 1025 Otis street northwest, who was driving south. George F. Johnson, colored, 42, of 3421 Fifty-ninth street northeast, who was driving a light delivery truck, was unable to stop and struck the piled up cars.

Noel D. Martin, 20, of Arlington, Va., was treated at Georgetown Hospital for a fractured left knee after his motorcycle collided with a truck at Twenty-fourth and M streets northwest.

Five-year-old Thomas Robinson, colored, of 1113 R street northwest, was treated at Children's Hospital for possible concussion. He was struck by an automobile at Vermont avenue and R street northwest, when he walked into the street from behind parked cars.

A street car and a truck collided at Georgia avenue and Farragut street northwest, sending Marvin Moon, colored, 38, of 1126 Howard road southeast, the truck driver, to Emergency Hospital with cuts and bruises and a head injury. The street car was operated by Charles F. Cannon, 56, of 1002 Girard street northwest, police said.

A nose injury and sprained left shoulder were suffered by 5-year-old Nell Marie Crowley, of 514 Jefferson street northwest, when she ran into an auto while crossing the street near her home, according to police. Driver of the auto, police said, was William H. Bell, 24, of 3931 Ninth street northeast.

Diana Syer, 9, of 6317 Seventh street northwest, and Robert Ponton, 6, of 6308 Fifth street northwest, received minor injuries when their coaster wagon collided with a truck in 600 block Somerset place northwest. Charles E. Liggons, 37, colored, of 2219 Ontario road northwest, driver, was charged with operating a vehicle with defective hand brakes.

Curran Asks 4 Assistants To Resign

District Attorney Edward M. Curran has asked for the resignations of four assistant district attorneys, effective September 1, it became known yesterday. He has received none as yet.

Curran refused to discuss the impending shakeup.

Assistant District Attorneys David A. Hart, Albert Goldstein, Stephen T. Haycock and Karl Kindleberger confirmed the fact that the prosecutor asked them last week to hand in their resignations.

All four said they did not know why they were asked to vacate their posts.

These vacancies will make a total of five jobs open on the prosecutor's staff, as John Wilson resigned as chief of the criminal division shortly before Curran took office three months ago.

It was pointed out by courthouse officials that it is consistent with practice of United States attorneys to call for resignations when taking over a post, and does not reflect in any way on the work or characters of the persons whose resignations are asked.

Curran formerly was a judge of the Police Court. Since he succeeded Justice David A. Pine as district attorney Judiciary Square conjecture has dwelt upon a possible shakeup among his staff. Rumor crystallized about the names of several men after he asked for the resignations last week.

When asked whether he had called for the resignations, Curran replied that he had "no comment."

Navy Cafeteria Election Settlement Expected Soon

National Labor Relations Board officials said yesterday the contested Navy Department cafeteria election "probably" will be settled tomorrow.

The cafeteria employes chose the C. I. O.-affiliated United Cafeteria Employes Union as their sole bargaining agent in Tuesday's balloting.

The election was protested by the A. F. L.-affiliated Hotel and Restaurant Employes Alliance on grounds that its named had not appeared on the ballot. The choice was between the C. I. O. union and no union.

The election results and the A. F. L. protest were turned over to William M. Aicher, director of the NLRB's fifth region, in Baltimore yesterday. Officials said Aicher's decision will be final, since the election was a "consent" election with management and employes agreeing in advance to abide by the result.

Watergate Becomes a Melting Pot of Melodies

18,000 Hear Dragonette, Premiere of New 'Oh Susannah' Music

Orchestra Plays Bach Chorale in Memory of Droop

By Lucia Giddens
Post Staff Writer

Out of a diversity of elements, American and foreign, the National Symphony Orchestra created an harmonious evening for the thousands who crowded the Watergate last night.

An American soprano, Jessica Dragonette, who was born of American parents in India, sang songs of many lands. An Hungarian composer, Alexander Laszlo, now of New York, was present to hear the world premiere of his improvisations on a homsespun American melody, "Oh Susannah."

With the moon and stars thrown in, the ingredients of a gala evening were spread before the overflow crowd, estimated at 18,000 by Park Police.

Pays Tribute to Droop

Both gayety and sadness were woven into the program. Before the second number, a hymn, "Come, Sweet Death," by Bach, Conductor Hans Kindler paused to dedicate it to the memory of Carl A. Droop, "a great friend of music," who died Tuesday night.

Along with several poignant airs, such as "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair," Miss Dragonette brought quick contrast with Spanish songs. And so infectious was the rhythm that canoes and their passengers rocked lightly in unison.

As an encore, she sang a Cuban melody, "Siboney," by Le Cuona, for Franklin Adams, a devotee of Pan American music, who has expressed interest over a period of years in her singing of such music. He climbed the gangplank to thank her after the concert.

For her two groups of songs, Miss Dragonette came out on the stage like a summer breeze, in a billowy white dress. In her hair she wore two of the six orchids sent her by a fan, Dr. B. C. McNeil, who, she said, left a sick bed to come and hear her sing last night.

Laszlo Wins Applause

Laszlo garnered a wave of applause with his improvisations on "Oh Susannah" in the styles of seven composers from Bach to Gershwin. Laszlo took a bow after the orchestra had played his music. After the concert he told how he heard "Oh Susannah" in a school concert recently and was so enthusiastic over the melody that he worked at a furious pace to complete the piano composition in three and one-half days. The orchestra score took three months—and it is so new that it was played last night from photographic manuscripts.

Miss Dragonette had to sing three encores before the crowd would subside. After the concert, scores of fans waited at the water's edge for her to emerge from the barge—with a bright red velvet cloak flung around her shoulders—and she practically autographed her way to her automobile.

2. THE COMPOSER—Alexander Laszlo (right), Hungarian composer, shown with his friend and publisher, L. Lester Roma, was in the audience to hear the premiere of his improvisations on "Oh, Susannah"

3. THE CROWD—An overflow crowd of 18,000 flocked to the Watergate last night to hear the National Symphony's concert. These music lovers listened from the drive under Memorial Bridge

Hungarian Composer's Improvisations Win Favor of Audience

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Hans Kindler conducts the National Symphony Orchestra Wednesday night at the Potomac Watergate. Soloist: Jessica Dragonette. Program: Overture to "Oberon" (Weber), "Komm, suesser Tod" (Bach), "Staendchen" (Schubert), "Cantares" (Turina), "I Dream of Jeanie" (Foster), "Les Filles de Cadix" (Delibes), Symphony in B minor (Schubert), Improvisations on "Oh Susannah" (Laszlo), "Te souvient-il du lumineux voyage" from "Thais" (Massenet), "Die Rheintoechter und Siegfried" from "Die Goetterdaemmerung" (Wagner), "Fruehlingsstimmen" (Straus).

One of the most magical pieces of imaginative music, Weber's overture to "Oberon," fittingly opened last evening's concert by the National Symphony Orchestra before a crowded audience at the Potomac Watergate.

It was that hour of gloaming when the hunting horn of the fairy king sounded most appropriately a summons to elves and sprites, and one's fancy was most easily led into reverie over a vanished realm of chivalric romance. Evocative and bewitching, the overture is the immortal part of the opera that was Weber's swan song, for it shows no sign of the mental fatigue apparent elsewhere in the work. The music has a fresh vigor and springing vitality that defies the tooth of time.

In as much as Weber died two months after the premier of "Oberon" in London, the program followed a logical sequence to Bach's lovely chorale, "Komm, suesser Tod." But Hans Kindler gave to the performance a particular and personal significance by announcing that he wished to play the chorale in memory of Carl A. Droop whose recent passing deprived Washington of one of its most fervent devotees of music. It was in this spirit of affectionate remembrance that the deeply moving melody was read, and the auditors shared in the tribute to a man beloved for his qualities of mind and heart.

Miss Dragonette Pleases

Jessica Dragonette, whose presence as soloist accounted for a large proportion of the assembled throng, was given a tumultuous welcome when she came on the stage and lengthy rounds of enthusiastic applause after each of her songs. Experienced in microphone technique, she delighted her hearers with the clarity of her soprano voice and the precision of her diction. In her first group she offered Schubert's "Serenade," Joaquin Turina's "Cantares," Stephen Foster's "I Dream of Jeanie," and the sparkling "Girls of Cadez" by Leo Delibes. Despite several recalls, she added no extra numbers.

These were reserved for her second appearance of the evening, after her enjoyable reading of "Te souvient-il du lumineux voyage," the aria composed by Massenet for the dying Thais. When the demanding wave of applause swept upon her again, she responded with three songs associated with her radio popularity: "Songs My Mother Taught Me," "Siboney" and "The Last Rose of Summer." The manner in which Dr. Kindler yielded to the rhythmic sway of "Siboney" on the podium was an adjunct to Miss Dragonette's spirited vocalization.

The first performance anywhere of Alexander Lazlo's improvisations on Stephen Foster's "Oh, Susannah" introduced a Hungarian composer now resident in New York. A native of Budapest, he has been an indefatigable experimenter in writing music for films and for the color-organ, and he is resourceful in technical devices. That he has a fine mimetic talent and a sense of humor is evident in these improvisations.

Gives Various Treatments

Foster's theme was subjected to various treatments in the styles of composers distinguished by their idioms. The first was in the form of a three-part invention such as Bach might have written, and the second followed the graceful pattern of a Mozart minuet. In the third one heard the tune as Schubert could turned it into a "Moment Musical." Then came a robust statement in the unmistakeable accents of a Brahms rhapsody, which gave way to a Lisztian version in the best romantic tradition. The wittiest of the imitations was the opalescent Debussy section, marked "lent et melancolique" in the score, and the rhythmically contagious was the finale in the mode of George Gershwin.

Dr. Kindler summoned the composer from the wings to receive the plaudits of the auditors whose enjoyment of the clever composition was heartily manifested. There is every likelihood that the improvisations will be heard far and wide, not only in orchestral concerts, but also in recital halls, for Mr. Laszlo has published a piano solo version.

For the last two numbers of the program Dr. Kindler presented the Rhine Daughters scene from "Die Goetterdaemmerung" and the Johann Strauss waltz, "Voices of Spring." In response to a clamorous demand for more, he added a Bach aria, the Shostakovich Polka, which had proved so popular Sunday night, and the "Sailors' Dance" from Gliere's ballet, "Krasni Mak."

Capt. R. E. Oden, District Fireman For 32 Years, Dies

Capt. Raymond E. Oden, 55, commander of No. 17 Engine Company and a member of the District Fire Department for 32 years, died yesterday at his home after a long illness.

A native of Frederick, Md., Capt. Oden came to Washington 35 years ago and made his home at 603 Irving street northwest.

Cited for heroic work in the Knickerbocker Theater disaster of 1922, Capt. Oden served as president of the Firefighters Association for several years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Oden, and a son, John Edward, of Washington. There are also two brothers and a sister in Frederick, William Oden, Brewer Oden and Mrs. Sallie Cromwell. Funeral services will be at 10 a. m. Saturday in St. Gabriel's Church. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Hearing on ADA Building Request Set for Aug 6

The District Court has set August 6 for a hearing on the condemnation price of three city blocks sought by the Alley Dwelling Authority for erection of 300 home units. Preliminary orders in the case were signed by Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue.

The site of the new dwellings is bounded on the north by M street, on the west by Canal and First streets, on the south by O street and on the east by Half street southeast.

Not involved in the condemnation were a church, two new apartment houses and a number of new dwellings in this area.

Huntington Heads Alcohol Agency

John L. Huntington, deputy administrator of the recently transferred Federal Alcohol Administration, has been named assistant deputy commissioner of the Internal Revenue Bureau in charge of his former agency, now the basic permit and trade practice division of the Treasury's alcohol tax unit.

John E. O'Neill, former assistant general counsel for FAA, was made administrative assistant of the new division.

Federal Bar Association To Hear George Barse

The Federal Bar Association will hear George P. Barse, general counsel for the Comptroller of Currency, at its weekly luncheon meeting today at 12:30 o'clock in Schneider's Cafe, 427 Eleventh street northwest. Barse will discuss recent court decisions in regard to security for public deposits in banks.

1,842 Signal Lights Guide District Traffic

Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer yesterday informed Representative D'Alesandro (Democrat), of Maryland, that Washington has 1,842 traffic signals in operation but said he was unable to say how this number compared with cities of like size.

During the last five years, Van Duzer said, the District has spent $48,409 obtaining new signal lights, and more than half of this business went to the Crounse-Hinds Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

The only other companies which have sold lights to the District, he said, were the Eagle and Jonson companies, whose addresses were not given.

Van Duzer pointed out that bids must be awarded to the lowest bidder in accordance with the law.

The report showed that in 1936 the District had 1,378 traffic lights. In 1937 there were 1,483; in 1938, 1,577, and in 1939, 1,661.

Social Worker In Tenant Court Given Praise

Mrs. Helen D. Hoffman, president of the Washington Housing Association, yesterday applauded the success of the experimental assignment of a trained social worker to the Landlord and Tenant Division of the Municipal Court, where rent difficulties of many poor persons are worked out.

The association had advocated this step for several months and strongly supported the proposal when it was made by Judge Nathan Cayton, of the Municipal Court, last March.

Presiding Judge George C. Aukam recently asked that a social worker be assigned, and the Council of Social Agencies sent Mrs. Florence Conlin, an experienced worker, to work in the court for a month. After Mrs. Conlin completed her first work, Judge Aukam declared her presence was most helpful.

Nine cases were referred to the housing association by Mrs. Conlin. Mrs. Hoffman said that in six of these cases, investigation showed that the landlords had filed suit to collect rent for houses with leaky roofs. In another the kitchen floor was in such bad repair that it collapsed and badly injured the housewife. The floor was fixed and the woman credited with $10 on her rent as damages.

Mrs. Hoffman said the objective of her organization was better relations between landlord and tenant. She said this could be achieved best by making such repairs and other adjustments as were necessary. She said she favored extending the trial period of the social worker plan for more than a month, so that an adequate picture of the results could be compiled. With such a record, she said, it would be possible to seek some private agency to finance continuance of the plan, which would be necessary because it appeared that it would take two years to obtain authorization from Congress.

Democratic League Of Washington Elects H. V. Keiser

Hugh V. Keiser, business and civic leader, was elected president of the National Democratic League of Washington last night at the organization's annual meeting in the Raleigh Hotel.

He succeeds J. Nelson Anderson. Dr. F. Thomas Evans, founder of the league, was elected chairman of the board, succeeding Arthur Clarendon Smith.

Other officers named were Mrs. Eunice B. Thomas, first vice president; Frank B. Hoffman, second vice president and general counsel; J. Leslie McCuen, third vice president; Mrs. Cecile Norton Broy, fourth vice president; J. Leo Kolb, sr., treasurer; Mrs. Berry M. Thompson, recording secretary, and Miss Behmer Rudd, corresponding secretary.

Keiser and Thomas will be delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago next week.

Sergt. Jones Is Acquitted Of Neglect

Sergt. Guy L. Jones, member of the Montgomery County police force for 20 years, was acquitted by the county police trial board last night of three charges of neglect of duty growing out of a mob raid on a meeting of Jehovah's Witnesses at Rockville, Md., June 19.

B. Peyton Whalen, chairman of the board, announced that Sergt. Jones would be restored to duty immediately.

Sergt. Jones testified that since the incident he had been informed by Rockville citizens that the mob would not have stopped short of "bloodshed and if necessary killing to gain their point."

When the riot broke out, Sergt. Jones asserted, only two officers—Leslie B. Thompson and Charles Peter—were at the scene. Both are under suspension and will face trial today on charges of neglect of duty.

Fowler W. Stevens, of Rockville, leader of the sect's meeting when the disturbance broke out, testified that Thompson and Peter failed to heed his pleas for protection.

Stevens was one of two members of the sect who were taken into "protective custody" following the riot. "Instead of dispersing the mob," Stevens said, "Officer Peter grabbed me by the arm and locked me up for two hours just as if I was an ordinary criminal."

Sergt. Jones took responsibility for ordering Stevens to be taken into custody. "Stevens kept putting himself into the hands of the mob and making it physically impossible for us to protect him," the police officer testified.

Watchman's Death Ruled Suicide

A certificate of suicide was issued yesterday in the death of John J. McCanna, 45-year-old watchman, who shot himself in the head at his home, 3410 N street northwest, yesterday morning.

He was found shortly after 5 a. m. by his sister, Miss Clara B. McCanna, who had been awakened by the shot. Detective Sergt. John Wise, homicide squad, said he was told McCanna had appeared despondent for some time. He left no note.

Gilt-Edged Bookings Are Just Around the Corner

Loew Houses Have Some Nice Items in View; Odets to Write Drama of Dancer Nijinsky; This, That and the Other About the Theater

WITH THE SOLICITUDE characteristic of all of Washington's major film exhibitors, the Loew management offers reassurance to those who may be fearful of the quality and variety of their hot weather entertainment. Having gone over their booking sheets with a minutely appraising eye, Division Manager Carter Barron and his associates come up with a list of impending attractions that ought to do much to comfort the skeptical.

BELL

Primary stress, of course, is laid on "Four Sons" and "Andy Hardy Meets Debutante," opening tomorrow at the Capitol and Palace, respectively. From there they go on to lay emphasis upon later solaces. In the easily discernible offing, for example, are such items as "Our Town" and "Pride and Prejudice." The film version of the Thornton Wilder Pulitzer Prize winner already has been celebrated in this space as a picture of unusual content and treatment. "Pride and Prejudice," while not yet seen in its celluloid manifestation, is remembered as one of Max Gordon's more imposing stage plays. It will come to the screen with Greer Garson (Mrs. Chips) and Laurence Olivier (Max de Winter), in the costellar roles, with Mary Boland, Edna May Oliver, Maureen O'Sullivan and Ann Rutherford, among many others, in support.

A little farther away, but still within sight, are Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor production of "Maryland"—which had its premiere in Baltimore last night—Gary Cooper in "The Westerner;" "South of Pago Pago," with Victor McLaglen, Jon Hall ("Hurricane") and Frances Farmer; Lana Turner in "We Who Are Young," Bob Burns in "Comin' Round the Mountain," and William Powell and Myrna Loy, together again in "I Love You Again."

There are some tasty stage shows and other notable feature releases mixed up in all this, too, but that will do for a midsummer starter.

◆◆◆

With regard to tomorrow's first-runs, it is worth noting that the Warners are deviating a bit from accustomed practice in the matter of "All This and Heaven Too," opening at the Earle. This imposing costellar vehicle for Bette Davis and Charles Boyer will not be shown "day and date," as the saying is, at the Ambassador. Further than that, it will not be shown at Eighteenth street and Columbia road until after the Earle run is completed. Incidentally, the new bill at the Earle is of such length that an extended schedule of presentations will be necessitated. Doors will open daily at 9:15 a. m., with the first feature at 9:45. The final showing of "ATAHT" will be at 9:30 p. m.

◆◆◆

Clifford Odets, author of "Golden Boy," "Waiting for Lefty," etc., etc., has been assigned by Oscar Serlin, producer of "Life With Father," smash Broadway hit, to make a dramatization of "Nijinsky," dramatic and motion picture rights to which Mr. Serlin recently acquired from the dancer's wife, Romola Nijinsky. This must have come as a slight shock to Mr. Odets. He long has been planning a play about Nijinsky and gathering a mass of material for such a project. When he learned that Mr. Serlin controls the rights, that was that. It will be Odets' first adaptation, all of his other works having been originals. In fact, he just now is finishing a new and as yet untitled play and then is booked for a junket to Hollywood before beginning the Nijinsky business, which is planned as an early 1941-42 production.

So those fight films, against which the legal ban recently was lifted, are moving into the midcity area. Beginning this morning at the Leader Theater, 507 Ninth street, Sidney B. Lust will present the official Louis-Godoy and Baer-Galento fisticuffing, in addition to the regular features. The booking is for two weeks—10 a. m., to 11 p. m., daily; 2 p. m., to 11 p. m., Sundays.

Tryouts for the Catholic University production of William Saroyan's "My Heart's in the Highlands" will be held tomorrow night at the University Theater. Although a majority of the cast will be selected from among the graduate students in speech and drama, Director Walter F. Kerr is particularly in quest of a precocious youngster, between the ages of 9 and 12, to play Johnny, the poet's son in the play. The production is scheduled for the first week in August.

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, July 10 (INS).—Right on top of the hot news that Hedy Lamarr and Gene Markey had said adieu to marriage, M-G-M announces her next picture is "Come Live With Me." A little ironic isn't it, right now? However, if all Hedy's male admirers take the invitation seriously she'll have to move into the Hollywood Bowl. In the movie, Jimmy Stewart wins her, for he is the male star. Based on an original by Virginia Van Upp and Patterson McNutt, in spite of the lilting moniker, it is a heavy drama and concerns a young refugee who comes to America and, in order to make sure she won't be deported, marries a young writer she doesn't love.

LOUELLA O. PARSONS

The heady Hedy hasn't a great deal to do in "Boom Town," but she'll be the belle of the ball in "Come Live With Me." Clarence Brown has been elected to direct and maybe Clarence can find out what makes Lamarr tick. The combination seems to have been lost since "Algiers."

One of the stories of heartbreak town—Hollywood—was told me today. Granville Bates, 58, got the break he'd been waiting for all his life in "My Favorite Wife" and more recently he was signed by Frank Capra to play the mayor in "Meet John Doe." His cup of happiness was full to overflowing when he landed the Capra job. Today he failed to appear on the set—and then came the sad news he had died suddenly. He was so good as the judge in "My Favorite Wife" that Warners put him in "Tugboat Annie Sails Again" and "Flowing Gold."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The Fay Wray-Cliff Lewis romance has the approval of all their friends; reports are current that the Melville Coopers are rifting; Margaret Sullavan and her two youngsters really creating excitement in Saks, where they were shopping; Myron Selznick has offered his mountain cabin for the English refugee children, which I call nice because it's his favorite spot in the world; Bette Davis and Willie Wyler taking iced champagne, on the "John Doe" set, to Frank Capra on his first day's shooting at Warners. Gary Cooper stopping some of the tourists to ask the way to the Capra stage.

The smartly dressed gal Bob Taplinger beaued to the "They Drive by Night" preview was Betsy Callendar, Detroit socialite; Marlene Dietrich looked so lovely in a summer dress and bright red hat. She was with Eric Remarque. There was no one any more attractive at the preview than David Hearst's young and pretty wife; the famous American paintings on exhibit at the William Haines Studio will be shown first Thursday at a cocktail party. The proceeds go to the assistance league—Red Cross fund.

The cutie-pie from Twentieth Century-Fox, dining at the La Conga with Bill Conselman, jr., is named Dorothy Harris. Elsa Maxwell entertaining Mr. and Mrs. William B. Woodward, Eastern socialites; Sir Cedric Hardwicke's wife and 7-year-old son will join him in Hollywood. They leave on the first available boat; Benny Goodman planed out last night for the Mayo Clinic for observation.

That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

The New Yorker

Cabin in Rockies Lure for Player

Wallace Beery is planning to acquire another mountain cabin for hunting and fishing. He will lease a lodge at Jackson Hole, Wyo., where he is on location for "Bad Man of Wyoming."

There is the possibility that he will purchase the place as a vacation home to replace his June Lake cabin in the High Sierras, wrecked during a snowslide two years ago.

Hollywood, July 10.

Carole Lombard sure is lion-hearted. She'll play hostess to 500 head of cattle—Clark bought a cattle ranch between the Painted Desert and the Petrified Forest. He and Vic Fleming (who directed "G W T W") spent a week in that part of the country, putting up at tourist camps, and nobody recognized them. Clark's got to have some place to vacation. He has September, October, and November off each year for seven years—that's part of his contract, and written into it.

Rooney, Garland, Bonita Granville, and Ann Rutherford got together at a party the other night and decided to write a book, and call it "We Dream"—each writing about 3,000 words as to what he'd like to accomplish in the next ten years, with a foreword by Jack Barrymore. It would be interesting to see how many of them would hit the mark, wouldn't it? Wonder what Jack would have written ten years ago. Whatever it was, it would have been worth perusing.

I wonder how the fans feel about Ginger Rogers' nondancing roles. Her "Kitty Foyle" will be the sixth straight dramatic role. Personally I'd pay on the line to see her teamed up with Fred Astaire in another "Top Hat."

A hopeful mother brought her son up to me at the race track the other day and asked if I could help her get him into pictures. I said I was sorry but I couldn't when the little one piped up and said, "Here I am five, and haven't even cracked your column yet."

Edgar Kennedy is far ahead in the poll for a "Scattergood Baines" which small town theater owners have been carrying on, with Guy Kibbee and Charles Winninger second and third. I also hear that Jesse Pugh, who does it so well on the radio, is being tested and has the inside track for the part. I was wondering when somebody would get around to him. Would they then call it "Pugh—Scattergood Baines?"

The Marx Brothers, wanting to play a practical joke on Eddie Buzzell, their director on "Go West," brought a broken-down chair in a junk shop for two dollars and presented it to Eddie as a priceless antique. But the joke blew up in their faces when Eddie, who knows an authentic piece when he sees one, recognized the chair as one of four in this country that belonged to the Josephine Bonaparte collection, and now he's going to sell it for a good price to the owner of the other three.

Five New Films on Next Week's Horizon

"ALL THIS AND HEAVEN TOO." Bette Davis and Charles Boyer co-star in this Warner Brothers' picturization of the Rachel Field best-seller, opening tomorrow morning at the Earle Theater. Miss Field's novel is based on the life of her grandmother whose career as a French governess brought about a celebrated Parisian scandal of a century ago, a storm which shook a tottering empire. Through her understanding of his children, an affection grew between the Duc de Praslin and the governess that culminated in the death of the neurotic Duchess. Barbara O'Neill, Jeffrey Lynn, Helen Westley, Walter Hampden, Virginia Weidler, Henry Daniell, June Lockhart and Harry Davenport head the large supporting cast. "Top Hat and Tails" is the stage revue, spotlighting a tap routine on stilts by the Roxyettes. Although two hours and 20 minutes long and a "road show" attraction in other cities, "All This And Heaven Too" will be shown at the Earle as a regular, popular-priced feature.

Palace

"ANDY HARDY MEETS DEBUTANTE." The irrepressible Hardy family return in their latest adventure, a trip which takes them to New York and Andy into "cafe society." The judge is concerned with the financial plight of the Carvel orphanage, while Andy is fascinated with the glittering of Manhattan society. Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone, Fay Holden, Cecelia Parker have their familiar roles of the Hardys, while Judy Garland and Diana Lewis play two pretty, young New Yorkers. Opens tomorrow morning.

RKO-Keith's

"PRIVATE AFFAIRS." Robert Cummings, Nancy Kelly, Roland Young and Hugh Herbert have the leading roles in this new comedy which will follow "My Favorite Wife" on the Fifteenth street screen Monday morning. That latter Irene Dunne-Cary Grant comedy is currently in its fifth week, but it definitely will close on Sunday evening. Others in the incoming comedy are Montagu Love, G. P. Huntley, jr., Mary Forbes and Granville Bates, the acidulous judge of "My Favorite Wife."

Capitol

"FOUR SONS." This family drama of Czecho-Slovakia's fall to the Nazis in the preliminary days of the present war presents Eugenie Leontovich, the celebrated stage star, in her first screen role, that of the boys' mother. Don Ameche, Mary Beth Hughes, Alan Curtis, Sig Rumann, Robert Lowery and George Ernest are prominently cast. Bob Crosby's Orchestra takes over the Capitol stage, presenting the rhythms which has made this an outstanding radio aggregation. The Bob Cats will be on hand with their specialties. Opens tomorrow morning.

Metropolitan

"THOSE WERE THE DAYS." William Holden, Bonita Granville, Ezra Stone and Judith Barrett head the cast of this comedy adapted from George Fitch's popular "Good Old Siwash" stories. As collegians of 1904, William Holden and Ezra Stone ("Henry Aldrich" of radio's "Aldrich Family") leap into all sorts of hot water when Bill is sentenced to six months in jail for speaking to a judge's daughter. Opens tomorrow morning.

Columbia

"SUSAN AND GOD." Joan Crawford and Fredric March have the costarring roles in Anita Loos' adaptation of the Rachel Crothers comedy, returning to F street after a week at the Capitol. The story concerns the giddy sophisticate who attempts to cure other people's troubles while ignoring her own. Ruth Hussey, Rita Hayworth, Nigel Bruce and Bruce Cabot are in the cast. Opens tomorrow morning.

Trans-Lux

"U. S. NAVY—1940." This "March of Time" feature is the central and timely short subject at the newsreel theater. "Saving Strokes With Sam Snead," presenting new tricks for the game, and "Ye Olde Swap Shoppe," a color cartoon, are also on the new bill. Opens tomorrow morning.

Cross Roads

"THE SKULL." This shriek-and-groan comedy is the Virginia barn theater's next offering, a change in mood from its first two comedies. Ted Field, Nancy Hutchison, Bill Draper, Gordon Gray, Frances Dewey, Bob Langley, Fred Draper and Rand Gardner are in the cast. Izetta Jewel, jr., continues in "A Woman's a Fool" through this Saturday evening.

Roadside

"SWEETBRIER." Lizzie May Elwyn's tear-jerking melodrama, subtitled "The Flower Girl of New York," continues for a second week in the barn theater on the Rockville pike. Betty Brunstetter, Larry Lawrence, Norman Rose, Natalie Core, Ted Tiller, Kenneth Banghart and Anne Ives head the cast. There's also an entr'acte.

Sylvan

"THE MERRY MILKMAIDS." The Tempo Choral Society, directed by Dr. W. Scott Mayo and one of the outstanding groups of Negro singers in the city, will present this operetta Tuesday evening as the fourth offering in the Sylvan's summer festival. The performance will be preceded at 7:30 by a concert of the WPA Negro dance orchestra.

Open-Air

"TRADE WINDS." Fredric Marsh and Joan Bennett are costarred in this comedy, a detective yarn which roams from San Francisco to China. Ann Sothern, Ralph Bellamy and Thomas Mitchell are featured in the drive-in theater's new attraction. Opens this evening.

Glen Echo

THE AMUSEMENT PARK is currently riding the crest of the warm weather wave, offering swimming facilities and some 50 other attractions. Paul Kain's orchestra plays in the Spanish Garden ballroom for dancing.

Wilson Line

"S. S. MOUNT VERNON." This streamlined steamer offers daylight and moonlight cruises down the Potomac. There are trips to Mount Vernon and to Marshall Hall Amusement Park at 9:30 a. m. and 2 p. m., returning to the Seventh street wharves at 1:45 and 6:45 p. m. Night sailings, with dancing on deck, at 8:30 p. m.

Catholic University

"THE MISER." Moliere's knockabout comedy is this week's production of the speech and drama department summer session of Catholic University. Tonight's performance at 8:30 in the University Theater on the campus is open to the public.

Nine Orchestras In Film New High

No less than nine different orchestras, a new high for a single picture, will be seen or heard in M-G-M's "Strike Up the Band."

Paul Whiteman and orchestra are featured, while Mickey Rooney forms a high school swing band for the other group of major importance. Mickey's band will be given competition in a national radio contest by three other prep dance bands, a high school band of the type that marches and plays at football games will be seen in early sequences, and the town band gives Mickey and his musicians a rousing send-off when they leave for the contest.

In addition, Georgie Stoll directed two different orchestras, one for hot swing numbers and the other for tender ballads, in recording music for songs to be sung by Judy Garland, Mickey and June Preisser.

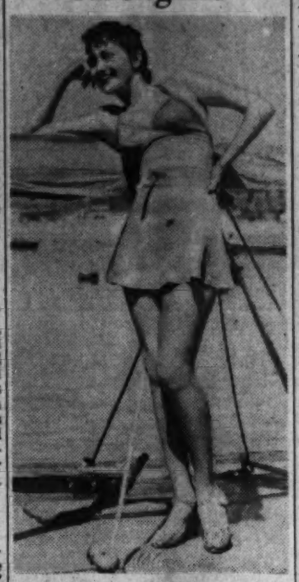
Little

As one of the screen's most imaginative directors and its most artful in the use of suspense, Alfred Hitchcock made an unrelated series of four international spy films in the latter half of the 1930's. The first of these, "The Man Who Knew Too Much," returned yesterday to the Little Theater, while "The 39 Steps," "Secret Agent" and "The Lady Vanishes" are equally suspenseful, but more frequent visitors.

Five-year-old "The Man Who Knew Too Much" is a worthy progenitor of that notable trio. Its secret society with the sign of the rising sun, its unique climax during an Albert Hall concert, its leisurely fashion of establishing characterization, its slovenly dentist office as a meeting place for international spies, all are distinctly in the Hitchcock tradition. Its expert company includes Leslie Banks, Peter Lorre, Edna Best, Frank Vosper, Nova Pilbeam and Pierre Fresnay.

While the Hitchcock technique has become, if possible smoother, even more imaginative, 1940 has wrought an unmistakable change over anything the 1930's labeled "international intrigue." There is a sense of impending doom when characters speak of "warfare" just as there is an incredulity that the 1930's should have conceived hidden messages and threats of death to the mighty as "escape" fiction. If this and Miss Best's coiffeur date the early footage of "The Man Who Knew Too Much," you'll find that so cleverly is the film pieced together, so skillfully does it reach its denouement, that it remains a mind-catching adventure in international banditry before it took off its gloves.

Sarongette

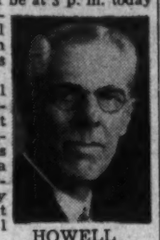


DOROTHY LAMOUR adopts a slightly scissored "sarong" as a sailing costume between pictures. Her next will be Paramount's "Moon Over Burma." Why not over Dorothy?

Dr. A. H. Howell Dies; Funeral Set for Today

Congregational Church Rites to Be at 3 P. M. For Noted Naturalist

Funeral services for Dr. Arthur H. Howell, 68, senior biologist of the Interior Department's fish and wild life service, will be at 3 p. m. today in the First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest.



HOWELL

Dr. Howell died early yesterday at Emergency Hospital. He was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday in his office at the National Museum.

Pallbearers include Dr. E. A. Goldman, Dr. Harvey Godard, E. Donald Preston, Dr. J. M. P. Metcalf and Dr. Alexander Wetmore.

Noted Naturalist

A nationally-known naturalist, Dr. Howell had been connected with the Interior Department division and its predecessor, the United States Biological Survey, for 44 years. Director of many scientific expeditions, he was best known for his books on birds and mammals.

Born in Lake Grove, N. Y., he came to Washington in 1896 to join the biological survey. In 1903 he located and typed numerous animal species in Texas and New Mexico.

Perhaps his best known book was "Florida Bird Life," a study that took ten years to compile. While there he discovered a new bird, the seaside sparrow.

Author of Several Books

Other books included "Birds of Arkansas," "Birds of Alabama" and a "Biological Survey of Alabama." His revisions of existing data on North American mammals included works on skunks, harvest mice, marmots, flying squirrels, pilas, chipmunks and ground squirrels.

He was a member of the American Ornithologists Union, the American Society of Mammalogists, and the Cooper and Baird Ornithology Clubs.

He is survived by his wife, the former Grace Bowen Johnson, of Washington, and three children, Mrs. Eward E. Standbury, of New York City; Miss Elizabeth Howel, and Elbert Jerome Howell, both of this city. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Colored Groups To Protect D. C. Police 'Brutality'

Representatives of the National Negro Congress, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and other organizations last night formulated a program of protest against alleged police brutality in Washington.

They resolved to request a conference with Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, and to sponsor a series of protest meetings, the first being scheduled for 8 p. m. next Wednesday at the Zion Baptist Church, 333 F street southwest.

A. Langston Taylor, civic affairs chairman of the National Negro Congress, presided at the meeting in the Twelfth street Y. M. C. A. Other organizations represented by speakers included the Elks Civil Liberties Committee, the Washington Committee for Democratic Rights, the Workers Alliance and several churches.

Rep. Shafer Demands Funds For 'Proper' D. C. Liquor Probe

Need for Thorough Inquiry Cited; Meets With Eberharter Today

A renewed demand that the District liquor investigation not only be reopened but that an appropriation be obtained to conduct a "proper inquiry" was made yesterday by Representative Shafer (Republican), of Michigan.

Shafer, a member of the special Eberharter subcommittee which recently presented its report to the full House District Committee, said that he would confer with Representative Eberharter (Democrat), of Pennsylvania, regarding the request for funds.

Eberharter previously had suggested that $20,000 be asked for a thorough inquiry, but House leaders have shown no inclination to make the funds available.

Declaring that there is "too much politics" in the control and sale of liquor in Washington, Shafer added:

"We only scratched the surface. The pandering that goes on in places that sell liquor, as disclosed in a recent case before the United States District Court, shows the need for a sweeping inquiry."

Shafer expressed the opinion that there are too many liquor stores in Washington and that the A. B. C. Board is not exercising the authority it has to control retail liquor prices and curb "objectionable" advertising.

The previous investigation, Shafer said, failed to uncover all the facts about the liquor industry in the District because it lacked both the authority and the personnel to conduct a proper investigation.

British Seek Resources Pool With Americas

Copyright by New York Times

Great Britain has suggested to the United States the pooling of British resources involving war materials and other commodities essential for prosecuting the war with the resources of the Americas.

Under the plan the materials would be allocated to various countries, but none would find their way to Germany, Italy, Japan or countries regarded as friendly to the Axis or likely to allow the materials to fall under the control of the dictators.

This in outline is a plan which has been anvanced, apparently with the coming meeting of Pan American foreign ministers in Havana in mind. It has been put forward only in general terms, but officials familiar with it said yesterday that their understanding was that it would mean extension of the British blockade to the Western Hemisphere. With all the countries of this hemisphere participating in the blockade. Put in another way, they said, it would mean extension of total war to this continent with the consent and assistance of the Americas.

No announcement has been made concerning it, but from what could be gathered yesterday the reception of the proposal has been lukewarm. A promise was made to Great Britain to give the suggestion consideration, but that was all, and officials said yesterday that they knew of no further development concerning it.

Hitler 'Saved' as Boys Crash Plane

Peekskill, N. Y., July 10 (AP).—Bernard Byrne, 15, and Donald Blood, 14, "borrowed" a three-seater plane at a Long Island airport today and set off for Canada to join the Canadian air force.

They stopped here for gas, took off again, then crashed from a height of 50 feet, but escaped injury. Police soon found the boys—swimming in a nearby pond.

Forsakes Russia For Uncle Sam

PRINCESS NATALIE PALEY, member of the Romanoff royal family of Imperial Russia, turned patriotic with a bang yesterday when applying for her American citizenship papers in Bridgeport, Conn. The princess, who is married to John C. Wilson, business manager for Noel Coward, appeared in court clad in a red, white and blue ensemble

Merchants Plan Battle Against No-Parking Law

Officers of the Federation of Business Men expressed opposition last night to parking prohibitions on Georgia avenue northwest, from Kenyon street north, and resolved to take the matter up with District and Congressional officials.

Bernard Elman, a director, accused the Traffic Division of dusting off a 12-year-old law prohibiting parking on deadend streets and applying it to the Georgia avenue business section.

The meeting, held at the Continental Hotel, also made plans for the federation's moonlight excursion down the Potomac next Tuesday at 8:30 p. m.

Monroney, Rogers Win in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, July 10 (AP).—Paced by Freshman Representative Mike Monroney, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma's nine Congressmen easily won Democratic renomination in yesterday's primary election, almost complete unofficial returns showed tonight.

Monroney, seeking a second term, had a 37,000-vote lead over his nearest opponent. Congressman-at-Large Will Rogers outran former Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray by 28,000 ballots in his race for a fifth term.

National Guard Week Proposed For Recruiting

D.C. Defense Committee To Seek Proclamation; 550 Men Needed

A District National Guard week to be proclaimed by the District Commissioners to intensify the Guard's drive for recruits was proposed yesterday by the District Defense Committee, an organization of civic leaders formed to aid Washington's participation in the National defense program.

Meeting in the offices of the Washington Board of Trade, the committee approved the proposal by J. L. Samuel and delegated two of its members to call on the Commissioners for a proclamation.

A week dedicated to the National Guard with one day set aside for special ceremonies would be designated before the close of the recruiting drive August 1.

Services of radio, press and newsreel are being mobilized by the committee in the drive to bring features of guard training to the attention of Washington citizens and to raise guard enrollment to full strength of 2,191 men.

Lieut. Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, assistant adjutant general of the Guard, told the committee that 550 recruits are needed.

On the basis of figures presented for Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commander of the Guard, Col. Nevitt estimated that Guard expenditures in the District "generate" $3,500,000, worth of business in Washington annually.

A. Julian Brylawski informed the committee of preliminary arrangements for a news reel short, to be shown during the campaign.

Winslow V. Van Devanter reported on efforts to induce employers to make it possible for employes to take three weeks Guard training this summer.

Announced as new committee members were H. McCoy Jones and Peter Hill Dunn, both graduates of the United States Naval Academy; Norman C. Kal, Charles A. Robinson, Edward S. Pardoe, William H. Payne, jr., Charles B. Dulcan, sr., Brainard W. Parker, Maj. Gen. Fred W. Colemna, superintendent of the United States Soldiers' Home, and L. Gardner Moore, president of the Hotel Association of Washington.

Five Appointed Carnegie Fellows

The Library of Congress yesterday announced the appointment of five fellows under a grant from the Carnegie Corporation by which college professors will study for a year at the library.

Selected for the year beginning in September are Dr. Edward P. Hutchinson, Harvard University, specialist in population problems; Dr. Jerrold Orne, University of Chicago, romance history; Dr. William E. Powers, Northwestern University, geology; Dr. Francis J. Whitfield, Harvard University, Slavic history; Dr. Richard H. Heindel, University of Pennsylvania, American influence on European thought.

District's Battle Against Pests Fails to Feaze Japanese Beetles

Beetles Launch Furious Attack At Sylvan Theater

Led by the Japanese beetle, insect pests are giving Washington's profuse foliage the worst going over they have had in years.

"The red spiders, tussock caterpillars, box-leaf miners and others are under control, we think," George W. Harding, National Capital Parks horticulturist, said yesterday, "but the beetles are running wild. And there's nothing that can be done about it."

As Harding spoke, a subordinate ran up to report a fresh invasion of Japanese beetles in the Sylvan Theater on the Monument Grounds.

"There must be millions of them," the courier cried breathlessly, "and they're eating everything."

The horticultural chief made a personal investigation and found out, sure enough, that the Boston ivy vine near the theater's stage was fairly alive with the hungry pests.

"If only they'd be reasonable and die after a meal on leaves sprayed with arsenate of lead, like the others do," Harding sighed.

As long as bag worms, tent moths, aphids and other varieties of plant enemies remain as responsive as they are to poison sprays, though, there is no serious danger that the Capital's rich vegetation will suffer permanent damage, he said reassuringly.

"If let alone, the tussock caterpillar moth could defoliate a third of our trees," Harding said.

The bag worm's favorite meat is evergreen needles. If it succeeds in devouring all the needles on a tree, the tree dies.

Just as the Japanese beetle has made East and West Potomac parks and Anacostia its principal feeding grounds this summer, the box elder bug is concentrating on trees and shrubbery in lower Rock Creek Park. Elsewhere in Washington it is hardly noticeable.

The red spider, microscopic in size, also favors evergreens. Its depredations are at their worst this month. A mixture of nicotine and soap is successfully keeping this pest under control, parks officials said.

"But the Japanese beetles," moaned Harding, "they're worse this year than ever before and it will be still worse next summer. That's the way new insect invasions go."

On the Line

With CONSIDINE

New York, July 10.—The Washington Redskins have $90,000 in the till, which represents about 10,000 season tickets sold, with the opening of the grid season more than two months away . . . Love came to Lew Jenkins, the sun-cured Texan, after watching his wife-to-be (who was a racing car driver) go through a fence, turn over three times, get up and continue the race . . . Alex Morrison has written the perfect golf book, "How to Play Golf Without Practice." You never have to budge out of a chair, or expose yourself to poisonous fresh air, or bestir your contentedly torpid liver, and yet you'll find it improves your game, when some mad mood finally carries you off to a golf course.

CONSIDINE

Henry Armstrong, on Lew Jenkins: "They say he's not going to back away from me, like the others did. They say he's going to hold his ground, and step first to one side and then to the other. I hope so! I'm getting so tired of chasing those boys; be a pleasure to meet one who'll stand still for a while. They say he's 'hungry,' too, that he's got a lot more to fight for than I have. Maybe so. I've had all a fellow can expect. And a lot more. I've got enough money now, and he hasn't. He's just coming along. But I've been that way for some time now, and when that bell rings I want to kill that other fellow more than he wants to kill me.

"I got competitive instinct . . . I want to retire with a title. I had three; I want to take one with me. You ever see Benny Leonard's name in print. It always says 'Benny Leonard, retired undefeated champion . . . ' That's nice . . . Jenkins, then this kid Al Davis. Both good money shots, and then I'm through. It's getting so now that the more money I get the more I want. That's bad. I want to get out while I got my faculties. I don't want to wind up punch drunk, like a lot of us do. I want to be alert, go in some other business . . . writing, I hope."

Challenger's Late Rally Is Futile

Ivy Fails to Answer Bell After Receiving Cut Lip In 14th Stanza

By International News Service

Hartford, Conn., July 10.—Petey Scalzo defended his featherweight boxing title tonight by scoring a technical knockout in the fifteenth round over Bobbie (Poison) Ivy, of Hartford, who failed to answer the bell for that stanza.

A cut lip, the split extending to the inside of his mouth, made it impossible for Ivy to continue after the fourteenth round, so when the bell sounded for the fifteenth his manager decided not to let the fight continue.

Ivy, after being outboxed and outsmarted by the champion through the early rounds, rallied sensationally in the twelfth, when he had Scalzo reeling under successive rights and lefts to the body, but Ivy lacked the knockout punch and Scalzo managed to last the round.

This proved to be the final threat to Scalzo's crown for in the next round, the champion came out strong and promptly forced the challenger on the defensive through unrelenting jabs to the face and body.

Scalzo followed up his advantage in the fourteenth when he had Ivy in a bad way.

Scalzo took every round but the second and twelfth which went to the challenger, and the fourth which was rated even.

The attendance was about 5,000 with the gate reaching $7,345.

Armstrong 's Weight Woes Are 'Myth'

Henry Easily Gets In Under Required Weight for Bout

By the Associated Press

New York, July 10.—Henry Armstrong's weight woes turned out today to be just a fairy tale told by large Eddie Mead in his own inimitable style as part of a deep, dark plot.

Starting out with the traditional "once upon a time," and stopping just short of where "they lived happily ever after," Large Eddie had moaned for days that his welterweight champion couldn't get below 144 pounds, despite an agreement that he would scale no more than 140 for his nontitle fight with Lew Jenkins a week from tonight at the Polo Grounds.

One of New York's athletic commissioners, however, is an old Missourian, so the fistic fathers told Large Eddie to bring Henry down from his training camp and show them. Henry checked in at the commission offices today, stepped on the scales, and the whole thing blew up in Large Eddie's face. For the scales showed Hammerin' Hank to be exactly 138¾.

Mead Surprised?

"Tsk, tsk, tsk. Well, whadyeknow about that," murmured large Eddie as he got down on his knees to peek under the scales for signs of something wrong. The Commissioners couldn't see the joke and thought an explanation was in order.

With that, large Eddie glanced cautiously over both shoulders—one at a time, that is—then leaned over and in a confidential whisper, just loud enough for newspapermen to hear, explained he'd given out the 144 figure because he didn't want the Jenkins' Camp to learn the true state of affairs.

Would Claim Title

"Y'see," he explained the angles of his plan, "I figgered on bringing Henry in under 135 pounds. Then, if he beat Jenkins, we could claim Jenkins' lightweight champeenship."

Hilarious Hymie Caplin, Jenkins' manager, heard about this a short time later, and fell right in with the script. First he waved his left arm; then he waved his right; then he waved both and screamed:

"Eddie can't do this to us. I'm going to have the commission hold a preview weigh-in, before the regular one scheduled for next Wednesday noon. If Armstrong weighs under 135 pounds, I'm going to make Mead take him out and feed him a beef stew or a bowl of Borscht or something. Then they can bring him back and hold the regular weigh-in.

Mid-Atlantic Swim Events On Tomorrow

Ocean City, N. J., Host to Atlantic Coast and A. A. U. Meet

Special Dispatch to The Post

Ocean City, N. J., July 10.—Marjorie Price, former junior national free-style champion and holder of numerous Middle Atlantic district titles and records, will attempt to lift her first title in the backstroke event when she competes in the Middle Atlantic A. A. U. and Atlantic Coast championships at the Flanders pool here Friday night.

The tall, blonde mermaid who has stepped into the place left vacant on the Broadwood A. A. team, of Philadelphia, when Dorothy Forbes, former national champion, was forced out of competition through illness, is Coach Bill Watson's hope of the Broadwood Club retaining its supremacy in the event.

Watson is sending a team of nine competitors to compete here in the title events. Four Middle Atlantic men's championships, three women's championships and the Atlantic Coast Beach Patrol championship are on the program of 13 events.

Public Parks Net Tournament Begins Saturday

Girl tennis players under 18 years of age who desire to enter the women's division of the Public Parks tournament starting at the Reservoir courts Saturday afternoon will be admitted for one-half of the regular entry fee, or $1.

Officials also stressed the fact that absolutely no post entries will be accepted after 6 o'clock today at The Tennis Shop, 1019 Fifteenth street northwest.

Competition in men's singles and women's singles will start promptly at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Patty Berg Turns Professional

22-Year-Old Star Signs For Six Years

Salary Reported To Be $7,500; Won '38 National Title

By the Associated Press

Chicago, July 10.—Patty Berg, a determined Miss who took 122 strokes on her first round of golf eight years ago—including a penalty for teeing up her ball in a sand-trap—signed a four-figure contract to teach the game today.

The red-haired, 22-year-old Minneapolis star accepted a position with a Chicago sporting goods company, one which will take her to colleges and high schools throughout the Nation for exhibitions and instruction clinics.

There was no announcement on Patty's salary. But L. B. Icely, her new boss, indicated it would be approximately $7,500 a year. Her contract was for six years—with Miss Berg getting an option for renewal for a similar period.

Honored at Luncheon

"Golf has been grand to me and I hope I can do something for it," said Patty, guest of honor with her father, Herman L. Berg, of Minneapolis, at a luncheon which signalized her enrollment in golf's play-for-pay colony.

The chubby, freckle-faced girl laughed when she recalled that 122 shot first round, played with a brassie, midiron, mashie and putter, borrowed from her father. She put an end to her "dub" days with amazing speed, however, improving so much that she won the Minnesota Breezy Point Tournament two months after playing that duffer first round.

Rise Was Sensational

From then on Patty's rise was sensational. She played in 60 tournaments of a national or intersectional character, winning 29 championships and placing second 14 times. In 30 of those tournaments she won medal honors from high-class fields. Her biggest championship was the 1938 Women's National, which she won here at Westmoreland b, defeating Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, the defending titilist.

Miss Berg, after a few days vacation in Minneapolis, was expected to start work with a tour of Western Conference campuses, swinging then into Illinois colleges and into the East.

Furr-Cocoa Winner May Meet Armstrong

N. B. A. to Demand Welterweight Champion Defend His Title or Forfeit; Turner Wires $15,000 Guarantee for Title Bout in August

By Al Hailey

A move to force Henry Armstrong to defend his welterweight championship against the winner of Monday night's Phil Furr-Cocoa Kid battle in Griffith Stadium or be stripped of his title will be launched by Lieut. Col. Harvey L. Miller, N. B. A. president.

Miller said yesterday he plans to petition the N. B. A. in behalf of the District Boxing Commission to have the association crack down on Hammering Hank.

Already Armstrong has violated the N. B. A. rule which led that body to strip Ambers of his crown—a rule demanding that a champion must defend his title against one of the first ten ranking battlers in that division at least once every six months.

That ultimatum, however, has died out, and the N. B. A., remembering the lack of prestige in the Ambers incident, has been looking the other way. The explanation is that, at least, Armstrong has been active. The activity wasn't much, however, for it consisted mainly of "risking" his title twice against Ralph Zanelli and twice against Paul Junior.

Miller pointed out yesterday, however, that Cocoa Kid, No. 1; Milt Aron, No. 2, and Holman Williams, No. 3, are the three men who deserve the first cracks at Henry's title.

The Armstrong-Lew Jenkins fight July 17 in New York will have no bearing on the proposed action, Miller added.

Assistance of Ed. Foster, of Providence, R. I., and Joe Triner, of Chicago, and a number of other "higher ups" in the N. B. A. in bringing pressure on Armstrong and his manager, Eddie Mead, will be sought, Miller said.

The Cocoa Kid has won 17 straight fights this year, and is said to have a continuous streak of 44 victories. Furr, ranked seventh, by Ring magazine, would take over the Kid's No. 1 rating with a victory at the ball park Monday night.

Promoter Joe Turner already has wired Mead a $15,000 offer to bring Armstrong to Washington in August to defend the title against Furr. Fat Eddie hasn't said yea or nay.

The Cocoa Kid is to arrive in Washington Friday for a public workout at 2 p. m. at Turner's area, while Furr will fly in from Madame Beys' training camp in Summit, N. J., Saturday, for a 1 p. m. workout at the arena.

League-Leading Tigers Invade Nats Today

Bridges or Newhouser To Face Hudson in First of 3 Games

After a three-day hiatus occasioned by the All-Star game, Griffith Stadium gates will open again today, presenting the start of a three-game series between the league-leading Tigers and the eighth-place Nats.

To the amazement of the critics—and perhaps of themselves—the Tigers have been hovering around the top of the league for the past month and now enjoy a percentage advantage over the second-place Indians. The team which has contributed more than any other to the Tigers' lofty position is the Nats. Detroit has won 8 of the 11 games between the two clubs this season.

Manager Del Baker's club, highlighted by the 12 straight pitching victories of Buck Newsom against his one defeat, is now rated as a distinct pennant possibility. The Tigers have been given a big lift by the pitching success also of Rookie Harold Newhouser, and the inspiring shortstop play of Dick Bartell, National League refugee.

Potent Batting Attack

Outfielder Barney McCosky, long rated among this year's five leading hitters in the league, rounds out a potent Detroit batting array. Hank Greenberg, Rudy York and Charley Gehringer are also lending a powerful hand with their slugging.

For today's series opener with the Nats, Baker has ready the veteran Tommy Bridges who has always been notably successful against the Washington club. There is a possibility, however, that Newhouser may be Baker's choice today. On the Tigers' last trip to Washington, that rookie southpaw scored his first major league victory at the Nats' expense.

The All-Star interlude has been a boon to Manager Bucky Harris and the hapless Nats, enabling them to reshape their pitching forces, which were sorely put by last week's double-header.

Sid Hudson to Hurl

Today Harris is expected to send young Sidney Hudson against the Tigers. That young man will be seeking his fifth straight triumph. Hudson's recent exhibitions, which include a one-hit shutout over the Browns, have been the Nats' brightest note. His record a month ago read: Nine defeats, two victories. He now boasts six victories against nine defeats.

Manager Harris indicated yesterday that he is now definitely committed to Rookie Jimmy Pofahl as his regular shortstop. Despite occasional errors in the field, Pofahl has been giving the Nats excellent protection at shortstop and has been hitting with great timeliness, if not frequency.

Boston Recalls Hurler Earl 'Lefty' Johnson

Boston, July 10 (AP).—Earl Johnson, 20-year-old left-handed pitcher, who has won 12 games and lost 4 for the Rocky Mount Club, in the Piedmont League, was recalled today by the Boston Red Sox.

In organized baseball for the first time this year, Johnson has started in 17 games and finished 15 while pitching for a fifth-place club. Johnson came to the Sox from St. Mary's College, on the Pacific Coast.

Cameo, Heurich Play Tomorrow

Cameo Furniture will meet Heurich Brewers tomorrow at 5 o'clock on the South Ellipse diamond in a Washington Post Industrial League game.

Both clubs are tied for second half honors with one victory apiece.

On Saturday the Furnituremen will travel to Tremont, Pa., to play a night game, and follow with an afternoon clash with the same club on Sunday.

Cameo will leave 11 a. m. Saturday from 214 Twelfth street southwest.

Frank Deavers will take the mound for Cameo against Heurich tomorrow with Jimmie Schwab behind the plate. On Saturday night and Sunday Otis Printz and "Giggle" Adair will draw the hurling assignment against Tremont.

Sickle T. Wins Class C Race At Empire City

Ronnie Nash Pilots Favorite Under Wire By One Length

By the Associated Press

Empire City Race Track, Yonkers, N. Y., July 10.—Mrs. B. F. Whitaker's Sickle T., which found the competition too strong in the rich Butler Handicap, came into his own here today when he defeated four other class "C" horses in the Gramatan Handicap of a mile and a furlong. Favorite at even money and topweight under 122 pounds, the well-named son of Sickle-T. made his own pace and scored by a length in 1:52 1-5.

Sandy Boot, stretch-running veteran from the J. B. Partridge Barn, easily accounted for the place, with John C. Clark's pretty pet three lengths behind. Foxshade and Nedayr were beaten off.

An occasional light breeze was the only relief from the heat and humidity. Betting and attendance again were more than satisfactory. After five races, 10,977 fans had dumped $413,407 into the tote.

Ronnie Nash nursed Sickle T. along in front by a length or slightly more. Pretty Pet forced the winner's pace for a half mile. Then Sandy Boot, which began what looked like a threatening spurt after entering the backstretch, loomed as the one for Sickle T. to beat. Sandy got up to within a half length of the favorite after turning for home. However, Sickle T. had something left and held the challenger under control to the wire.

Alfred Robertson, who returned to the saddle after serving an 18-day suspension for rough riding at Aqueduct, booted Fortissimo, the $8.60 choice, to victory in the sixth contest. Amnesty set the pace until collared by the winner entering the stretch. Beaten a length and a half, Amnesty saved the place by a head from the fast-closing Millshow.

Golden Lass Captures Race At Suffolk

Noses Out Sweet Willow, Favorite, to Win Second Straight

By the Associated Press

Boston, July 10.—Mrs. O. B. Wearley's Golden Lass won her second straight race at fancy prices at Suffolk Downs today by capturing the $1,200 Mansfield Purse by a nose from Robert W. Collins' Sweet Willow, a 2-1 favorite.

Golden Lass closed at 12 to 1 in the mutuels for the 6-furlong dash for 3-year-old fillies.

Although Sweet Willow took a commanding lead down the backstretch, she was unable to stave off a stretch drive by Golden Lass and a photo finish resulted. Circle M. Ranch's Evanded ran third, three lengths back. W. L. Brann's Yarnith was fourth.

Golden Lass, running the three-quarters in 1:11 1-5, paid $27.60, $13.40 and $9.20. Sweet Willow returned $6.20 and $4.20, and Evanded paid $17 to show. R. K. Ross rode the winner while Maurice Berger was up on the losing favorite.

Marshall Leaves For Redskins' Training Camp

Whether you know it or not, the football season is on—at least as far as George P. Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, is concerned.

Predicting that his Redskins will win the National Professional League championship this year, Marshall, accompanied by Mrs. Marshall, stepped on a train yesterday at Union Station bound for Spokane, Wash., to await his club's arrival there for summer training.

Everything is going to be bigger and better on the professional front this year in the way of between-the-halves vaudeville acts, uniformed bands, swing orchestras and crowds, Marshall proclaimed.

Ohio State Center Signed by Redskins

Columbus, Ohio, July 10 (AP).—Steve Andrako, center and captain of the 1939 Ohio State University football team, today signed a contract to play with the Washington Redskins, of the National Football League, during the 1940 season.

Steelers Sign Three

Pittsburgh, July 10 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Steelers announced signing of three players who starred on Pennsylvania collegiate gridirons last week. They are George Klich, Bucknell fullback, and two stalwarts from undefeated Duquesne University—guard Walt Padlo and Fullback John Fedorchak.

Booking Establishment Raided at Kansas City

Kansas City, July 10 (AP).—Police raided a bookie establishment today, arrested 64 frequenters and two keepers, and confiscated $440 in cash and a large quantity of betting paraphernalia. It was the first bookie raid in months. Chief Lear B. Reed clamped the lid on gambling after taking charge of the department.

Six officers moved into the air-conditioned, brightly furnished room in the business district.

First Sacker Obtained

Columbus, Ohio, July 10 (AP).—The Columbus Red Birds of the American Association today exchanged First Baseman Jack Bolling for Larry Barton of the Pacific Coast League Sacramento Club. Barton is a former Red Bird first baseman.

Columbus also optioned outfielder Bill Rabe to Rochester of the International League.

Sutter Is Upset By Bob Decker

North Conway, N. H., July 10 (AP).—Bob Decker, of Newton, Mass., a freshman at the University of Miami, provided the Gold Racquet tennis tournament with its first upset today when he eliminated the third-seeded Ernie Sutter, of New Orleans, 6—4, 2—6, 6—3, in a third-round match.

The other three favored entries advanced without being pressed. Top-seeded Frank Kovacs, of Oakland, Calif., defeated Leon Everett, of Los Angeles, 6—3, 6—2; Second-seeded Hal Surface, of Kansas City, eliminated Clifford Sutter, of New York, 6—1, 6—2, and George Toley, of Los Angeles, gained the quarter-finals with a 6—2, 6—1 victory over Kenneth Bartelt, of Los Angeles.

In the other third-round matches Bill Reedy, of Los Angeles, defeated Martin Buxby, of Miami, 6—2, 6—4; Larry Dee, of San Francisco, defeated Jack Mahoney, of New York, 6—2, 6—2; Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, defeated William McGeehee, of New Orleans, 6—4, 6—1, and Frank Shields, of New York, defeated Bradford Boynton, of North Conway, 6—3, 6—0.

Mrs. Davy, Parker Nolan Win Low Gross in State Mixed Event

Baltimore Duo Posts Low Net 65

Elizabeth Bonthron, Francis Carnes Top Field of 64 Teams; Davy-Nolan Post 74

By Merrell W. Whittlesey

Playing perfect partners over their home course, Maryland State amateur champion, M. Parker Nolan, and Maryland State Women's runner-up, Mrs. Myron Davy, won low gross in the Maryland State Golf Association mixed Scotch foursome tournament yesterday at Congressional with a two-over par 74.

A Baltimore team playing in a mixed event together for the first time, Elizabeth Bonthron and Francis Carnes, of the Hillendale Club, tied the 74 of the host club duo, but their nine handicap gave the visitors a net 65, so they took the low net prize.

Mrs. Davy and Nolan, playing selective drives and alternate shots, were out in 38, one over par, and back in 36, also one over, when Nolan dropped a 20-foot birdie putt on the home hole for the low gross honors. The winners took a double bogey six on the tenth hole, but the birdie on 18 and a birdie on the par five thirteenth made up the two strokes.

Pair Shoot 65

Miss Bonthron, lowest handicapped woman golfer at the Hillendale Club, and Carnes played the best nine of the day, a par 35 on the second nine that was featured by birdies on 13 and 18, Carnes dropping the putts after Miss Bonthron's fine approaches. Carnes also chipped in for a birdie 2 on the ninth green.

Second low net duo in the field of 64 teams was the Capital tandem of Mrs. E. R. Ferguson, jr., and George Molloy, who played at 9 a. m. and finished with a net 66 before most of the field started, a score that certainly put the pressure on the afternoon players.

Mrs. Ferguson and Molloy, chairman of the golf committee at Capital, played the course in 81 strokes and deducted half their combined handicap of 15 for the net 66.

Host Duo Card 75

Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, Kenwood, and Billy Shea, of the host club, went over par on the last two holes and still finished with a 75, one stroke too high for a gross tie. They were out in 37, even par, with a double bogey 7 on the fifth, and had par for a 73 on the seventeenth tee. However, 5s on 17 and 18 cost two shots to regulation figures.

Baltimoreans walked off with three of the first four net prizes. The Terra Mariae Club duo of Mrs. I. Darrington and E. Brown scored 84—14—67, for third low net, a stroke ahead of the Hillendale team of Mrs. A. R. Wilkerson and Jessee Dowling, jr., who posted 83—15—68.

Kenwood's Mrs. H. H. Hughes and Jack Keele won fifth low net with 80—11—69, while the next prize was a three-way tie. Mrs. Jerome Sloman, former Maryland champion, and E. G. Barnes, Rolling Road, posted a 76 net, fourth best score of the day, and deducted a 5 handicap for a net 71, while the host club team of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Moorman had 89—18—71 and Capital's Mrs. B. Quigg and H. E. Davies 100—29—71.

The net 72's also made the prize list, with all prizes presented preceding a dinner-dance at the club following one of the most successful tournaments of its kind in the State record books. Mrs. Doris Kerr and N. E. Rogers, Beaver Dam, had 90—18—72, as did Mrs. Leo Walper and Ken Spencer, Capital, 78—6—72.

Wilmer Allison Eliminated in Net Tourney

Ladislav Hecht Downs American Player, 7-5, 6-3

By International News Service

Spring Lake, N. J., July 10.—Ladislav Hecht, Czech Davis Cup ace, today eliminated Wilmer Allison, twice American champion, 7—5, 6—3, in the third round of the Spring Lake Invitation Tournament.

Frankie Parker, No. 2 American, revealed the power of his new forehand in beating Roger Williams, of New Brunswick, 6—1, 6—2. Ted Schroeder, Southern California University, love-setted Charles Griesenbeck, Rumson, N. J., 6—0, 6—0. Gilbert Hall, who is in his 40's, put out George Lyttleton-Rogers, former Irish Davis cupper, 6—2, 6—2. Gardnar Mulloy, Miami, dispatched Henry Betjer, San Angelo, Tex., 6—0, 6—3.

Hard-hitting Bob Kerdasha, of Woodcliffe, trimmed Alex Guerry, of Chattanooga, 6—1, 6—2, and Archie Henderson, of Chapel Hill, N. C., had his hands full beating Charles Mattman, of Forest Hills, 8—6, 7—5.

Columbus Beats Milwaukee, 4-1

Columbus, Ohio, July 10 (AP).—The Columbus Red Birds made a clean sweep of the four-game American Association series by defeating Milwaukee, 4 to 1, in the final game tonight.

Murry Dickson outpitched Jimmy Deshong all the way, allowing seven hits while his mates made five of their nine bingles figure in the scoring.

He suffered a three-inch gash on his [illegible] a wrenched neck. He was removed to a hospital for observation.

Cooke Gains Clay Court Round of 8

By the Associated Press

New York, July 10.—Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Oreg., the Nation's sixth-ranking player and Wimbledon finalist last year, gained the quarter-final round of the New York State Clay Courts championships after a 2—6, 6—1, 6—3 tussle today with Leonard Hartman, New York veteran.

Cooke's hard-fought triumph climaxed an uphill day for the seeded entries, who lost two of their number in the opening matches of the day, and then won four tests in succession. Frank Guernsey, of Orlando, Fla., who is rated behind Don McNeill and Cook in the draw, defeated Bill Hardi, of Miami, 6—2, 6—1, and sixth-seeded Joe Fishbach, of New York, won by the same tally from Frank Mehner, of Salt Lake City.

The two who were eliminated were Bill Gillespie, of Atlanta, No. 5, and Bill Umstaedter, of Millburn, N. J., No. 8. Gillespie yielded to Tom Kelly, of Portland, Oreg., 7—9, 6—4, 6—2, while Umstaedter succumbed to Bill Canning, of Berkeley, Calif., who completed the round of eight by ousting Myron McNamara, Los Angeles, 3—6, 9—7, 6—0. McNeill and Vincent Paul, of Brooklyn, won their berths yesterday.

The quarter-final pairings: McNeill vs. Kelly; Harman vs. Fishbach; Cooke vs. Canning, and Guernsey vs. Paul.

Paul Brothers Win

The Paul Brothers softball ten defeated Soldiers Home, 7-3, yesterday with Evans and Troup leading the Royals and Kelly starring for the losers.

Hahn Desires Foe

The Hahn Rovers desire a game with an unlimited out-of-town foe for Sunday. The Hahn manager can be reached by phoning Adams 2901 in the day.

Marketers Win

The Southwest Market nine handed the Army War College a 10-to-2 defeat yesterday on the losers' diamond. McIntyre hurled his fifth straight victory for the winners while Clubb, Southwest second baseman, was the defensive star.

Dizzy Dean To Start in All-Star Clash

Takes Mound in Texas Game Tonight; 8,000 Fans Expected

By the Associated Press

Fort Worth, Tex., July 10.—Inching towards the life of gentleman farmer. Dizzy Dean, the great pitcher with the tired arm, gets one more curtain call from baseball's fandom tomorrow night.

The tall farm boy, just 29, will toe the mound as the starting pitcher for the northern division in the Texas League's annual All-Star game before an expected throng of 8,000.

Shipped back to the minors only a few weeks ago by the Chicago Cubs after his worn arm failed to respond in major league tests, Diz has a good won and lost record since returning to the Texas League—but the real story has been veiled.

Dean has been able to last out only one of five games. Relief hurlers saved his hide on four occasions.

But he'll get the starting call for a three-inning stretch, at least. Manager Rogers Hornsby, another great routed from the majors a few seasons back, put Dean back in the glamor role by naming him as his starting pitcher.

On the mound for the rebellious youngsters from the Southern end of the league will be San Antonio's Bob Muncrief, who only yesterday nailed down his seventeenth triumph of the season.

Three Southern victories have been recorded in the four games played. The North finally broke the jinx last year at San Antonio.

May Hardware Wins

May Hardware softballers went into first place in the second-half of the Northeast Commercial League yesterday by downing Beitzel, 5 to 2, in a game played at Langdon field.

National League's Victory Didn't Surprise 'Old Alex'

Famed Pitcher Now Ticket-Taker at Cleveland Track

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, July 10.—You could have knocked Grover Cleveland Alexander over with a horse when he heard the National League All-Stars blanked their American loop rivals.

"No, it didn't surprise me a bit," old G. C. remarked today at Thistle Down race track, where he holds forth under a blue and white striped umbrella, taking admission tickets from the customers.

"Old Pete" paused to pitch a ducat into the tin box, thought of the days when he was winning 30 games a year, and declared:

"I was pulling for the National League, naturally, since I was there all my life. No, I don't believe in this talk about American League supremacy. There isn't any such thing.

"Over the course of ten or twelve years those teams will be right back where they started—all even. I don't care if the American has won five games to three.

"I don't believe it would be any different than the present close pennant races if teams of each league played teams of the other league all season. It would be just as much a battle as ever. They're both getting the best talent it's possible to get."

It has been ten years now since "Old Pete"—he's 50—wound up his major league pitching career with the Phillies. In 19 years he won 373 games—more than any other National League hurler—and held nearly every record in the books. He has been a barnstorming baseball exhibitioner, a hotel greeter na da flea circus speiler since he left the big show.

"Old Pete" put a job-seeking advertisement in a baseball trade paper and an old baseball friend gave him a ticket-taking job at a Detroit track which led to his present one here.

"I never cared much for the races," he said. "When I get home now and my wife asks me who won, I couldn't begin to tell her."

And then, wistfully:

"I'd like to get back into baseball."

Miamian Tops Semifinal Jr. Tennis Play

Leads as Out-State Stars Take Charge Of Pennsylvania Net

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, July 10.—The Pennsylvania Junior Tennis Championship Tournament passed completely into out-State hands today as the three remaining Keystone State entries dropped out of the running in the semifinal rounds.

Jack Blair, young Miami, Fla., ace, launched the out-State attack with a 6—1, 6—0 victory over James Jordan, of Landsdowne, Pa., in the junior division while Frank Whaley, Corpus Christi, Tex., disposed of Stanley Granger, Reading, Pa., 6—3, 0—6, 6—4, in the other match.

Howe Atwater, Wilmette, Ill., entered the finals of the boys' singles with a 3—6, 6—4, 7—5 victory over Ned Chapman, Ruxton, Md., and Albert Shafer, Tarrytown, N. Y., eliminated the remaining Pennsylvanian, Chadwick Johnson, Penn Charter, 6—1, 8—6.

Blair, favored to add the junior title to the Philadelphia district crown he won here recently, took full advantage of Jordan's weak backhand to win easily.

His Texas finals opponent had a tougher assignment in Granger, a southpaw. Whaley lost 13 of the 25 games played but fought off a late attack in the third set to save the match.

Dorothy Evans, Miss Fischer In Swim Meet

Stars Enter Airport Pool Event Carded For Monday Night

Adding national flavor to a meet already full of local rivalry, Dorothy Evans and Lorraine Fischer, two of the country's outstanding individual swimmers, announced yesterday that they will enter the Airport Pool meet next Monday night.

Miss Evans notified Manager Hardy Pearce from her Ardmore, Pa. home, that she will participate in all four open swimming events.

Representing the Penn A. C., Miss Evans has established a national reputation with her numerous victories in national meets, and is one of the A. A. U.'s prized chattels.

Of little less significance, however, is the entry of Miss Fischer. Holder of 29 national, metropolitan, New York State and Eastern League titles, Miss Fischer is especially adept in the individual medley event in which she holds the national title.

Although the aforementioned are the outstanding long-distance participants there nevertheless are many out-of-town entries. From Goldsboro, N. C., Lancaster, Pa., Baltimore and Lewisburg, Pa., in addition to New York and Philadelphia will come high hopes of victory.

Heading the local contingent will be the Washington Golf and Country Club whose Bill Wright is expected to snatch a major share of individual honors in the men's events. Wright recently was clocked in 54 seconds for the 100-yard free style, which should be more than adequate next Monday night.

At present the number of women's entrants exceed those of the men's but with the advent of local boys' clubs registration the male population in the meet is expected to be swelled.

St. Paul Sweeps 3-Game Series

Indianapolis, July 10 (AP).—St. Paul swept a three-game series with Indianapolis tonight as Harry Taylor pitched the Saints to a 4-to-1 victory and handed the Indians their fifth consecutive defeat.

A walk to Ollie Bejma and a home run over the rightfield wall by Jess Newman in the second inning settled the issue, but the Saints added another pair in the eighth on three passes, two sacrifices and a long fly.

The Tribe's only run was Wally Berger's four-bagger over the scoreboard in the fifth. It was Berger's first hit since he joined the Indians a few days ago.

Double plays ended three other Indianapolis scoring threats.

Miss Wightman Sprains Ankle In Net Tourney

Daughter of Famed Cup Donor Injured In Doubles Match

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, July 10.—An injury broke up the promising young doubles team of Dorothy Wightman and Margaret Madden, of Boston, today in the quarter-finals round of the Middle States Women's Tennis Tournament.

Miss Wightman, the 18-year-old daughter of the Wightman Cup donor, sprained an ankle while attempting a difficult return during the second set of the match with Nellie Sheer, Miami Beach, and Doris Hart, Miami, and the team defaulted, 3—6, 5—1.

While the two Helens—Jacobs and Pedersen—moved confidently along toward the title with a love-set triumph, the second seeded pair, Helen Bernhard, New York, and Barbara Neils, Cleveland, bowed to an "unknown" team, 6—0, 3—6, 5—7.

The conquerors were Barbara Strobher, Merion, Pa., and Argyl Rice, Hartford, Conn.

Miss Jacobs and Miss Pedersen gave Mercedes Madden, Boston, and Joy Hartman, Pittsburgh, only 13 points in their advance to the semifinals.

In the other quarter-finals match, Frances Bancroft, Wilmington, and Emily Lincoln, Boston, defeated Mrs. John B. Jessup, Wilmington, and Anne Page, Merion, 6—1, 6—4.

Singles play will be resumed tomorrow, with the semifinals doubles scheduled for Friday.

Toledo Mud Hens Defeat Blues, 4-2

Toledo, Ohio, July 10 (AP).—Lanky Harry Kimberlin scattered 11 Kansas City hits tonight, fanned 7 and issued by 1 base on balls as the Mudhens salvaged a 4-to-2 decision from the American Association leaders in the four-game series here.

Kimberlin was helped by two double plays and his mates shoved across three runs on but two hits in the sixth inning to sew up the verdict. A error, a base on balls and a wild pitch helped the brood in their winning spree.

Three Remaining Seeded Stars Advance in Open Net Tourney

Miss Lhamon Upset Victor In Girls' Play

Second-Seeded Helen Harrison Drops Close Match; Doubles in Form

Play in the quarterfinal singles round of the District Open tennis tournament for women ran true to form yesterday at Columbia, as the three remaining seeded stars advanced to the semifinal round with little difficulty, while two upsets marked the girls' competition.

The big surprise in the girls' division came when unseeded Lucia Lhamon, of Annapolis, trounced second-seeded Helen Harrison. Miss Lhamon, a newcomer to local competition, was forced to come from behind after dropping a hard-fought first set, 8—6. She rallied, however, to capture the final sets, 6—4, 6—4.

With top-seeded Willie Herbert out of the running, due to her Tuesday defeat at the hands of Anne Harrison, today's semifinal bracket will consist of Miss Harrison, Margo Lee, Charlotte Decker and Anne Dayette, all of whom scored decisive triumphs over unseeded opponents yesterday.

No Major Surprises

The doubles also failed to provide any major surprises as top-seeded Margo Lee and Willie Herbert encountered little opposition in winning a 6—2, 6—0 triumph over Dorette Miller and Joan Bransford. The flashy little doubles pair was superior in practically every department of play, teaming beautifully at the net and forcing their less experienced opponents into many errors.

Although outranked, Miss Harrison should provide Miss Lee with her most serious opposition this afternoon in their semifinal encounter. Tournament officials were quick to realize that a star was in the making Tuesday after Anne's amazing upset of Willie Herbert, and if each can continue to play as in the past a real battle is imminent, the winner of which might well be the ultimate victor in the tourney.

The Anne Dayette-Charlotte Decker match also will attract considerable interest inasmuch as neither has been severely tested in competition to date but it is well known that both have considerable potential tennis value.

Bespectacled Charlotte Decker, fourth-seeded in this tournament, advanced with ease over Cynthia Olmstead, of Annapolis, 6—2, 6—2, while Miss Dayette had slightly more difficulty in scoring a 6—3, 6—3 win over Marian Prichard.

Betty Simpson Beaten

Aside from Miss Lhamon's triumph, the girls' competition provided another startling development when Miss Betty Jacob ousted third-seeded Betty Simpson, 6—3, 6—2. Miss Jacob, who started slowly in her tennis development this year only to gain momentum as the season progressed, was a fairly easy victor over Miss Simpson, although the latter tried vainly in the late stages to stem the tide.

Fourth-seeded Margot Parsons scored twin triumphs yesterday, whipping Judy Riley, 6—0, 6—1, in the second round and following this up with a 7—5, 6—2 win over Virginia Lloyd, her quarter-final opponent.

Both Miss Jacob and Miss Lhamon have their work cut out for them, however, as the former must face top-seeded Isabel Harvey, who continued her outstanding performances with a brilliant, steady triumph over Janice Goldberg, 6—3, 6—1.

Miss Lhamon, meanwhile, will be further tested this afternoon when she faces Miss Parsons in what looms as the feature singles match of the afternoon.

The grls' doubles play is merely in the formulative stage with first-round matches having been played yesterday and quarter-final pairings being slated today. All girl doubles favorites advanced yesterday.

Jim Ferrier Ties Doering In Western

Australian Champ And Chicagoan Post 142's in Amateur

By the Associated Press

Minneapolis, July 10.—Jim Ferrier, of Australia, who shot the best competitive round of golf since he came to this country in February, and Art Doering, of Chicago, one of the Nation's ranking players, tied at 142 for medalist honors in the 36-hole qualifying test of the forty-first annual Western amateur golf tournament at the MinneapolisGolf Club course today.

The 25-year-old Australian youth, who holds both the open and amateur titles in his country shattered par by three strokes today for a 69. He had a 73 on Tuesday. It was the best 18-hole round of the two day qualifying test. Doering, leader at the end of the first 18 holes with a 70 equaled par of 72 today. They were two strokes ahead of their nearest rivals, Ole Williamson and Neil Croonquist, both of Minneapolis.

Ferrier started out with birdies on the first three holes, all by sinking putts of approximately 10 feet. He bogies the fourth and fifth holes, however, by three-putting and then missed another 4-footers on the eighth for a bogie after hooking his drive into the rough and wound up the first nine with a par 36.

Comes Back in 33

Ferrier dropped a 15-footer for a birdie on the twelfth, was only 4 feet from the pin on the par four thirteenth with his second for another birdie, and also birdied the par four fourteenth by canning his chip shot from 40 feet away to come home in 33.

Doering had two birdies, two bogies and 14 pars. He birdied the second hole with a 15-foot putt and the fifth with a 7-footer. He two-putted from 10 feet away for a bogie 4 on the sixth and got into trouble when he put his drive into the rough on the par four thirteenth.

For the second straight year and for one of the few times in the history of the event, no play-off was necessary to determine the 64-man championship flight which starts match play on Thursday. Scores of 160 or under qualified.

Goodman Qualifies

Harry Todd, of Dallas, Tex., defending champion, posted a 145 total. While seeded in the championship flight he participated in the qualifying as a warmup. Also with 145 were Kalter Burkemo, of Evanston, Ill., and Ken Young, of Minneapolis.

Robert Sulzer, Cincinnati, had 146, and Bill Kostelecky, Fargo, N. Dak., and Jim Black, of St. Louis, 147's.

Included in 148 bracket were Larry Moller, Quincy, Ill., who lost to Todd in the finals last year; Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, former National Amateur and Open titlist; Joe Franco, Winnetka, Ill.; George Victor, of Chicago; Lee Herron, of Minneapolis, and Walter Berl, of Palo Alto, Calif.

One of the favorites, Wilford Wehrle, of Chicago, had 149 along with Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, the tennis star. Grouped among the 150 totals were Tud Ward, of Spokane, National Amateur titlist; Jack Shields, of Tulsa, Okla., and Earl Larson, of Minneapolis.

Chick Evans, of Chicago, eight times winner of this tournament and also holder of practically all other major honors in golf, qualified with a 156.

Disappearing Polo Game Gets Reporter in Dither

Lady Scribe Reaches Scene of Battle Just as Last Chukker Is Chucked

By Anne Hagner

Memo to Sports Editor:

In re disappearing polo games:

The polo situation became slightly desperate yesterday afternoon, Boss, when we trundled down to Potomac Park to cover the round-robin matches between the Third Cavalry, the Sixteenth Field Artillery, and rived on the spot, expecting to find it swarming with wearied polo ponies and players—only to see three small children playing tag and not a polo pony in sight, which really should have been the case.

Knowing that the United States Army is not the sort of outfit that would decide to call off polo at the last minute, we spent our last five nickels calling people, hot on the trail of an afternoon of sport that was no doubt going on somewhere, but certainly not in Potomac Park.

The Facts Will Out.

Finally, we decided that the only thing to do was get at the bottom of the situation with all haste, what with deadlines and things, so we rushed madly to Fort Myer (in the teeth of a raging torrent of outgoing Government clerks) and found many booted gentlemen, very tired indeed, just leaving the grounds.

You know us, Boss: easy to confuse, as a general rule, but quick on the uptake if confronted by an obvious fact. We deducted that the round-robin games were at an end, so we rushed around and interviewed six officers and several ponies, just to make sure.

It developed that nobody in the world knew the location of the games, including the remainder of the city's press representatives, so we are happy to present the salient facts, all gleaned from Maj. T. Q. Donaldson, a Third Cavalry man.

Wanted—A St. Bernard

It seems that the Third Cavalry's five-goal team romped all over the War Department's outfit and won the first two periods, 4 to 1. Then (and this is where the round-robin part comes in), the Sixteenth Field Artillery, considerably bolstered by the playing of Maj. P. B. Rodes, tied the War Department, 4 to 4, in two more periods.

Winding up the practice session, the Third Cavalry came back on top again and whipped the Field Artillery, 2 to 1, or so rumor has it.

So that is the story, Boss, but we'd like to ask one little favor. Next time we leave the office, how about sending a St. Bernard along to keep track of where we're going?

Jeanne Cline Advances in Western Golf

Eileen Quinlan Is Semifinal Foe in Junior Tournament

By the Associated Press

South Bend, Ind., July 10.—Jeanne Cline, up and coming star from Bloomington, Ill., will tangle with Eileen Quinlan, chubby young surprise package from St. Paul, and an Indiana lass, Mae Louise Davisson, of Leesburg, will battle Georgia Tainter, of Fargo, N. Dak., in the semifinals of the Western Women's Golf Association junior tournament here tomorrow.

Miss Quinlan came from behind again today to draw even with Margaret Gunther, of Memphis, Tenn., on the eighteenth hole and then sent her Southern rival to the showers with a well-played par 4 on the twentieth hole. Miss Gunther picked up after wasting three strokes in a sand trap.

The St. Paul sensation won the seventeenth and eighteenth holes to square today's match after pulling a similar feat yesterday in eliminating the medalist, Phyllis Otto, of Atlantic, Iowa, 1 up.

Miss Cline downed Virginia Smith, of Milwaukee, by 7 and 5. Miss Davisson defeated Betty Haemerle, of St. Louis, 4 and 3, and Miss Tainter won from Edell Wortz, of Fort Smith, Ark., 3 and 2.

Corcoran Predicts Test In Hershey Golf Play

Hershey, Pa., July 10 (AP).—Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the Professional Golfers Association, said today the Hershey Country Club course looks like "a great test at match play" for the P. G. A. championship here next month.

Corcoran toured the 7,017-yard layout with Greenskeeper Jim Morrison, and conferred with Hershey officials on arrangements for the tournament which starts August 26. The championship, now held by the Hershey pro, Henry G. Picard, is decided at match play after a 36-hole qualifying round.

The rolling course is "longer than most courses on which the P. G. A. championship has been decided in recent years," Corcoran observed, but Morrison said "not an inch has been added" to its length.

The par 71 layout is "long enough for anybody," asserted the lanky greenskeeper.

Record Field Expected for Junior Open

Maryland State Play Starts Tuesday at Roland Park Course

Maryland State Golf Association officials expect a record field for the Maryland State Junior Open championship next Tuesday over the Roland Park course of the Baltimore Country Club, where three local boys will get together to try to decide the outstanding junior golfer in town.

State officials open the 18-hole event to young pros, junior club members, caddies and public links players to give the nonclub members a crack at the youngsters who play the country clubs. A field of more than 100 is expected from Washington and Baltimore.

Otto Greiner, who won the Middle Atlantic Junior Tuesday at Columbia will be 21 on July 16, so he will be ineligible for the tournament. However, Maryland State Junior Champ Freddie Bolton, Mid-Atlantic runner-up and District of Columbia Schoolboy Champ Earle Skinker, and District Junior Champ Bill Cassedy, of Argyle, will play.

Entries, accompanied by the fee of 75 cents, close at 4 p. m. Monday, July 15, with Emmet Gary at the association offices, 16 McClellan place, Baltimore, or Edgar Lucas at the Baltimore Country Club. Post entries will be taxed an extra 50 cents, or $1.25. Pairings and starting times will be strictly adhered to, and players not on time will be disqualified.

Prizes will be trophies, regardless of whether pro or amateur wins. Others will be awarded for the 15-years-and-under age class and the 16-and-17-year class. The age limit is under 21.

Ardinger Hooks Large Bass in Potomac

Williamsport, Md., July 10.—Stewart Ardinger hooked a big bass yesterday morning in the Potomac River and saw him get away. So he went back to the same spot in the afternoon and again hooked the big fish. This time he landed a 4-pound 4-ounce beauty, which is the largest caught so far this season in Washington County. Some of the best fishing in years has been reported by fishermen this week, with many getting the limit in the Potomac and its tributaries.

Ross Wilson, McDiarmid Net Winners

Duff and Durivage, Of Montreal, Also Win in Tourney

By the Associated Press

Quebec, July 10.—Semifinalists were decided in the men's singles division of the Dominion tennis championships today, with two Montreal netmen gaining the round in company with the favored Ross Wilson of Toronto and Don McDiarmid of Ottawa.

Rain disrupted play most of the day, and washed out a few matches.

Second-seeded McDiarmid lost only one game in defeating Dr Georges Leclerc of Montreal in three straight sets.

The two Montreal players advancing into the semifinals were Lewis Duff, who defeated Joe O'Hara after five hard sets, and Roger Durivage, who eliminated Montreal's Phil Pearson in four. The semi-final draw places Wilson, seeded first in the tournament, against Duff and McDiarmid against Durivage.

Wilson went to the top of his game to beat young R. N. Watt, jr., of Montreal 6—2, 6—1, 6—1. The lanky Watt, brother of Laird Watt, Canada's top-ranking player showed strong stroking, but had nothing to match Wilson's powerful overhead game.

Fisherman's Kind Heart Leads To a Real Fish Sob Story

4-Pound Bass' Battle for Life in Sink Leads Trail Back to Cushwa Fish Hatcheries

By the Associated Press

Hagerstown, Md., July 10.—Swimming about in the spring at the Cushwa fish hatcheries is a big bass that owes a debt of gratitude to a sportsman who went to a lot of trouble to save its life.

Here's the way it happened:

A fisherman caught the bass in the Potomac River Saturday after a rousing battle. Weighing more than 4 pounds, it was the largest caught in Washington County this season.

The nsherman took the bass home, along with some smaller fish, and when he dumped them into the sink, the big fellow still was alive.

Its struggle for life touched the fisherman, so he filled his ice basket with water and ice, put the bass in it and started for Conococheague Creek.

On the way there, the big bass twice turned over on its side and twice the fisherman stopped at a spring to revive it with fresh water.

When he arrived at Conococheague Creek, other fishermen told him there was much gigging going on and that the weakened bass probably wouldn't have a chance against such tactics.

So the fisherman "primed" the bass with fresh water again and took it to the Cushwa Hatcheries and put it in the big spring, where the cool water soon brought it around.

Frank Bentz, of the Inland Fish and Game Commission, plans to take the bass later to the hatcheries at Lewistown, where it will be placed with the other brood stock.

The sportsman who saved the bass asked that his name be withheld, saying "I know my friends will be a bit dubious about swallowing such a fish yarn."

Policeman Lash Wins Mile Race With Wanted Man

By the Associated Press

Indianapolis, July 10. — Elmer Childers, wanted here for child neglect, found out today what a lot of America's distance runners already know—that it's a tough job to outrun Don Lash, the former Indiana University track star.

Lash, a member of the Indiana State police, and another officer were searching for Childers when they saw a man moving down the road at a speed considerably faster than a walk.

When they learned it was Childers, Lash laid aside his gun and started out with that long, loping stride that has brought him so many track victories. Childers was out of his class and Lash caught him after a run of about a mile.

Blind Brook Captures Hagerstown Feature Over Bellthorn

Victor Comes FromBehind; Pays $7.10

Sure Touch Third In Field of Eight; Freddie Faust Pilots Winner to Victory

By Walter Haight

A Staff Correspondent

Hagerstown, Md., July 10.—In as tight a finish as has been witnessed since racing was revived here 12 years ago, Edward Nelson's Blind Brook came from behind to be up in the concluding jump to win the Radio Station WJEJ Purse, featuring the midweek program. Bellthorn, owned by H. W. Wagely, of Charles Town, was judged second with A. Derrico's Sure Touch, an invader from Delaware Park, third in the field of eight.

Blind Brook, second to Royal Business in the closing day handicap at Charles Town, fought his way between horses to take the decision under a hard ride by Jockey Freddie Faust. The crowd was mindful of Blind Brook's West Virginia form and those who backed him received $7.10 for each $2 investment. The photo on the finish showed two noses and a neck with West Sea in fourth position.

Race Is Rough

The race was a rough, tough affair with virtually every member of the field having some trouble. Bellthorn was closest to Capstick's pace as the field came through the stretch the first time. Bellthorn took command at the turn when Capstick ran out. In the meanwhile, Blind Brook was far back and settling into stride. Sure Touch had been squeezed back in the opening furlong and had gone to the outside for racing room.

Bellthorn appeared to be tiring as the field entered the stretch. His rivals charged on him and he was able to resist all except Blind Brook. This was Blind Brook's fifth victory in 12 starts this year, the big horse having been in the money in his last six tries. His time of 1:51 3-5 for the mile and a sixteenth was creditable.

A finish that rivaled the day's feature for thrills came in the third race. With Navigation and Schley Al out in front of him, Jockey John Hernandez had to fight to get Mariyah some racing room. He finally brought Mariyah in to the rail and the filly won by a nose over Schley Al with Navigation beaten another nose for second money. Mariyah paid $8.60.

Jockey Fined $50

Jockey Hernandez was fined $50 by the stewards for hitting Jockey Vessell with his whip in the jam entering the stretch. Further excitement went with the finish when it was announced that due to the failure of electricity, the finish camera did not operate. The announcement that judges' decision was used brought boos. However, the judges and the chart caller agreed.

The daily double paid $36.50 and involved a pair of 3-1 winners. Misty Eye, owned by J. E. Hughes, took the opener at $8.90 while Small Devil, the property of W. B. Worthington, took the second event at $8.70. Grouchneur proved a very dull favorite in the concluding half of the double and the stewards announced the further entry of the horse would be refused.

Selections at Hagerstown

Dear Al:

Well I got rid of Chief Evergreen. R. L. (Peg) Hanna didn't have anything to worry about so he took over the Chief. I tossed in 100 aspirin tablets. O. D. Smith also separated himself from a headache when he sold Jackfull, a son of Jack High, to T. R. Colbert. Jockey Joe O'Malley was a visitor. He hasn't fully recovered from injuries suffered at Charles Town. Ben Bane Dulaney, our boss, and Hugh Miller, the ace photographer, took in a day of the sport. They came up on the race special and marvelled at the way the bettors were rushed from station to the track by bus with police escort. Miller, the tops as a race photographer, renewed acquaintances with Steward George Brown, Race Secretary Eddie Brennan and other officials. The finish camera used here is the same as that first installed hereabouts and at Pimlico. Mookie, Handy, Sambo, Phoebe Vulture, Phoney, Froggy, Jake the Snake, Stablegram, Alabama Jack, Noisy, Fats the Blacksmith and Crutch are some of the nicknames tacked on characters around the track. I know them all but couldn't give their right names on a bet. Good boys despite those monickers. Betting here was 20 per cent above last year opening day. There is one horse scheduled to come here that gained a new lease on life on the big-time tracks. Trainer Guy Bedwell had four horses ready to turn over to Trainer Bowes Bond. One was Walk On. Bedwell had Walk On in the entries up at Delaware Park and decided to run him. As the horse left the paddock for the track, the veteran trainer patted him on the back and said: "Well, you're a 5-year-old maiden and if you don't win today, you're half-mile track bound." Walk On, evidently knew what he was talking about and won by five lengths. Bedwell changed his mind and shipped him to Empire City. Sealoch, Misty Eye and Conduct were sent here. See you on the rail.

BILL.

First race—The Johnston—Randolph entry of Clay Hill and Teilemoff appears to have this juvenile sprint at its mercy. Either of the pair is capable of turning back the opposition. Valley Creek flashed speed over at the other town and is a threat. Smoke Gal may find a place in the money circle.

Second race—Aster Princess could be the right one in this company. Raced well at Delaware Park and has a bit of class. Small Change knows his way around the sharp turns and is dangerous. Autumn Echo and Counora should be contenders.

Third race—This is a field of non-winners over a distance of ground. Your guess is as good as the next fellow's. Mine is Nancl's Best, So Fong and Night Rider.

Fourth race—Time Her did about everything asked at the other track. Packs enough early speed to overcome the inside post position and I'm going to string along. Highland Song will get an outside gate if in action and is fit. Miss Maker is a threat.

Fifth race—Best Policy seems nicely suited in this company. Gets in with only steadying weight and I'm going to string along. Chalotaur has plenty of foot but may run out at the turns. Schley Goree is dropping down.

Sixth race—Sedate gets my call in this affair. Packs plenty of punch. Quill, with a good rider, would be hard to beat. Brilliant One turned in a fine effort in Delaware and could take it all if able to run back to that performance.

Seventh race — Moon Harvest jogged away from a field at Charles Town and has enough class to win this. Exhort pulled himself when he appeared to have a purse in the making. Sun Voter had poor racing luck last out and is dangerous.

Best bet—Best Policy.

Two Corporate Offerings Made In Washington

$60,000,000 Issue By Texas Corp.; Scovill Offers $10,000,000

After several weeks of inactivity, the new issue corporate market reopened yesterday with two new offerings—$60,000,000 Texas Corporation debentures, and $10,000,000 Scovill Manufacturing Co. debentures.

Yesterday's offerings were the first in the industrial field since mid-May, when the U. S. Steel bonds were marketed. Only one public utility issue has been sold in the interim.

The Texas Corporation issue consists of 3 per cent debentures, due May 15, 1965, offered at 103. The offering syndicate is headed by Dillon, Read & Co. Morgan Stanley & Co. is heading the syndicate offering the Scovill bonds which are due July 1, 1950, carry a 3¼ per cent coupon and are offered at 102.

Underwriters reported that both issues were selling at a premium above the offering price in the open market.

The Scovill debentures were offered at 102 and accrued interest. The Texas Corporation debentures were offered at 103 and accrued interest.

With yesterday's offerings expected to be taken up quickly by investors, the way will be cleared for an offering of $32,000,000 Indianapolis Power & Light Co. 3¼s of 1970, which is now scheduled for marketing Friday.

Three more new issues come out of registration next week. Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. has $50,000,000 of 3s, due 1970, scheduled to be offered by Dillon, Read & Co. on July 18. In addition there are $32,000,000 of International Paper Co. bonds and $2,350,000 Arkansas-Missouri Power Corporation 4s of 1965 slated to complete their SEC incubation period July 20.

Other financing plans are under discussion looking to early registry. United Gas Corporation is considering a $75,000,000 operation and some other proposed issues which were recently laid aside because of poor market conditions will undoubtedly be revived.

Proceeds of the $10,000,000 Scovill debentures are to be applied, $8,100,000 to refund outstanding 5½s and $1,800,000 for plant additions. This issue is the first bond offering of the company since 1930 when $21,000,000 of 5½s were sold.

The $60,000,000 Texas Corporation issues proceeds will be used to refund a like amount of outstanding 3½s.

Washington Loan Elects A. H. Wilson To Directorate

A. Hamilton Wilson, local architect, has been elected a director of the Washington Loan & Trust Co. to fill a vacancy caused by the death of John H. Clapp, President Harry G. Meem announced last night.

Directors of the bank have declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable August 1 to holders of record July 22.

Mr. Meem stated that work has been begun on the new addition to the West End office at Seventeenth and G streets northwest. The wing is expected to be ready for occupancy early in the fall.

Mr. Wilson, the new director, is a grandson of John A. Hamilton who was a director of the bank from 1890 to 1916. Mr. Wilson served as second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Service during the World War and is now adjutant of the Chevy Chase Post, American Legion. He is a member of the Board of Trade, and is on the boards of governors of the Washington Building Congress and the American Institute of Architects.

Decrease Seen In 1940 Crops Of Wheat, Corn

By the Associated Press

Despite prospects of reduced crops of corn, tobacco, wheat, rye and some fruits, the Agriculture Department reported yesterday that conditions on July 1 indicated that the Nation would have ample supplies of most major farm products for the coming season.

The acreage planted for harvest, appears, the department said, to be the fourth smallest since 1915. Factors contributing to this reduction were said to include Federal programs under which farmers were offered benefit payments to reduce plantings of some of the major crops of which there are above-average supplies.

Sharp Tobacco Cut

The sharpest reduction was indicated for tobacco, a product whose European market has been virtually closed. The department forecast this year's crop at 1,291,685,000 pounds, or 30 per cent smaller than last year's record production.

The Midwest's important corn crop was forecast at 2,415,988,000 bushels or about 8 per cent below the 1939 harvest of 2,619,137,000 bushels, but 5 per cent larger than the ten-year (1928-1937) average of 2,299,342,000 bushels.

The indicated wheat production was placed at 728,644,000 bushels compared with last year's crop of 754,971,000 bushels and the ten-year average of 754,685,000 bushels. The 1940 crop estimate included 523,990,000 bushels of winter wheat, 34,954,000 bushels of Durham wheat and 169,700,000 bushels of other spring wheat.

Record Grain Surplus

Supplementing the prospective smaller grain yields will be a record surplus of about 675,000,000 bushels of corn and about 300,000,000 bushels of wheat from previous years.

While stating that crops had made a good start and that conditions on July 1 were substantially better than a year ago, the department pointed out that during the first ten days of July rainfall had been reported as deficient in most of the area from Illinois westward, and that a large part of the South had received too much rain.

Crops for which larger yields were indicated were soybeans, potatoes, flaxseed, rice, beans, barley and such livestock feed crops as oats, tame hay and sorghum. The hay crop promises, the department said, to be the lightest since 1927.

Larger-than-average production of the major fruit and nut crops were indicated, although larger crops of pears, plums and citrus fruits are expected to be offset by smaller production of commercial apples, peaches, grapes, cherries, prunes, apricots, walnuts and almonds.

Indicated production of important crops, based on their July 1 condition, was estimated as follows: (with comparative figures for last year and the 1929-1938 ten-year average.)

Barley, 287,377,000 bushels, against 276,296,000 and 225,490,000.

Rye, 36,848,000 bushels, against 39,249,000 and 38,095,000.

Flaxseed, 29,801,000 bushels, against 20,330,000 and 10,846,000.

Potatoes, 371,263,000 bushels, against 360,992,000 and 366,949,000.

Sweet potatoes, 68,800,000 bushels, against 72,679,000 and 72,436,000.

Tobacco, 1,291,685,000 pounds, against 1,848,654,000 and 1,360,661,000.

Peaches, 52,436,000 bushels, against 60,822,000 and 52,723,000.

Pears, 31,840,000 bushels, against 31,047,000 and 26,333,000.

Grapes, 2,422,000 tons, against 2,471,000 and 2,220,000.

Corn (for grain), 862,474,000 bushels, or 36.5 per cent of previous year's crop, compared with 849,765,000 and 36.9 a year ago, and 811,942,000 and 20.1, the ten-year average.

Oats, 143,741,000 bushels, or 15.3 per cent, compared with 167,713,000 and 17.6 a year ago, and 184,395,000 and 14.5.

Wheat (old crop), 85,521,000 bushels, or 11.3 per cent, compared with 90,372,000 and 9.7, and 55,165,000 and 7.4.

Condition on July 1 of certain crops for which the indicated yield was not given, and comparative figures for a year ago, were: Apples, 59 per cent or a normal, against 64 a year ago; peaches, 60 and 69; pears, 68 and 63; grapes, 78 and 85; pasture, 83 and 78; peanuts, 80 and 73.

Quota Reduced 10%

The 1941-42 quota for the flue-cured tobacco crop has been set at 556,000,000 pounds, a decrease of 10 per cent from the quota in effect on the 1940 crop, the Department of Agriculture announced.

Provision is made, however, for an increase up to 618,000,000 pounds if tobacco growers vote in the coming referendum in favor of adopting marketing quotas for a three-year period, 1941 through 1943, instead of for only the coming year. A two-thirds majority of the vote is necessary for adoption of quotas.

Corn Grind Declines

A corn grind of 5,158,366 bushels during June for products going into domestic use was reported through the Corn Industries Research Foundation in behalf of 11 refiners of starches, syrups, sugars and other products of corn. This compares with a grind of 6,523,729 bushels in the previous month and 5,414,489 bushels in June, 1939.

Heat and Ennui Reign as Security Traders Ignore Favorable News, Allow List to Drift

New York, July 10.—Wall Street was allergic to the heat and ennui that goes with humidity and midsummer today. The fact that business is in a contra-seasonal upswing appears to make no difference to trader sentiment. Prospects for unprecedented activity in industry resulting from superimposing national defense work and requirements on top of an already busy schedule for the normal needs of the country, are consequently ignored or largely so.

This was the situation again today. Equities were in an irregular decline with volume not far from the 20-year bottom and only in a few instances were price changes in stocks worth noting.

Foreign Exchange Active

Foreign exchange dealings produced some significant changes. Sterling was off 4 cents which was rather less than its average daily fluctuation in recent weeks. Portuguese and Argentine exchanges were strong, the former at a new high. Presumably this reflects British business and purchases affecting her oldest ally. Demand for Buenois Aires funds probably reflects bids for trade coming from numerous sources, including United States, Britain, Japan and Germany, as well as talk of a loan by the United States. Weakness in Hongkong and Shanghai dollars attended the latest flare-up because of the arrest of Japanese by American marines.

Prominence of utility shares in the active list with gains in senior issues in the Group A standout, provided a mildly cheerful circumstance against the background of lower quotations for steels, metals and rails, as well as an assortment of manufacturing specialties, in which division war shares are plentiful. Electric Power & Light $7 preferred, which had been a good gainer on Tuesday, led the list on sales at an advance of 2⅜. Electric Power & Light $5 preferred and the common, American Power & Light, Columbia Gas & Electric, all were among the 15 top stocks for the day at better prices.

Oil Shares in Demand

Announcement from the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey's management that profit for the first half of 1940 will be around $85,000,000, instead of above $70,000,000, as forecast five weeks ago, brought out a good demand for the shares. The close on Jersey was 34⅜, up 1⅜, with the issue second most active for the session.

White Rock, one of the low-priced shares, came in for a flurry and was up ⅝. Packard and General Motors were well ahead in the automobile division, but Chrysler was unchanged. American Telephone, at its low of 158¼, was off nearly 2. It came back half a point before the close. Declines of a point or more were noted in Allied Chemical, American Airlines, Bethlehem Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Inland Steel, Ingersoll-Rand, Philip Morris and Norfolk & Western. The latter was off 3½. Commonwealth & Southern preferred was up 3 on a few transactions.

The mild slump in steels occurred in the face of a bullish review by the Iron Age, which estimated that as soon as defense program orders start rolling and more normal requirements for auto makers, the railroads and construction are in evidence, steelmakers will be forced to use all available output facilities.

Statistics for business were mostly for the Independence Day week'end and they showed expected declines. The statistics from the oil industry, published overnight, were favorable. Refinery gasoline stocks went down again—nearly 2,000,000 barrels this time—and the total on hand July 6 was around the six-month low Power production was, of course, down from the last week of June but remained substantially higher than for the like 1939 week.

Bonds Hold Firm

Listed bonds were firm today, with dealings still on a small scale. United States Treasury securities moved upward a few thirty-seconds of a point while full terms were awaited on the new issue of $650,000,000. Best grade corporate issues held their ground, although interest was centered on the new flotations, which went quite well. Speculative groups were well maintained in most instances, and some bonds moved 1 to 2 points higher. Turnover amounted to $4,390,000.

In the foreign section Australian and Canadian bonds advanced somewhat. French 7½s dropped another 5 points, while German issues were dull. Norwegians improved sharply, but Danish and Belgian bonds merely idled. Italian 7s advanced sharply, and other Italians also were strong. The Latin-American list reflected a little choosy buying.

Speculative railroad bonds continued their slow but persistent improvement, in the corporate department. Local tractions were slightly higher, along with New York City unification obligations. Some industrial issues did well.

Chicago Livestock

Chicago, July 10 (AP).—Hog prices declined for the second session today after reaching the year's top of $7 Monday. Today's top was $6.65. Cattle were weak to 25 cents lower. The sheep market was almost at a stalemate, with a few bids 25 cents lower for spring lambs.

The hog market was moderately active and prices were steady to 10 cents lower.

Today's cattle run included a liberal supply of choice kind, with the general killing quality being unusually attractive.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.—SALABLE HOGS—Receipts 15,000, total 21,000. Moderately active; steady to 10 lower than Tuesday's average. Top 6.65 freely; bulk good and choice, 200-270 pounds, 6.25@6.65; 270-300 pounds largely 6.00@6.35; some 300-330-pound averages 5.75@6.10; good packing sows, 360 pounds down, mostly 5.25@5.65, few 5.75; heavier kinds generally 4.60@5.15, nominal.

SALABLE SHEEP—Receipts 4,000, total 8,000; practically no trading. Bidding 25 or more lower or around 10.00 on spring lambs, lightly sorted or straight; still holding best sorted lambs 10.35 and above; fat sheep and yearlings weak to unevenly lower.

SALABLE CATTLE—Receipts 12,000; calves 1,000; steer and yearling run mostly long-fed offerings; general killing quality being unusually attractive; liberal supply choice cattle here; largely steer and heifer run; cows scarce; not many bulls in run; yearlings and light steers weak to 25 lower; better grades off most; medium weights and weight steers 25 lower; kinds recently selling at 10.25@11.50 showing the most decline; numerous loads sold early at 10.00@11.00; best 11.25, with 11.50 bid on strictly choice steers and around 12.50 on prime Nebraska specialties; bulk medium weights and weighty steers unsold; best steer yearlings 11.10 scaling 1,000 pounds; little to killers under 9.00; heifers steady to 25 lower; best fed heifers early 10.65; cows slow, steady; bulls strong to 15 higher; heavy sausage offerings 7.40; vealers steady at 10.25 down, few 10.50.

Boston Wool

Boston, July 10 (AP).—(U. S. Dept. of Agr.).—The wool market was stagnant today. Users were showing no interest in buying raw wools except an occasional small quality to piece out carload lots of country-packed three-eighths and quarter-bloods bright fleeces were available at 39@40 cents in the grease, delivered to users, but only an occasional sale was recorded. Most users of these wools were out of the market. Good French combing length, fine territory wools in original bags, were available at 80@83 cents, scoured basis, but these asking prices were above buyers' ideas of prices.

Way Is Paved For SEC Rule Of Trust Firms

House Action Expected Next Week on Bill Sponsored by Cole

By the Associated Press

The Rules Committee opened the way yesterday for House action on a bill sponsored by Representative Cole (Democrat), Maryland, to place investment trust companies under control of the Securities Commission.

House leaders may arrange consideration of the measure soon after the end of next week's recess for the Democratic National Convention.

The bill provides for the SEC registration of investment companies, and the SEC may require of them the same information required for registering securities under the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

Commission officials, who collaborated with investment trust officials in preparing the legislation, said such companies were not included in previous enactments because there had been, until recently, insufficient information about them.

Representative Cole told the Rules Committee that $3,000,000,000 of a total investment of $7,000,000,000 had been wholly lost to small investors in such firms since 1925.

One section of the measure would prevent formation of an investment trust firm unless it had at least $100,000 through private subscription prior to any public offering. The commission said this provision was designed to "put a brake on the irresponsible formation" of such firms.

N. Y. Air Brake Net Increases 4-Fold in Half

Earnings of $832,818 Equal $3.21 a Share; 83-Cent Net in 1939

By the Associated Press

New York, July 10.—New York Air Brake Co. today reported net profit for the six months ended June 30 of $832,818, equal to $3.21 a common share, compared with $216,291, or 83 cents on common, in the first half of 1939.

Devoe & Raynolds Co., paint manufacturers, and subsidiaries showed a net loss of $112,785 for the six months ended May 31, compared with profit of $105,594, or 46 cents a common share, in the comparable period a year earlier. S. E. Phillips, president, said gross profit during the second half of the year should be larger owing to decreased manufacturing costs and increased selling prices.

Rayonier Inc. and wholly owned subsidiary earned net profit of $2,569,466 in the fiscal year ended April 30, equal after annual dividend requirements on $4 preferred stock (in arrears $1.50 a share in July this year) to $1.18 a common. This compared with $1,176,647, or $1.68 on preferred, in the preceding year.

Duseks Invade Park Tonight

Rassle Show Will Benefit Toy Fund

'Baby' Joe Assigned To Avenge Family Honor With Terror; All 4 to Appear

Wrestling's first family, the four Dusek brothers, or the "riot squad," if you must, will invade Griffith Stadium tonight to appear in a quadruple-header show for the benefit of the children's toy fund.

Rudy, aging chieftain of the family of groan artists; Ernie, the villain of the piece; Emil and Joe, the "baby," make up the foursome.

To Joe goes the task of "avenging" the family honor against Bob (The Golden Terror) Weatherly. The Dusek escutcheon was besmirched when the Terror twice defeated Rudy here.

Ernie draws Lou Plummer, the Baltimore contortion specialist. Emil meets Paul Jones, and Rudy takes on Reb Russell to complete the picture. Opening the show at 8:30 will be Thor Johanson and Ed Newman.

At Home With the Four Duseks

Johnny Vergez Has Oakland In 2d Place

Perennial Cellar Team in Coast Loop Is Pennant Bound

By the Associated Press

San Francisco, July 10.—There's a man who appears destined to become the "miracle manager" of minor league baseball for 1940.

He's an old war horse of the majors named Johnny Vergez, and until a better record is produced his ability to keep Oakland up in the pennant race is one of the amazing feats of the Pacific Coast League season.

For more years than Oakland fans care to remember their teams have had a strangle hold on last place. Baseball men looked for Oakland's standing by reading from the bottom up.

Seventh Last Year

The 1939 club, first year of the Vergez managerial administration, finished in seventh place, a notch above Portland. Before firing opened this season, predictions were fast and furious for another next to last finish.

On paper, even now, the Oaks seem weaker than the proverbial boarding house coffee, in fact, only Portland shapes up less impressively. To repeat, this is on paper, not the diamond.

In contrast to this seemingly fragile makeup, the Oaks have been forged into a rip-roaring squad of baseball gangsters, quick to see and seize any opportunity to put the snatch on a stray run. Turning into the second half of the season they have behind them a record of having battled for first place since the start. At times they were leading the circuit. In second place now, trailing Seattle, they're not too far back to be counted out of the running.

Played in Majors

As a third-sacker with the Giants, Phillies and Cardinals, Vergez was noted as a hustler. He's turned over the 30-year mark and is still hustling. So are his players. Vergez' success is measured over a policy rule which makes him one of the boys, not an overlord. Until three weeks ago, when he was wooed by a case of the mumps, he was filling in at third or shortstop as a sideline to his manager's job.

At the plate his team reminds observers of the "hitless wonders" who paraded in Chicago White Sox uniforms years back. The Oaks are seventh in team hitting and first in spirit, with all deference to the league-leading Seattle crew.

Good pitching has been an important factor. Good management is responsible for a baseball accomplishment thus far the parallel to which might be the difficult feat of making a silk purse out of a sow's ear. In other words, Vergez is doing a swell job in case his old major league friends are interested.

New Hearings Set On July 25 for 5 Ninth St. Taverns

Hearings on the five Ninth street taverns alleged to have sold alcoholic beverages to a minor will be resumed July 25 at 9 a. m. before the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

The minor, a 17-year-old Virginia high school girl, appeared last week as the sole witness against the five license holders. She is now in a Roanoke, Va., sanatorium.

Up before the board are the Ninth Street Tavern, 931 Ninth street northwest, to be heard at 9 a. m.; New York Lunch, 943 Ninth street northwest, at 10 a. m.; Carroll's Tavern, 510 Ninth street northwest, at 11 a. m.; David Moy Kee, 929 Ninth street northwest, at 2 p. m., and James Lake, 513 Ninth street northwest, at 3 p. m.

$784,943 'Assets' Bought for $1,200

John W. Hardell, 1334 New York avenue northwest, bought a block of assets of the closed Federal American National Bank & Trust Co. for $1,200 in the District Court yesterday.

If Hardell could collect the book value of the thick pile of securities, he would have $784,943.49 with considerable interest. However, the assets are regarded as virtually worthless.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue approved the sale, after Receiver Frederic J. Young reported the $1,200 was an increase from a $931 offer.

Pro Tennis Ready to Aid The Red Cross

Vinnie Richards Says Pro Team May Take Part in 4-Day Open

By the Associated Press

New York, July 10.—Tennis Professional Vinnie Richards, the former internationalist, said today he was "sure pro tennis stands ready to aid the Red Cross" by participating in a four-day open tennis tournament.

Richards suggested a pro team of Don Budge, Bill Tilden, Fred Perry, Ellsworth Vines, Lester Stoefen, Bruce Barnes, Keith Gledhill, Berkeley Bell, Dick Skene and Richards meet amateurs Bobby Riggs, Frank Parker, Don McNeill, Welby Van Horn, Wayne Sabin, Elwood Cooke, Bitsy Grant, Gardnar Mulloy, Gil Hunt and Henry Prusoff.

Richards said the match might be staged at Forest Hills August 30 to September 2 "without violating the code of the International Tennis Federation."

Richard said "every cent taken in at the gate would be turned over to the Red Cross and it would be a tennis show the country would never forget."

Dog-Gone Tough On Salisbury Dogs

Salisbury, Md., July 10 (AP).—It's going to be dog-gone tough on dogs here if the city council's new control ordinance goes through.

The council estimated there was one dog for every four people in Salisbury, so it has started its control ordinance toward enactment.

As drawn by City Solicitor Charles Potts, the ordinance would call for license fees, tags, a dog catcher and penalties for failure to comply with the law. A 50-cent pickup fee and a 35 cents a day board bill will be charged owners recovering their dogs from the pound.

C. J. Decker Heads National Gliding Contest

By the Associated Press

Elmira, N. Y., July 10.—Chester J. Decker, of Glen Rock, N. J., national soaring champion, increased his lead in the eleventh national soaring contest today with a 101-mile flight as 98 flights were reported.

Decker made the hop in four hours. His nearest rival, John Robinson, of San Diego, Calif., Western soaring champion, sailed 55 miles in 1 hour 48 minutes.

The day's second longest flight was made by 17-year-old Richard H. Johnson, of Los Angeles, Calif., youngest contestant. Johnson sailed 92 miles to Walton in 4 hours 27 minutes.

Howard C. Blossom, of Clayton, Mo., who soared 20 miles to Vanetten, badly damaged the nose of his plane in landing.

Stanley Smith, of Tonawanda, with a passenger glider, soared 4,200 feet to qualify for an award for greatest altitude with a passenger.

Other flights of more than 10 miles were made by William Putnam, Highland Park, Mich., 21 miles to Waverly, and Robert L. Buell, Omaha, Nebr., 13 miles to Erin.

Franklin, Jr., Spurns Chance To Act in Movies

Hollywood, July 10 (AP).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., turned down an opportunity to become a movie actor.

Young Roosevelt was watching the filming of a scene at Columbia studios. Ben Hecht, producer-director-writer, approached and said:

"You're just the type I've been looking for. You're got Robert Taylor and the other Hollywood boys licked a mile for looks and personality. How about it?"

"No, thanks," replied Roosevelt. "It looks too complicated."

Post-Industrial Loop First-Half Winners Win Wierd Game

Heurich Brewers, winners of the first half title in The Washington Post-Industrial League, defeated Reliance Life, 9-6, yesterday despite a 16-hit performance by the losers.

The game was a weird affair that went six scoreless innings after the first. The Brewers, trailing, 4-3, in the eighth, opened up with six runs for the victory. They were held to eleven hits by Reliance Pitcher Royell, while Lacy and Downes allowed the losers 16, including two doubles.

Cambridge to Hold Sixth Annual Regatta Tomorrow

Many Classes Carded for Two-Day Event on Maryland's Choptank River

Special Dispatch to The Post

Cambridge, Md., July 9.—Cambridge is in the hands of beauticians who are "glamourizing" her for the sixth annual regatta of the Cambridge Yacht Club, which starts a two-day racing program on Friday morning.

Knockabouts, scrappy cats, comets, snipes, moths, Chesapeake Bay log canoes, racing sloops, cutters, yawls, schooners and Hamptons will paint a colorful picture on the Choptank River during the sailing events Friday. Saturday the spray will fly when the outboards and inboards tear around for honors. Local sportsmen are looking to Earl W. Orem, jr., son of former Mayor Orem, to show these "foreigners" something. He recently won first prize in the New Jersey State championship for Pacific one-design hydroplanes at Lake Hopatong. He averaged 41.6 miles an hour on the 5-mile course in three heats.

George C. Cannon, of New Rochelle, N. Y., has wired that he hopes to set a new world's record in the Gray Goose, 225-cubic inch hydroplane. Edison Hedges, nationally known racer, will enter his Little Eagle, in the 125-inch class.

Many well-known sportsmen in the nautical world will be here. Among them is Harry E. Smith, of Washington, vice president of the President's Cup Regatta; Erich Greenlee, of Washington, and Dr. Basche Gill, also of Washington, president of the District branch, American Power Boat Association. He will accompany his son, Junior, who will be among the contestants in the midget outboards.

Lefty Brown Wins Midwest Net Feature

Beats Frank Ragen In Standout Match; Local Hope Victor

By the Associated Press

Omaha, Nebr., July 10.—Top Seeded Ed "Lefty" Brown, Southwestern champ from Baylor, Texas, whisked past Omaha's Frank Ragen, 6—2, 6—1, in the standout match of the Midwest Tennis Tournament today.

Gayle Kellogg, Omaha, the local hope for the championship, outlasted Al Calvert, Crete, Nebr., High School principal, 6—3, 6—2, then paired with Jack Ringwalt to turn back Lou Gerdes, Grand Island, Nebr., and Glen Metcalfe, St. Joseph, Mo., 7—5, 6—1.

Wayne Anderson, Shenandoah, Iowa, beat the best in the junior division, Jim Reedy, Omaha, 6—2, 6—3.

In the women's division Mickey McPherson, Omaha, won from Mary O. Lewis, St. Louis, Mo., 6—0, 6—2. Helen Gruchalla, Jamestown, N. Dak., turned back Charlotte Beisser, Des Moines, 6—0, 6—2. Helen Dyer, Springfield, Mo., last year's doubles champ, defeated Muriel Wicks, Bismarck, N. Dak., 6—0, 7—5.

Dorothy Harris Dies in Hospital

Dorothy Gertrude Harris, 20, of 1217 Seventeenth street northeast, died yesterday at Garfield Hospital following an illness of seven weeks.

A graduate of Western High School, Miss Harris was active in the Maryland Avenue Baptist Church, where she was also a member of the Young People's Society. She leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Harris; a brother, Richard, and a sister, Marie. Her father is attached to the Metropolitan Police Detective Bureau.

Services will be held Saturday at the church, Fourteenth street and Maryland avenue northeast, with burial in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Red Cross to Hold First-Aid Courses

The first class in the ten-week Red Cross course in the first aid will be held tonight at 7 p. m. at the Silver Spring (Md.) Volunteer Fire Department Hall, under the auspices of the Silver Spring Branch of the Montgomery County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Under the direction of Earl Culver, instructor, the course is open to men and women of the community. It will be held every Thursday night. Mrs. John B. Matre, chairman of the branch, has appointed John Cole, captain of the Silver Spring Fire Department, as chairman of first aid and rescue work.

Estate to Sell Clapp Stamps

The coin and stamp collection of the late John H. Clapp, described as one of the country's finest, will be sold shortly by his executor and trustee, the Washington Loan & Trust Co. The collection was part of Mr. Clapp's $750,000 estate, which was placed in trust by his will, probate of which was asked in the District Court yesterday.

The trust was for the benefit of Mr. Clapp's sisters, Alice J. Clapp and Mrs. Frances C. Hall, and other relatives.

Normandie's Designer Here, May Aid U. S.

Comes to Confer With Defense Officers On Shipbuilding

Capt. Vladimir Yourkevitch, who designed the French liner Normandie, may help Uncle Sam draw up plans for his two-ocean Navy.

Yourkevitch

The captain, late of the Imperial Russian navy and recently consultant of the French navy, was here yesterday to confer with national defense officers about the American shipbuilding program, a development taken to mean that his talents are at the Government's disposal.

It was Capt. Yourkevitch, who designed the first of the "minimum resistance" ships, the principles of which were followed in later construction of French warships. "Streamlined" is what the layman calls them.

Yourkevitch also planned, for the French government, a luxury liner with offset funnels, which could be converted quickly into an aircraft carrier. The French never built one of those, but the United States Maritime Commission asked for bids on two 35,000-ton liners of similar design last February.

Capt. Yourkevitch left Russia suddenly after the revolution and worked for the Turkish government before going to France. Three years ago he came to New York, set up a ship-designing firm and took out first citizenship papers.

He was stopping at the Mayflower Hotel with his associate, A. N. Chernow.

N. J. Standard Oil Net Expected to Hit $85,000,000

New York, July 10 (AP).—Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey earned about $85,000,000, or $3.19 a common share, in the first half of the year, or roughly $15,000,000 more than forecast by W. S. Farish, president, on June 4, at the annual meeting, the company estimated today.

Foreign earnings were not included in the estimate because of war dislocations.

"It is not to be expected that the second half-year will produce any such earnings," the company declared.

"Although in the United States the volume of sales has increased, profit margins have been reduced. In Europe the volume of business has recently been greatly curtailed. Exports both of crude and products have progressively declined."

The company added military operations had probably damaged European properties, but such losses were not considered in the first-half prediction.

This is the first time the big oil concern has made an interim earnings report.

Cotton Jumps 45-85 Cents On Crop News

Wheat Moves in Rut; Corn Turns Strong; Sugar Buoyant

By the Associated Press

A decisive rise in cotton at New York high-lighted trade yesterday in major futures markets.

Reports of crop damage by unfavorable weather spurred demand for cotton and prices rose 5 to 85 cents a bale. Even the July delivery, which broke sharply Tuesday, rallied with the rest of the list.

Wheat rounded out a nervous session at New York ¼ cent a bushel lower to ¾ higher. Corn displayed independent strength with gains of ¾ to 1 cent on reports of crop deterioration.

European purchase of raw sugar stimulated demand for futures.

Among losing staples at New York were lead, Santos coffee, cocoa, rubber and hides. Cottonseed oil, wool tops and silk moved unevenly.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale spot commodities, based on 1926 as 180, declined to 71.43 to 71.63 Tuesday.

Wheat List Steadies

Chicago, July 10 (AP).—Pessimistic reports about the domestic spring wheat and corn crops helped to steady wheat prices and advance corn quotations about a cent a bushel today.

Offsetting these reports, however, were messages telling of scattered rains, mostly in North Dakota and northern Minnesota, and the official forecast predicting probable showers and cooler weather over most of the belt.

Wheat uctuated nervously in a range of more than a cent, but was fractionally lower most of the session. Persistent hedging sales in connection with movement of the new crop kept the market under pressure. Closing prices, however, were ¼ cent lower to ⅛ higher, compared with yesterday's finish: July, 74⅛@74¼; September, 75¾@75½.

Corn closed ¾ to 1 cent higher; July, 62; September 59¼@59¾. Oats unchanged to ¼ cent up. Rye, ¾ to 1 cent higher, and lard 3 cents lower to 3 cents higher.

Many traders confined operations to adjustment of accounts before release of the Government crop report. Export sales of 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to Great Britain were reported.

Nazis Foresee Naval Clash Off Martinique

Press Contends Britain Is Only Threat to Monroe Doctrine

Copyright by New York Times

Berlin, July 10.—The presence of British warships near Martinique has been the subject of considerable cynical comment by the German press.

The Germans foresee the imminent possibility of a clash between British and French naval units there, with American warships as "observers." In such a clash, the Germans declare, their contention that England alone threatens to violate the Monroe Doctrine would be fulfilled.

Such a situation withing the borders of the American security zone, the Germans declare, cannot help but affect the discussions at the Pan American conference to be held at Havana beginning July 20.

"The tenor of the conference," writes the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, "will to a certain extent be influenced by the discrepancy between the emphasized Anglophile policy at Washington and the reality in the Caribbean Sea."

Under these circumstances, the newspaper continues, there will not be the right mood for the United States to "denounce" the German pre-war economic position in South America as "economic penetration and take the initiative in fighting it."

Washington's economic project, the Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung says, if accepted by the South American states, would be synonymous with the most massive economic penetration by the United States."

South America would have to sacrifice its trade agreements to a new cartel, "subject itself to 100 per cent control in the style of the old and notorious dollar imperialism and, furthermore, accept production quotas from Washington."

A possibility for the "future living together of continents," the newspaper continues, is offered by the German policy of viewing inter-American events disinterestedly. "If on the morrow the slogans of the Democratic convention in Chicago and the Havana conference place the British fate before the American," it concludes, "then responsible men there will not, in any case, forget that France's fate was sealed in six weeks. There is still more than a quarter of a year before the Presidential election in America. In the meantime, a decision in Europe will not be long in coming."

Security Agency Names New General Counsel

The resignation of Fowler V. Harper as general counsel and the appointment of Jack B. Tate as his successor were announced yesterday by the Federal Security Agency.

Harper will return to his post as professor of law at Indiana University. Tate has been associate counsel.

Contract Bridge

By Florence Osborne.

Writes E. MacD. Stanton, jr.:

"Several times in the past my partner and I have gotten into trouble using the Blackwood convention when no trump has been the agreed declaration, in that it has been impossible to sign off at five trump because of partner's interpretation of the five no trump as asking for kings. This defect can readily be cured by the bidder of four no trump after his partner responds showing fewer aces than necessary for a slam, bidding a higher unbid suit, his partner then bidding the five no trump.

"Probably some one has already thought of this, but I have never seen it mentioned. The accompanying hand is an example of this bidding."

Today's Radio Highlights

1 P. M., WMAL—Margaret Culkin Banning, the authoress who has taken to the air with effective results, offers a five-point salient on "Civil Preparedness," the third of her series, It Looks From Here.

7, WRC—"The Ruminating Horned Quadruped With Long Hair" is recited by Baby Snooks Fanny Brice while Mary Martin swings "Tit-Willow" from "The Mikado" on Good News.

7:15, WOL—Cesare Sodero conducts his orchestra in "The Deluge" of Camille Saint-Saens and "Pitres Napolitains" of Vincent D'Indy.

7:30, WRC—Henry Aldrich and his pal, Homer, go into the hot dog and soda pop business to finance an auto of indeterminate age and questionable origin.

9:15, WJSV—Acting Secretary of War Louis Johnson tells how the Government is "Rounding Out the Army Program."

9:30, WMAL—Jean Morel conducts another of Les Concerts Symphonies in Montreal. Andre Mathieu's Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, with the composer at the piano, is a highlight on a program which also lists Rimsky-Korsokov's "Caprice Espagnol" and Liszt's "Les Preludes."

9:30, WOL—"Tom Brown's School Days," with Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Freddie Bartholomew and Jimmy Lydon in the roles which they will eventually play on RKO-Keith's screen, is a forecast of Mutual's plan to present "Movie Nights" with current films and their stars on the widespread network.

10, WOL—"Ghosts," and not Ibsen's great play, either, is offered on WOL Presents. This local effort is by scripter Bill McCormick and directed by Frank Blair.

10:15, WRC—Representative Frederick C. Smith (Republican), Ohio, asks "Compulsory Military Training—for What?"

10:30, WJSV—Arthur Fleming talks of Civil Service and "National Defense Jobs."

Pity the dilemma of poor A. D. Willard, jr., WJSV's general manager and golfer extraordinary. It seems he has (a) either got to stop being so good at the ancient and honorable game, or (b) start smoking at a pace never before approached by man, or (c), a final alternative, just persuade country club committees to stop awarding cigarette cases as prizes in golf tournaments. Up to last week-end the redoubtable Mr. Willard's wardrobe contained only 17 such useful and ornamental impedimenta, honestly won in greensward battles. Came the week-end, came another tournament, and came the inevitable prize—another cigarette case for Mr. Willard. The fact came to our attention not through any violent acts on the part of the aforementioned gentleman, just a plaintive and resigned commentary as he lighted another cigarette.

A few weeks ago C. B. S.'s comedian Al Pearce started to carry out a plan he'd had for a long time. That was to scout around the country, listen to radio talent which had thus far been heard only on local stations, and, then, if he was impressed, to give it a chance to show off on his network show. His first such guest was Swing Singer Bonnie King from Kansas City's KMBC. Band leader Bob Crosby heard the broadcast and—shucks, maybe you've guessed—Bonnie, as a result, is now doing a series of network airshows as Crosby's vocalist.

Center Backed By 11 Churches Opens Monday

Big Residence Rented On New Hampshire Ave. To Serve Neighborhood

When the door of Hampshire House swings open Monday at 1106 New Hampshire avenue northwest, "an area with a shortage of recreation facilities" will have a new and long-sought neighborhood center.

Mrs. Warren A. Gardner, chairman of the First Ward Neighborhood Council, yesterday revealed plans in which 11 churches, several other organizations and numerous citizens are cooperating.

A three-story residence has been rented as a center for leisure-time activities "for all age groups," and there is enough financial backing to see the project through the summer.

Piano Is Donated

Although the center is starting with limited equipment, someone has already donated a piano. And another individual has given benches and chairs for the children's rooms.

Miss Bessie Baker has been appointed full-time director, to be assisted by volunteer workers for the present. The area to be served by the center is bounded by Florida avenue, Sixteenth street, the Potomac River and Rock Creek.

Mrs. James C. Byrnes has been elected chairman of the board, with Mrs. Paul Gross as treasurer. Miss Margaret Nicol is acting as secretary.

Cooperating Churches

The Guild of St. John's Church sponsored the organization of the center and enlisted the interest and financial support of various churches in the neighborhood. The following sent representatives or funds or both: St. John's Church, St. Thomas' Church, St. Margaret's Church, St. Matthew's Church, St. Stephen's Church, Foundry Methodist Church, Union Methodist Church, First Baptist Church, Church of the Pilgrims, Covenant-First Presbyterian Church and Friends Meeting.

The Council of Social Agencies, George Washington University, the Federation of Churches and the Neighborhood Council have representatives acting as advisers. Each church which furnished support has a representative on the board of directors.

The new center will hold open house Sunday, July 21.

Mother's Suicide Attempt Kills Her Six Children

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

A FUTILE TASK—Police try in vain to revive six children killed yesterday by gas as a result of what police said was a suicide attempt by their mother, Mrs. Louise Nicosia, who was overcome but recovered. This was the scene behind the family's New York apartment as a rescue squad worked over the children, whose ages range from 4 to 12. The mother was charged with homicide

Windsors to Hear War Echoes in the Bahamas

By the Associated Press

Nassau, Bahamas, July 10.—The Duke of Windsor, newly-appointed governor general of the Bahamas, will hear many echoes in these tiny colonial islands of the European war's worldwide reverberations.

This colony is within a few hundred miles of the French island of Martinique, where British naval units are hovering about an important segment of the French fleet.

Several hundred English refugee children will be guests for the war's duration of Nassau's 20,000 inhabitants.

Funds are being raised to buy planes and ambulances. War metals are being gathered and shipped to England.

Colonies to Be Developed

New York, July 10 (AP).—The appointment of the Duke of Windsor as governor of the Bahamas is the beginning of a $280,000,000 British colonial development and welfare program, says Maj. W. E. Stimnett, London editor here on a special mission for the British colonial department.

The undertaking, he said, was authorized by Parliament last May, but remained a virtual secret because of the pressure of war.

He said the program calls for the development of social and public services and economic resources in all of Britain's 40 colonies, with special attention directed toward the British West Indies.

Aged Woman Gives Savings To Red Cross

Soldier's Daughter, 83, Sends $50 She Had Set Aside for Taxes

"I am sending you a check for $50 for the Red Cross fund," began a letter received yesterday at American Red Cross headquarters here. "How I wish I could send more. Have been sick the last few days. I am 83 years old.

"My father was a soldier in the Civil War. So was my husband, Henry Plowman. And I am only trying to carry on. That I know is what they would want me to do. I feel the Red Cross can help more than any other way.

"I'll Do All I Can"

"My father came from Exeter, England, when he was 20 years old and my mother from Norway, so my heart bleeds for both of these countries. How I wish I had the strength I had 40 years ago. But I will do all I can.

"I have taken the money I saved for taxes to send to the Red Cross, for they can carry on and do what I have not the strength to do."

The letter was signed by Mrs. Henry Plowman, of Hobart, Minn. Her $50 check and another for $500 from the American colony at Guantanamo, Cuba, brought the national collection figure to $18,565,366.

Meantime, Chairman Norman H. Davis announced that a trainload of food is en route from Geneva to the unoccupied part of France for distribution to needy children. Two Red Cross representatives, H. Sherburne House and George Milson, are aboard the train, which is loaded with 94 tons of condensed milk, dried milk, chocolate, cheese, ham and various baby foods.

More on Way

Additional supplies bought with American money will be distributed as soon as they are unloaded from the Red Cross mercy ship McKeesport, at Marseille. The vessel is now en route from Bilbao, Spain.

A cable yesterday from Richard F. Allen, American Red Cross delegate to Europe, reported a desperate need for baby foods in southern France. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor cabled from Paris that he and American volunteers are giving emergency medical relief to sick and wounded children, civilians and soldiers in the region around the former French capital.
